STEEL MERGER COUNSEL KILLS SELF

Today

Gambling Never Pays.
Providence Provides.
We Talk of Drink.
G. W. Hill Advertises.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

CHARLES H. WATERS, his savings gone, killed his wife, his daughter and himself.

The money went in stock gambling.

Gambling causes suicides, ruin, poverty, sorrow.

Bootleg whisky causes some suicides, many murders.

Leave stock gambling and bootlegging alone and you will be able to celebrate each Fourth of July cheerfully.

THE KINDNESS of Providence supplies us with things when we need them. The ravens fed Elijah.

After the Napoleonic wars Europe, heavily in debt, faced long poverty.

Then came steam power, debts were paid, prosperity was great.

Kings and nobles in steel armor enjoyed leading miserable peasants to war. The latter were left dead, the nobles in their armor rode back. Then gunpowder and bullets went through the armor, nobles and kings went home, wars became less frequent.

THE AUTOMOBILE made gigantic supplies of gasoline necessary. The country yields so much oil the oil men don't know what to do with it.

Finally, in flying, clouds and fogs, out of sight of land, make necessary information in mid-ocean.

And the radio supplies it. The fliers arriving from Ireland say that without the guiding radio they could not have made the flight. As we need things we get them.

LORD DERBY, home from his visit here, says it isn't true that Americans always talk about money. He says:

"They talk about prohibition and how best to avoid it."

He discovered that we do not hate the British. Of course we don't, we don't owe them money. If Europe didn't hate this country, conditions would be better. However, if we have enough airplanes and submarines we need not worry about any one's hate.

The hyena hates the lion. The lion does not care.

IN THE LIST of stocks, you observe that, with all our troubles and trials, American Tobacco sold on Wednesday thirty points above its price earlier in the year.

G. W. Hill, president of the company, telling stockholders of greater profit, attributes the company's success "to newspaper advertising."

Newspaper advertising is to business, when you have what the people want, like water to arid land.

But all depends on THE KIND of advertising.

Mr. Hill, a young man, taking over his father's task, realized the importance of letting people know what you are doing and started a campaign of aggressive, CONTROVERSIAL advertising.

His success has been amazing, but he would say to any inquirer:

"Don't gamble in my stock, or any other."

TWO KINDS of bad news from India. In the Madras presidency police, firing at a crowd of "rebels," wounded seven.

More serious, from the Imperial point of view, is the disastrous slump in cotton prices on the Bombay markets. Price restrictions have been withdrawn and many failures of cotton merchants are expected.

WALL STREET wit which described a broker opening his order book, releasing several moths, now says:

"Constructive forces are now in the saddle, but the saddle is not on the horse."

That talk is pleasing to the busy bears, but saddle and horse may be together soon and bears less happy.

AN ANTI-PROHIBITION Congress, at Budapest, home town of the famous Tokay wine, denounces prohibition as "conducive to immorality and fraud."

Anti-Prohibitionists here complain that it is conducive to bootlegging, crime, blackmail and bribery.

Prohibitionists say that it has not yet had a fair chance to show what it can do.

IN NEW YORK CITY prohibition talks about padlocking the Ritz Carlton hotel because an elevator boy sold two bottles of champagne to guests. That interests property owners.

CAR PLUNGES 150 FT. TO RAILWAY

Two Women and Man May Die After Auto Plunge From Boulevard of Allies

An automobile occupied by two women and a man was sideswiped by another machine on the Boulevard of the Allies near Miltenberger street, this afternoon, and plunged 150 feet down the bluff skirting the highway on to tracks of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

All occupants are believed to have been seriously, possibly fatally injured.

A passenger car was backed to the scene from the Baltimore and Ohio Station and the injured were rushed to the station, thence to Mercy Hospital.

The auto was a roadster with a rumble seat.

WILL CERTIFY LUZERNE VOTE

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., June 27.—(AP.)—By formal order of Judge Benjamin R. Jones, expected today or tomorrow, the Luzerne county commissioners Monday will certify the vote in the primary election, County Solicitor John H. Dando announced here today.

Judge Jones' order will be in accordance with that which the State Supreme Court handed down June 21, which directed a return to the Secretary of the Commonwealth, this to be subject to such modification, correction or rejection as may be ordered later by the Supreme Court.

The appeal already taken to the Supreme Court is founded on objections by Attorneys for Francis Shunk Brown, who wish to prevent the counting of perforated ballots.

Secretary of the Commonwealth James Walker announced in Harrisburg yesterday that he would certify Gifford Pinchot as the Republican nominee for governor immediately upon receipt of the Luzerne County vote certification.

Head of Canadian W. C. T. U. Succumbs

LONDON, Ont., June 27.—(AP.)—Mrs. Gordon Wright, president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union in Canada, was found dead in her apartment last night shortly before she was to have appeared as a speaker at a church rally. She was fully dressed and was found lying on a couch. Death was believed caused by a heart attack.

RAIL-RIVER TERMINALS APPROVED

Merchants, Manufacturers Given Pledge by Council; Fall Bond Issue Forecast

Construction of both the Hays and Manchester rail-river terminals was promised by City Council today after a public hearing at which leading merchants, manufacturers and bankers called for prompt action.

No decision was reached as to which terminal shall be given preference in starting the project. Both had advocates.

It was said there would be a people's bond issue election in November, but that the amount to be asked for would not be decided until it was learned if the County Commissioners would be willing to meet part of the expense. It was arranged that the rail-river committee of the Chamber of Commerce should call on the County Commissioners and solicit their support.

FOR MANCHESTER

George S. Bassett, of the American Barge Company, told Council of his company's terminal at Glassport, constructed at a cost of $165,000. He urged that the Manchester terminal be built first, saying it was necessary for merchandise traffic. The American Barge Company, he said, would not use the Hays terminal, although it was possible arrangements might be made for the removal of the Glassport equipment to a site at Hays.

A. S. Dann, president of the Pittsburgh Coal Exchange, said that organization had carefully examined the municipal terminal plans and recommended that the Manchester project be started first. He added that the Hays terminal also was necessary, however.

TEXAS LYNCHING MOB FOILED

PORT ARTHUR, Tex., June 27.—(AP.)—A mob of approximately 200 failed in an attempt here today to Lynch Rainey Williams, 38-year-old Negro, who has confessed to eight attacks upon white women within the last 30 days.

While officers fought off the mob gathered around City Hall, where Williams had been held in jail Police Chief M. B. Word succeeded in sliding the Negro down the pole in the fire station in the building.

Williams was placed in the rumble seat of Fire Chief Enright's car.

After several shots were fired into the air to drive the mob back, the car roared away headed for Beaumont, where the officers planned to jail the Negro for safekeeping.

Police Chief Word and his officers barricaded themselves in the jail with shotguns and tear gas bombs before effecting the ruse by which the Negro was rushed out of the city.

KINGSFORD-SMITH AND HIS CREW OF THREE AS SOME OF 20,000 IN NEW YORK GREETED THEM AT ROOSEVELT FIELD

NEW YORK HAILS SEA FLIERS

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN,
International News Service.

NEW YORK, June 27.—An enthusiastic reception by the City of New York to Maj. Charles Kingsford-Smith and his three courageous companions of the Southern Cross, was climaxed this afternoon by the declaration of Kingsford-Smith from the grandstand in front of City Hall that he does not regard flights, such as their Ireland-to-New York project, as "stunts." He said they are sincere efforts to contribut to advancement of aviation.

Several thousand people, massed in City Hall plaza, cheered the four famous trans-Atlantic fliers as Mayor James J. Walker extended the city's official welcome to them and pinned upon their breast gold medals of honor.

RECEPTION MODEST

New York's official reception was toned down at the specific request of Kingsford-Smith. There was no harbor pageant; no pompous parade up broadway amid a swirl of ticker tape and

Seek Care for Grave Of First Mrs. Wilson

ROME, Ga., June 27.—(AP.)—Directors of the Chamber of Commerce here have asked municipal authorities to assume responsibility of caring for an obscure grave in Myrtle Hill Cemetery, in which is buried the body of President Woodrow Wilson's first wife.

Visitors seeking the grave have complained frequently that they were unable to find it. The Chamber of Commerce requested that markers be placed in the cemetery, pointing the way.

U. S. to Hear Wales Over Radio July 7

NEW YORK, June 27.—(AP.)—The Prince of Wales will be heard in America over the radio July 7, the National Broadcasting Company announced today.

His speech in the Savoy Hotel, London, at the annual banquet of the National Union of Students, will be brought across the Atlantic and retransmitted by the American coast-to-coast network.

The broadcast will last 15 minutes, starting at 4:25 p. m. Pittsburgh time.

Lindbergh to Fly South On New Good-Will Tour

NEW YORK, June 27.—(INS.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is planning another good-will flight southward, which will take him to Central and South America, it was revealed here today.

Its purpose is to create interest in aviation and a closer relationship between the southern republics and the United States. Col. Lindbergh said:

"Tentative plans have been made for such a tour for several months, but the definite itinerary and the time of the flight have not been decided."

PENNINGTON TO TAKE NEW POST

Apparently resigned to accepting a post he did not want and ready to make the best of it, Commander John D. Pennington, local prohibition administrator, today was en route home from Washington.

On his arrival he will make plans to begin his new duties July 1 as director of prohibition enforcement in the newly created Pennsylvania-Delaware-New Jersey district under direction of the Department of Justice, which on the first of the month takes charge of prohibition enforcement. His headquarters will be in Philadelphia.

Commander Pennington sought unsuccessfully yesterday to obtain the post of supervisor of alcohol permits, which he said had previously been promised him.

That job went to Samuel O. Wynne, present administrator of the Philadelphia enforcement district.

SUICIDE LAID TO CONTEST STRAIN

Trial Halts as Attorney Takes Own Life in Office; Deed Shocks Youngstown

International News Service.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 27.—Tragedy abruptly interrupted trial of the "billion-dollar lawsuit" over the merger of Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company with Bethlehem Steel Corporation today, when Leroy Manchester, chief of the Sheet and Tube legal staff, committed suicide by firing two bullets into his head.

The suicide took place in Manchester's private offices in the Stambaugh Building here just a few minutes before he was due to appear in court as an attorney for his concern in the steel suit. Overwork and mental strain, which he suffered in the strenuous task of fighting the case, were believed to have been the caus for the act.

NEWS SHOCKS CITY

News of Manchester's suicide swept like wildfire throughout Youngstown, leaving the city shocked and stunned. The tragedy was announced in the courtroom—the battlefield of the bitterly-fought steel suit—by Judge David G. Jenkins, who immediately adjourned court until next Monday.

The announcement brought a gasp from the crowd of spectators, attorneys anw principals in the suit. Several minutes of rigid silence followed. James A. Campbell, veteran white-haired chief of Sheet and Tube Company, was overcome by the tragic news. He sat sobbing in the courtroom.

Manchester, who was 47, died almost instantly. The prostrate body of the attorney was found in his offices by associates, who

Temporary Postmaster Here to Study Job

W. A. Kenyon, postoffice inspector, with headquarters in Washington, who is to be inspector in charge of the Pittsburgh postoffice, beginning July 1, until a successor is appointed to Postmaster George W. Gosser, was in the city today familiarizing himself with conditions here.

Kenyon met Gosser this morning and was introduced by him to department heads in the postoffice.

Characterized by postal authorities in Washington as a temporary expedient, Kenyon will have charge of the postoffice pending the recommendation of Senator David A. Reed for a four-year term. Pittsburgh congressmen had sought to have Assistant Postmaster John B. Anderson named acting postmaster until Gosser's successor was appointed. Gosser is retiring because he has reached the age limit.

ADMINISTRATION FACES CRISIS OVER VETERANS BILL VETO

SENATE MAY SPURN NEW MEASURE

Leaders Prepare to Hold Congress in Session Until Relief Legislation Passes

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON, International News Service

WASHINGTON, June 27.—The administration faced a political crisis in the Senate today while seeking approval of a limited World War pension act, following the President's veto of the liberal bill preferred by Congress.

Administration leaders fearful of the effect of the veto on Republican success in November, were determined to hold Congress in session until a new pension law is enacted, giving relief to World War veterans.

HOOVER WINNER SO FAR

President Hoover has won his fight so far, the House having sustained his veto of the liberal bill by 182 to 188. The House promptly enacted the administration's own bill 361 to 4. The bill faces a different situation in the Senate, which once rejected the administration bill without roll call or record vote.

The battle to enact the President's bill began in the Finance Committee this morning. Republican and Democratic finance leaders conferred with representatives of the American Legion, other soldier organizations and spokesmen for the President. If they agree on the administration's bill it will be given a tremendous boost toward enactment.

NEW PENSION SYSTEM

The administration bill would initiate a new pension system for World War veterans, but on a lower scale than the pensions paid to soldiers of other wars. It would cost $50,000,000 annually for three years.

All the compensation features of existing law would be retained, but veterans disabled by their own misconduct or by accident not traceable to war service would be eligible only to pensions, ranging from $12 to $40 a month.

One effort undoubtedly will be made to increase the amount of pensions up to the $60 maximum recently allowed Spanish-American War veterans over a presidential veto.

HUSTON'S SCALP AGAIN SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, June 27.—(INS.)—After a lull of several weeks, demands for the political scalp of Claudius H. Houston are being renewed.

Apparently the pressure for his removal as chairman of the Republican National Committee points to an early meeting of the party's executive committee, at which the question of demanding his resignation will be discussed.

Huston now is turning the same deaf ear to the entreaties of Republican leaders that he has offered ever since the Senate Lobby committee brought to light certain of his activities in connection with Muscle Shoals, also stock market manipulations.

President Hoover has hesitated to ask for Huston's resignation, but there is reason to believe the Tennesseaen will step down soon after the adjournment of Congress.

Several holes had been drilled and filled with dynamite, and the day crew was drilling additional holes, when an electrical storm broke.

Many of the night shift were asleep below the decks.

Witnesses said they saw a flash of lightning dart down to the boat, followed immediately by the terrific explosion. The air was filled with debris and the drill boat had disappeared.

Leo Marion, an inspector of the public works department at Ottawa, was one of those rescued, estimated there were three tons of dynamite in the drill holes, and expressed the opinion that there also was a considerable quantity in the boat.

DENIAL ALLAYS FEAR FOR POPE

VATICAN CITY, June 27.—(INS.)—Pope Pius XI today continued his regular round of arduous duties after having denied reports of his serious illness as basically untrue.

The pontiff authorized Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state, to issue a statement to allay uneasiness aroused by persistent reports of his sickness.

The Cardinal said:

"I make it known that the Pope seldom has worked harder than he does at present. The hard work makes us all feel as we felt after a hard day of mountain climbing. The harder we climbed the better we felt. The work stimulates our energies, and the energies stimulate us to do more work."

The Pope will participate in canonization ceremonies of several martyrs Sunday.

LAID TO OVERWORK

Close friends of Manchester declared that they had noticed the attorney acting strangely for the past month. He had aged considerably since the bitter contest over the merger of Sheet and Tube with eBithlehem developed, they said, and he apepared depressed and overworked.

The heavier burden of the legal negotiations for both the merger transactions and the resulting battle over its consummation had fallen upon Manchester's shoulders. He had planned to retire to private practice at the conclusion of the merger trial.

Another factor, believed to have caused a strain upon the attorney, was the fact that during the famous proxy battle over the merger last spring two of Manchester's three daughters became seriously stricken with scarlet fever.

WORKED TO "FRAZZLE"

Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, with whom Manchester had been working in contesting the merger law suit, was deeply grieved over the news of his friend's suicide. He declared:

"Manchester was worked to a frazzle. It is a plain case of overwork and strain."

Manchester had been chief counsel of the Sheet & Tube legal staff for the past 10 years. In addition to his legal practice, he was identified with numerous civic activities, among them the Y. M. C. A. here, of which he had been president for the last 10 years. Last winter Manchester was offered the presidency of the First National Bank of Youngstown. He declined the position, however.

exacting a promise that he would have a say in the matter of alcohol permits in his district.

POWERS UNCERTAIN

The extent to which Commander Pennington, as a Justice Department official, will have veto power on alcohol permits handled by Col. Wynne, of the Treasury Department, is to be defined in regulations not yet completed, it was said authoritatively at Washington today. These regulations will govern all prohibition officials.

Efforts to learn the identity of the officials who were said to have promised the alcohol permit job to Commander Pennington were ineffective today.

One official at the Treasury Department said he knew that Commissioner Pennington's name had been on the list suggested by the Treasury Department to the Justice Department for permit supervisors. This official said he knew of no other assurance or promise given the Pittsburgh administrator. Final selection, he said, had been left to the Justice Department.

After agreeing to take the enforcement job, Commissioner Pennington expressed himself as satisfied, and said he would continue the methods he has used in Pittsburgh.

"There will be no spectacular raids or illegal methods under my administratorship," he said. "We will enforce prohibition legally or not try.

"The new assignment promises to be a tough job. Particularly on account of conditions in some spots of New Jersey. I have no claims or promises to make, but will go about my enforcement effort in a systematic and effective way, letting the results speak for themselves."

REGRETS LEAVING

Pennington joined with department of justice officials in pointing out that most of the actual enforcement work will be left to the deputy administrators in the judicial districts and sub-district headquarters. He expressed regret at leaving Pittsburgh, but was gratified to remain in Pennsylvania.

WILSON TO STAY

Semi-final touches to the set-up in the newly created Pennsylvania-Delaware-New Jersey district, which will become effective July 1, were added today with the announcement that Harold D. Wilson will be retained as deputy administrator in the Pittsburgh sub-district.

Wilson was former state director of prohibition enforcement in Massachusetts.

The department announced R. E. Joyce, an assistant to Pennington in charge of permissive work in the Pittsburgh office, will be transferred to district No. 6, with headquarters at Cincinnati, where he will hold a position similar to that of Wynne at Philadelphia.

There will be two other deputy enforcement administrators in Pennsylvania—Arthur G. McDuffie in the deputy post at Philadelphia, and J. O. Loos in Lewisburg, each city being designated as prohibition headquarters for the federal judicial district in which it is located.

There will be only 12 general districts under the reorganization, as against 21 in the present scheme, but a deputy administrator for every judicial district.

The 12 general administrator districts will conform to the lines of the federal judicial circuits.

2 Metropolitan Cities Point Way for State Blue Law Referendum

The following editorial appeared in the Philadelphia Record under the heading, "Pittsburgh Joins This City in War Against Blue Law Tyranny":

Now the two metropolitan cities of Pennsylvania join in seeking relief from the strangling repression of the Blue Law system.

Philadelphia's overwhelming demand has been echoed in Pittsburgh, first by the public and then by the elected representatives of the public.

It had been manifest for many years that the imposition upon populous modern communities of eighteenth century rules of Sunday observance was both socially injurious and antagonistic to the wishes of a large part of the population. But not until recently was it fully realized that the system is grossly misrepresentative, is maintained at the behest of a small minority.

The Record was itself astonished by the results of its test of the public's attitude.

In this newspaper's poll of the entire list of registered voters the number returning marked ballots was 48.4 per cent, far exceeding the response in any survey of the kind. Favoring continuance of the Blue Law were 14.5 per cent; 4.1 per cent advocated modification; 81.4 per cent demanded REPEAL.

It was conclusively demonstrated that more than FIVE-SIXTHS of the voting citizens of Philadelphia are against the unreasonable and harmful rules which prohibit rational, healthful recreation on the rest day of the masses.

The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph provided for the inhabitants of that city a similar opportunity of expression. The ratio was substantially the same. There were only about 7,000 votes for Blue Law enforcement, 3,800 for modification and nearly 40,000 for repeal.

(Additional votes since this editorial was printed have raised the figures to approximately 8,000 for enforcement, 4,000 for modification and 42,000 for repeal.)

In moving to give official form to that unofficial mandate, the Pittsburgh Council in its resolution uses restrained language. The utterance does not urge, as it might, that the regulations enacted in 1794 today are detrimental to public welfare and in flagrant violation of both civil rights and the popular will.

It simply declares that "they are not suitable to modern life and conditions, they have not been enforced, and their enforcement in accord with their strict provisions would meet with popular disapproval."

But these moderate statements are enough to condemn the system, because they reveal its essential viciousness. Not only are the Blue Law restrictions tyrannical and unjust, but they promote contempt for law because they are not enforced and obviously cannot be enforced.

They are nullified every Sunday in permitting multitudes of citizens to enjoy Pittsburgh's swimming pools, golf links and park facilities. Yet their arbitrary provisions still forbid the public to have orderly, healthful recreation of other kinds.

Advocates of the Blue Law will bitterly resist, of course, any concession to the manifest desires of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

They will say, in the words of one of their spokesmen, that the "depraved majorities" in the two big cities must be kept under subjection to a law applying to the whole state and to every community in it.

But this is precisely the condition which is intolerable. Sunday observance rules, as the Pittsburgh resolution declares, should be made to "conform to the will of the people throughout the state, OR IN ANY SUBDIVISION where a change may be desired."

That a state-wide referendum would show preponderant sentiment for repeal of the Blue Law is almost certain.

But in any case it is indefensible that the material progress and social welfare of populous, cosmopolitan cities, or of any enlightened community, should be obstructed by denial of home rule in this purely local field of government.

Labor Chief Expects More Jobs Shortly

WASHINGTON, June 27.—(AP.)—A prediction that unemployment conditions will improve in the late summer and autumn was made last night by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

He said unemployment conditions in June had shown no improvement over May, when the federation estimated 3,600,000 persons were out of work.

"Layoffs always come with the beginning of the summer dull season in June," he said.

Honeymoon Hikers Journey Into Wilds

PRINCE GEORGE, B. C., June 27.—(AP.)—Unmindful of the pleadings of trappers to forsake their wild adventure into the dangerous northland, William H. Albee and his recent bride, of Carmel, Cal., were tramping onward today about 500 miles north of here, intent upon reaching Dawson, Yukon Territory.

On their projected hike around the world, the Albees were carrying only the barest necessities, including a 22-caliber rifle.

STANDARD WILL BUY WAVERLY

New Jersey Oil Company Plans Expansion in Sales System Here

Standard Oil Company of New Jersey will greatly expand its marketing operations in the Pittsburgh district by the acquisition of the service stations of the Waverly Oil Works Company within a short time.

Thomas J. Hilliard, president of Waverly, while not denying that the negotiations were nearing completion, said today that he was not in a position to make any comment on the report.

Walter Black, local manager for Standard Oil, also refused to discuss the deal.

The sale will be made to the Standard Oil Company of Pennsylvania, which is a subsidiary of Standard Oil of New Jersey.

MARKS NEW DEVELOPMENT

The purchase will mark a new development in a far-reaching battle to capture the major share of the Pittsburgh district market for petroleum products. The plan of the Gulf Oil Corporation to lay a pipe line from Tulsa to Pittsburgh and to construct a refinery here is one phase of the struggle for this market.

Standard Oil of Pennsylvania started operations in this district a year ago with the opening of its first service stations.

FOLLOWS INVASION

The entrance of the company into Pittsburgh followed the invasion of Standard Oil of New Jersey's eastern markets by Atlantic Refining. Both companies formerly were part of the original Standard Oil Company, which was segregated by government order in 1911.

BLUE LAW FOE SEES CHANCE

Results of the poll to date in the boroughs of Leetsdale and Ingram will be published tomorrow.

The Blue Law poll of Allegheny County being conducted by the Sun-Telegraph and the recent poll of Philadelphia, each showing a majority of 5 to 1 for repeal, indicate such an overwhelming discontent with the ancient Sunday law that the 1931 Legislature should not ignore this phenomenon of near-unanimity, Assemblyman Michael A. Musmanno asserted in a speech yesterday before the Pittsburgh Aero Club.

The latest totals in the county are:

	Men	Women	Total
Enforcement..	4,701	3,735	8,436
Modification ..	2,682	1,507	4,189
Repeal ..	29,252	13,028	42,280

Musmanno declared there is a greater opportunity for amending the Blue Law at the approaching session, and expressed confidence that a measure to liberalize the law, which he will present, will reach the floor of the House for a vote instead of dying in committee as in 1929.

Four townships, Collier, Findley, Forward and Hampton, strongly advocate repeal of the Blue Law in substantial returns to date in the poll of the county. They range from a majority in Collier to a 6-to-1 vote for repeal in Forward Township. Their aggregate of ballots, 492, is nearly 30 per cent of the total vote in the four townships at the recent primary election. Their totals are:

	Enforcement	Modification	Repeal
Collier	42	6	66
Findley	22	7	111
Forward	15	11	97
Hampton	25	10	78

burgh district, told Council the government had spent $65,000,000 on improvement of the local rivers, and that water traffic had increased in consequence 33,000,000 tons a year. Both of the proposed terminals are indispensable, in his opinion.

B. B. Byers, representing the Mississippi Valley Barge Line, stated his company was building a large terminal at Cincinnati, had contracted for a great fleet, including two towboats and 50 barges now under construction in Pittsburgh boat yards, and would like to extend its service to Pittsburgh, but would be unable to do so until terminals were available. He advocated building the Manchester docks first.

PLANS LINKED

W. M. Jacoby, executive secretary of the Flood Commission of Pittsburgh, testified the terminal plans were correlated with the plans for flood protection, and that the Manchester project would fit in well with the scheme for a flood wall.

PORTER SEVEN YEARS AGO

Congressman Porter as he sailed at President Harding's direction to the narcotic mission at Geneva in May, 1923, 11 days before his fifty-fourth birthday.

Associates Pay Tribute To Life, Achievements Of Stephen G. Porter

Men high in official and civic life in the city, state and nation today paid sincere tribute to the life and achievements of Congressman S. G. Porter, who died in Allegheny General Hospital early today.

Announcement of the Congressman's death was made in the courts of the county, Mr. Porter being a member of the Bar Association. Some of the comments:

A. W. MELLON, Secretary of the Treasury: I am greatly distressed to hear of the death of Representative Porter. I valued his friendship and had the highest regard for his character and ability.

DWIGHT W. MORROW, Ambassador to Mexico: Stephen Porter was one of those men who always worked conscientiously, earnestly and intelligently at every task, whether it was small or large. His place will be hard to fill.

DAVID A. REED, United States Senator: Representative Porter served his city, county, state and nation with distinction. He did important work in maintaining and improving the foreign relations of the United States. His death is a loss to the nation.

GUY E. CAMPBELL, Representative: Steve Porter has done a wonderful work as chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee and as chairman of the United States Foreign Buildings Commission. Allegheny County loses a valuable citizen in his passing.

HARRY ESTEP, Representative: In the death of Representative Porter Allegheny County loses an outstanding citizen, Congress one of its sterling leaders.

P. J. SULLIVAN, Representative: Steve Porter was a friend of years' standing. I consider his passing a deep, personal loss."

HENRY W. TEMPLE, Representative, of Washington, Pa., who will succeed Porter as chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee: Mr. Porter was a capable, hard working, conscientious member of Congress.

JAMES J. DAVIS, Secretary of Labor: Steve Porter was always thoughtful of the unfortunate. He made a notable contribution to international good will and his narcotics legislation is a noteworthy advance in civilization.

RUTH BRYAN OWEN, Representative: As a member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, of which Stephen G. Porter was chairman, I was privileged to know his kindly and conscientious nature. His devoted service to his state and nation has earned him the respect and esteem of his colleagues.

HENRY L. STIMSON, Secretary of State: The State Department and all foreign service officers have lost a valued friend.

JAMES FRANCIS BURKE, counsel for the Republican National Committee: Congressman Stephen G. Porter was a sincere and serviceable representative, an able lawyer and an outstanding citizen.

C. C. McGOVERN, county commissioner: Congressman Porter was the most outstanding figure Pennsylvania has had in Congress in a generation. His extraordinary understanding and ability was demonstrated by his successful efforts to limit the use of narcotic drugs to medicinal purposes by legislation.

ARTHUR M. SCULLY, attorney, president Allegheny County Bar Association: I have known Congressman Porter for many years. He was a very able man and his death is a great loss to this community and the nation.

E. V. BABCOCK, county commissioner: Allegheny County has lost a strong representative. Congressman Porter's long and very active life in the Congress of the United States made him one of its most valuable members.

JOHN Q. TILSON, Connecticut, Republican House floor leader—"The death of Mr. Porter is a great loss to Congress and the nation. He has performed valuable work as chairman of one of the most important committees of the House."

CLYDE KELLY, Congressman of Pittsburgh—"The death of Representative Porter is a loss to the entire nation. He was active along many worthy lines. Especially will his work against the narcotic evil and in building American embassies abroad endure permanently."

JAMES RAE, President Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce—In the death of Congressman Stephen G. Porter, Pittsburgh has lost not only a solid, substantial, national representative, but also a good citizen, and a good friend. To Stephen Porter in a very definite way Pittsburgh is indebted for invaluable services rendered by him in the interest of our new Federal Building. Through Con- "In the death of Congressman gressman Porter's influence and judgment and strong efforts, a splendid and artistic Federal Building, instead of merely a postoffice structure, was secured for our city.

PORTER ACTIVE IN PUBLIC LIFE

Stephen G. Porter, chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee of Congress, for years an outstanding figure in the fight against narcotics, was representative from the Thirty-second District.

First elected to Congress in 1910, he had served 10 consecutive terms.

As head of numerous congressional committees appointed to curb the manufacture and importation of narcotics, he had attended many conferences for that purpose in various European cities.

TAKEN SICK ON BOAT

His recent illness dates back to a breakdown on shipboard while returning about two months ago from a parley in London, England.

Local members of the Eightieth Division had high regard for Congressman Porter for his seven-year fight in which he succeeded in having Brig. Gen. Lloyd M. Brett, their division commander in the World War retired as a brigadier general after the War Department had at first retired him as a colonel.

In 1913, Congressman Porter ran for Mayor against County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong.

Porter defeated Armstrong in the primary by 320 votes, but lost the general election to Armstrong by about 2,500.

Porter's earliest political activity was as city solicitor of old Allegheny from 1903 to 1906, during the regime of James G. Wyman.

BORN IN OHIO

He was born May 18, 1869, at New Middleton, O., and moved with his family in 1877 to Allegheny, now the North Side, where he had since resided. After he was graduated from public schools, Porter studied medicine and acquired an expert knowledge of drugs that made him a leader in the fight against the narcotic evil.

After completing his course in medicine, Porter read law in the office of his brother, was admitted to the Allegheny County Bar in 1893 and became junior member of the lawn firm of L. K. and S. G. Porter.

Congressman Porter was married April 11, 1895, to Elizabeth F. Hamaly, who died October 7, 1919.

He leaves a daughter, Mrs. Richard S. Baron, and three brothers, L. K., William and Cyrus H. Porter.

Porter for 12 Years Head Of Important Committee

Congressman Stephen G. Porter had the distinction of being chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee for 12 years, the longest period any member of the House ever occupied that important post.

His duties in that capacity began in 1918 while the World War still was raging. After the Treaty of Versailles had been rejected by the Senate in 1920, a plan was proposed to end the war with Germany, technically, by passage of a joint resolution declaring the conflict terminated. Mr. Porter introduced the House resolution, which was passed April 9, 1920.

President Harding named Mr. Porter a member of the advisory committee of the, United States delegates to the Washington conference of 1921 on the limitation of armaments.

In 1923 he fathered a resolution remitting the remainder of China's Boxer indemnity, which became a law May 21, 1924.

In 1927, Mr. Porter introduced a resolution requesting the President to negotiate a new treaty with China which was adopted.

He also was chairman of the Foreign Service Buildings Commission, which is engaged in acquiring office buildings and residences in the capitals and large cities of foreign nations, for use of the foreign service of the United States.

PORTER FAMOUS AS 'DOPE' FOE

As an unrelenting foe of the drug traffic, Congressman Porter gained international fame.

In 1923 an advisory committee of the League of Nations was formed to consider the opium question. Mr. Porter was sent as one of the American delegates, but in an unofficial capacity.

At his recommendation the committee declared:

"In order to prevent the abuse of these products, it is necessary to exercise the control of the production of raw opium in such a manner that there will be no surplus available for non-medical and non-scientific purposes."

By a joint resolution of Congress passed May 15, 1924, the United States accepted the invitation of the League of Nations to be represented at the second International Opium conference, to be held the following November in Geneva.

Mr. Porter and his secretary, Edmund F. Erk, were named members of the American delegation and 40,000 was appropriated for its expenses.

Mr. Porter was instrumental in having passed a bill increasing the penalty for violation of the Harrison anti-narcotic law.

He also sponsored a bill providing two federal farms for drug addicts. This measure became effective a year and a half ago.

Uncanny Memory For Names Was Porter Asset

Congressman Stephen G. Porter had an uncanny ability to remember the names and faces of his constituents. He knew the names, nicknames, businesses and hobbies of hundreds of his Northern Allegheny County supporters.

On his occasional visits to meetings of boards of trade, granges, picnics and civic meetings, they tell how sometimes he was able to greet by name without hesitation almost an entire assemblage.

PONDER PORTER SUCCESSOR

Death of Congressman Porter, of the Thirty-second District, creates a vacancy in the Allegheny County delegation and already Republican leaders are discussing a successor to Pittsburgh's veteran legislator.

His successor for the unexpired term can be chosen only at a special election, called by Gov. John S. Fisher.

Mr. Porter, nominated in May to succeed himself, would have been the Republican candidate at the November election.

His successor as the Republican nominee for the term beginning in January will be chosen by the Republican committeemen and committee-women of the district.

WISE FORESEES MODIFICATION

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 27.—(AP.)—Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, of New York, declared here today:

"We now have to choose between enforcement, which, alas, seems impossible, and modification, which, alas, seems inevitable."

His statement was in explanation of his opposition to introduction of a resolution urging repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment at the forty-first annual convention of the Central Conference of American Rabbis.

The resolution, which was tabled, was introduced by Rabbi Clifton Harby Levy, of New York, and signed by five other rabbis.

Dr. Wise continued:

"The central conference, having taken no stand in other days on behalf of prohibition and the Eighteenth Amendment, would come rather belatedly into the picture if it, at this late date, expressed itself in favor of repeal.

"It is true that we now have to choose between enforcement which, alas, seems impossible and modification which, alas, seems inevitable."

Blind 30 Years, Sees; Finds Styles Charming

CHICAGO, June 27.—(AP.)—Something "clicked" in the optic nerves of J. F. Fish last Monday and today Fish, who has been living in the night of blindness, with memories of the world of 1900, was taking in the sights of the Chicago of 1930.

In 1899, while Fish and his bride were on their honeymoon in Ohio, a falling tree struck him and his optic nerves were paralyzed. He has been blind ever since.

He returned to Chicago and founded a business college to support himself and his new wife, and ever since he had headed the school, buying supplies by the sense of touch and learning to know his pupils by their voices.

Monday his sight suddenly returned, dimly at first. Yesterday he was taken for his first "sight-seeing" trip around the city which has been his home for many years. He was terrified by the rush of auto traffic.

When he first saw the women of today he was "mystified." Fish added:

"Now they seem graceful and charming."

His wife, he says, is not at all the same girl now whose picture he has had in mind these 30 years.

service in national and international affairs.

Death of Mr. Porter was announced in Criminal Court by Attorney Clark Miller, of the Bar Association's memorial committee, who paid tribute to the Congressman's achievements.

Judge Harry H. Roward replied, saying Mr. Porter was an able attorney and had won nation-wide prominence through sponsorship of anti-narcotic laws.

Judge Rowand then adjourned court in respect to the memory of Mr. Porter.

Death came peacefully at 2:40 a. m. after more than two months' illness from cirrhosis of the liver.

RELATIVES AT BEDSIDE

At his bedside were his three brothers and other relatives. His only child, Mrs. Richard S. Baron, of Newport, R. I., was en route here when death came.

She had been at the bedside for several days during Mr. Porter's illness, but had returned home. Yesterday she had started for Pittsburgh when informed of her father's critical condition. She arrived this morning.

Meanwhile messages of condolence, reflecting the high place held by Congressman Porter in the estimation of statesmen in this and other lands, began arriving.

Temple May Direct Porter Committee

WASHINGTON, June 27.—(INS.)—As a result of the death of Representative Stephen G. Porter, for many years chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, that office is expected to go to Representative Henry W. Temple (Rep.), of Pennsylvania.

Temple, now serving his eighteenth year in Congress from Washington, Pa., is the ranking Republican on the committee.

NEW YORK, June 27.—(AP.)—William E. Walsh, chairman of the city board of standards and appeals, against whom state and federal indictments were returned yesterday, resigned today.

DENIES LAXITY ON DRUG LAW

WASHINGTON, June 27.—(AP.)—An investigation by the Senate Agriculture Committee of charges of lax enforcement of drug regulations by the Department of Agriculture drew to a conclusion as the group heard a vigorous denial from Walter G. Campbell, chief of the section charged with enforcing the food and drug act.

Campbell said the charges that the department had discriminated among incoming shipments of ergot from foreign countries had originated from persons who had attempted to corner the market in the drug.

Earlier, Campbell had said that Dr. H. H. Rusby, dean of the Columbia University School of Pharmacy, had admitted in February, 1928, that he had been in error with respect to charges of malenforcement which he had made previously.

AMBRIDGE AREA HIT BY TORNADO

South Heights, across the Ohio River from Ambridge, was recovering today from a tornado which late yesterday swirled through the town, loosened the schoolhouse from its foundation, and left in its wake a trail of tangled wires and uprooted trees.

Accompanied by a heavy hailstorm, the funnel-shaped menace struck the town like a bullet, and was away again before the townsfolk had time to flee their shaken homes.

The highway was strewn with wires which dangled from crooked poles, and telephone and electric lighting service was paralyzed.

Issue Subpenas In Illinois Vote Quiz

CHICAGO, June 27.—(AP.)—Today's Herald and Examiner said it had been informed by Senator Gerald P. Nye, chairman of the Senate Investigating Committee, that subpenas for inquiry into the campaign expenses of Senator Charles S. Deneen and his successful opponent, Ruth Hanna McCormick, will be issued Monday.

Senator C. C. Dill will meet here with Senator Nye, the newspaper said, and in all probability the inquiry will open July 7.

Exonerate Wife Who Killed Other Woman

MOBILE, Ala., June 27.—(AP.)—Mrs. Gertrude Puckett, who shot Mrs. Francis Hines to death the night of May 14 when she found Mrs. Hines in the company of her husband, has been exonerated of criminal charges by a grand jury. The killing was the second time Mrs. Puckett had shot Mrs. Hines. The latter woman was wounded slightly at the Puckett home a few weeks prior to the fatal shooting.

OCEAN FLIGHT LEADER TELLS OF VENTURE

Kingsford-Smith Credits Radio for Success of Sea Hop; Pictures Perils

By CHARLES KINGSFORD-SMITH

As told to John Ingraham Universal Service Correspondent

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., June 26.—Well, here we are!

And we landed, I may say, right where we intended to land from the very beginning—at Roosevelt Field. I am told we were expected to come down at other airports but when I was here about three months ago I made an inspection that satisfied me this field was ideal for our purpose. We never had any idea of landing at any other spot.

We came down from Harbor Grace at an altitude of about 1,000 feet. Our speed was about 80 miles an hour all the way. We had very much better flying than we encountered on the way over from Ireland. There were many times, however, that we struck headwinds nearly as heavy as those we encountered between Ireland and Harbor Grace.

RECALLS OCEAN FOG

There was also a considerable fog area, but it was nothing like that we floundered around in while our petrol kept getting lower and lower, looking for a rift in the huge banks over Newfoundland.

If we were successful, it was entirely due to careful planning, working out every detail, preparing for practically every contingency, and to the splendid cooperation of every man of the crew.

I understand there were reports that our instruments were faulty. There is absolutely nothing to that. Nothing at all. Our instruments performed as well as any could be expected to under the circumstances. All magnetic instruments such as a compass are affected in the region over which he had to fly.

RADIO THEIR SALVATION

Had it not been for the radio we might not have made it at all, and there were times when it certainly looked as though even the radio was not going to stand us in very good stead. But it was to that we owe our eventual finding of our bearings in time to land us with hardly enough petrol left to taxi across a good-sized field.

I should say that, knowing what I know now, I could make a much better job of it if I tried it again. Now you must not take that to mean that I expect to make another attempt. Once is quite enough. But, if I did attempt it again, for one thing I should have a much better arrangement of the instrument board.

All this sounds a bit thrilly, but really we were not in any serious danger at any time.

RECEPTION BIGGEST ORDEAL

We brought along sandwiches and hot coffee. That coffee was heated on an Irish stove and was still warm enough—what little was left of it, when we landed, to stand drinking in Newfoundland. A thermos bottle did that.

As to the relative ease of flying over the Pacific and Atlantic—well—just believe me the Atlantic bad as it is, is better than the Pacific to fly over! But neither ocean tired me or was so much physical strain as this reception business. You New Yorkers certainly do put your heart into these things, don't you?

Well—at Harbor Grace we found about 500 gallons of petrol, of which we took aboard 400 gallons to bring us here. That was all the "gas" they had there, though they told us when we left there was a plentiful supply there. Even that belonged to someone else.

GOING HOME FOR WEDDING

I shan't be in New York long. Three or four days perhaps. I've got to spend several days in Oakland, Cal., where they were so gracious to me when we made the Pacific flight. Then I've got to set sail in time to be in Australia in September. I'm to be married then, you know, and it doesn't do to be late at your wedding!

I don't believe there will ever be a successful development of commercial aviation between Ireland and America. In the first place, the weather is a practical barrier. Fog and intense cold—these are no aids to steady schedule flying, such as commercial routes have to maintain.

For myself I shall continue to stay in commercial aviation. For six months or more I have been connected with a company operating a route between Melbourne and Brisbane, Australia.

CLINGS TO FAMOUS SHIP

I can't say what's to become of the good old Southern Cross. I'm too poor a man to be able to afford to give her away as has been suggested I might to a school museum in California. I should like to be able to do that, but I'll stick to her awhile yet.

We intend to fly in her to Oakland. I haven't decided whether to try a non-stop or not. We'll take off in three or four days from Roosevelt Field No. 1—the old field, I believe it is. It's been a most wonderful experience. I'm glad we did it. But we probably will not make any more such attempts. I speak only for myself, of course.

For the staunch fellows who flew with me, and made possible this success—I don't know what they'll do. After this—they're apt to try almost anything!

Wilson, assistant under Pennington, who will remain in Pittsburgh in charge of enforcement. In 1922, he was enforcement director in Boston.

Wouldn't Drink, Wife Says, Choked

Her husband drank a pint of whisky almost without stopping and when she refused to partake of it he choked her, Verna A. Meyerl testified before Judge George V. Moore in asking a divorce from John A. Meyerl.

The libellant, who lives in Mina street, alleged that her husband had kicked her out of bed, punched her and threatened her with a revolver until she feared for her life. They were married in 1923. Mrs. Meyerl charges her husband with cruel and barbarous treatment.

ARMY COUNCIL RULES BOLIVIA

BUENOS AIRES, June 27.—(INS)—A manifesto issued by the Bolivian Camancho regiment at La Paz said the government of Bolivia today was in the hands of a military "council of six," according to dispatches received from Chile.

The manifesto said the government had been deposed because it was unconstitutional and said the "council of six" would guide the destinies of the nation until political parties have been reorganized. The council would be prepared to resign after a plebiscite has been held to elect a president to take the post vacated by Hernando Siles, who resigned the presidency several weeks ago.

Ex-President Siles and Gen. Kundt, German army officer and head of the war ministry, were captured by the rebel forces and were being conducted to the Argentine border, additional dispatches from Chile declared.

The rebel forces had been swelled by the support of the entire Bolivian army, with the exception of two regiments which remained loyal.

Takes Lower Rank To Push River Work

WASHINGTON, June 27.—(AP)—Brig. Gen. Herbert Deakyne, assistant to the chief of engineers, became a colonel in the Army today at his own request, although eligible for retirement as a major general.

His voluntary sacrifice of rank was made that he might continue to contribute to the Army his experience in the rivers and harbor improvement program now under way.

Commenting upon it Secretary Hurley characterized Deakyne as a "good soldier."

Woman Drowned In Farm Cistern

Detectives today were investigating the finding of the body of Miss Jeannette Vigger, 63, in a cistern at her home in Finley Township last night. The body was found by Mrs. Mary Simmons, a neighbor, according to a morgue report.

Miss Vigger lived alone on a farm near the Carnot and Clinton roads. She is believed to have ended her life by jumping into the cistern.

TABLES TURNED ON JOKER

Another tragedy of married life cropped out in the Manchester plant of the Duquesne Light Company today.

The husband, a young storekeeper in the meter plant, is said to have been at fault. To impress him with the error of his ways, coworkers thought best to lock him in a specially built wooden cage, to keep him there for three hours.

Fred Kummer, 1668 Westmoreland avenue, was the victim. Three weeks ago, according to E. L. Keller, meter engineer, Kummer, a practical joker, married. He was serious that time. The first his friends knew of it, however, was when Kummer telephoned them as he departed on the honeymoon. The cigars were in his desk.

On his return, he was met by his office friends. They picked him up, carried him to the made-to-order, guaranteed-to-fit wood and metal box, designed, constructed and cherished by F. E. Wasserman. There he cooled his heels for three hours—until he apologized. David Higgins, Kummer's assistant, is said to have been Wasserman's lieutenant.

HUNTERS 3 DAYS FROM AIR MARK

SKY HARBOR AIRPORT, CHICAGO, June 27.—(INS)—John and Kenneth Hunter, pilots of the endurance monoplane City of Chicago, were still aloft today with less than three days between them and the coveted refueling endurance record set by the St. Louis Robin last year. At 12:40 p. m. (Pittsburgh time) today they had passed 379 hours in the air.

Despite the added hazard of night refueling made necessary by a bursted gasoline tank, the two fliers kept their ship high above the airport last night where they "rode out" stiff winds and storm conditions.

It was evident that the two brothers are gamely fighting a growing fatigue.

If the two fliers are successful in staying in the air until early Sunday morning they will have equaled the record set in St. Louis last year by the crew of the St. Louis Robin, Dale Jackson and Forrest O'Brien.

Remarriage to Balk Mate's Murder Trial

LINTON, N. D., June 27.—(AP)—Remarried to Jacob Oster within four weeks after she had divorced him, Mrs. Emma Oster will not testify against her husband at his trial for first degree murder, under way in District Court here.

She was expected to be the chief witness for the state in its case against Oster, on trial for the death of John J. Peterson, of Hazelton, March 24.

The shooting followed a quarrel over Peterson's attentions to Mrs. Oster, who was employed by Peterson as his housekeeper.

3-Gun Wilson Won Fame By Fearless Rum Raiding

Harold D. Wilson, assistant administrator under J. D. Pennington, who will remain in Pittsburgh in charge of prohibition enforcement work in Western Pennsylvania, came to Pittsburgh 14 months ago with a reputation for aggressiveness and efficiency.

While federal prohibition director of Massachusetts in 1922, where he had the sobriquet of "Three Gun Wilson," he was relieved from the government service. His friends attributed his severance from the service to the fact that he made many enemies among political powers because of the relentless warfare he carried on against illegal liquor traffic.

His troubles started, it was said, sometime after he raided a banquet in Boston in honor of a former United States senator, which was attended by prominent politicians from throughout the state. The name "Three Gun Wilson" grew out of the fact that he usually had that number of revolvers in the desk of his office.

Since coming to Pittsburgh he has had charge of the enforcement unit, and personally participated in all the major raiding activities.

SOHO NURSERY PICNIC HOST

Seventy-five youngsters representing 16 different nationalities three colors and a multitude of religious creeds made things lively yesterday at the Soho Day Nursery's annual picnic in Schenley Park.

The youngsters and a few mothers, too, were packed into buses at the nursery and driven to the park, under the direction of Miss Nellie B Coyne, superintendent of the nursery and head of the picnic arrangements.

After a few hours with the merry-go-round and free lolly-pops the children were guests at a luncheon spread on long tables. Following the lunch came a series of races and games with awards for the proficient. A dinner was served before the return.

Miss Coyne was assisted by Margaret O'Shea, teacher of the kindergarten; Julia Lowney, nurse; Mrs Francis Glover, president of the nursery's board, and Mrs. George S Jenks, chairman of the institution.

MIDGET AUTOS ON PARADE

Four American-made Austin cars, tiny automobiles manufactured at Butler, Pa., were on display to Pittsburghers for the first time today.

The cars were driven in parade formation from the home of Director of Public Safety James M Clark to the City-County Building. An English-made Austin car also was in line.

In the first car were Director Clark and Carl Chesseman, president of the Austin Company of Pittsburgh distributors.

Assistant Supt of Police Benjamin Marshall, Traffic Inspector Jacob Dorsey and Ray Guisewite, manager of the Pittsburgh distributing agency, also rode in the procession.

The Austin car requires little more parking space than a motorcycle.

Bitten by Snake, Girl Walks Miles, Faints

MARTINS FERRY, O., June 27—(AP.)—Bitten five times by a copperhead snake, Emma Johnson, 17, walked several miles to her home in Powhatan before she collapsed. She was revived by a physician who arranged for serum to be brought here to treat her.

3 FARES BEAT TAXI DRIVER

Attacked by three fares whom he had asked to pay a 45-cent bill, John J Cenna, 30, of 1110 River avenue, Braddock, a taxicab driver, was severely beaten this morning. He was treated at the Pittsburgh Hospital and taken home.

Cenna, according to police, drove three men from Station street and Frankstown avenue to Fifth avenue extension and Transit way. When he asked them to pay the bill they knocked him down and kicked him, he told police. The men fled leaving Cenna on the pavement.

CHECK 'KITING' CLOSES BANK

CINCINNATI, O., June 27.—(AP.)—A second Cincinnati bank was closed and two of its former officers were under arrest today as a result of the alleged million dollar check "kiting" operations of A W Shafer, former district manager for the Henry L. Doherty Company.

The failure of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks National Bank to open yesterday was followed by the arrests of Lyman E. Norris, former vice president, and Harry Rosenbloom, former cashier, on charges of conspiracy to violate the national banking act. They were held today in default of $25,000 bonds each, set after they entered pleas of not guilty.

DOCTORS VOTE RUM CHANGE

DETROIT, June 27.—(AP.)—Adoption by the house of delegates of a resolution urging revision of medicinal liquor laws, condemnation of "false, misleading and even obscene" statements in radio "health" programs, election of Dr Edward Starr Judd, of the University of Minnesota, as president for 1931-32, and selection of Philadelphia as the convention city for 1931 were outstanding activities at the eighty-first annual convention of the American Medical Association.

Reiteration of the stand already taken against "communistic and socialistic tendencies in federal government" was contained in other resolutions adopted oposing the United States veterans' hospitalization program and the proposed revival of the Sheppard-Towner maternity and infancy act.

The medical profession's objections to medicinal liquor regulations centered about the necessity for revealing to prohibition commissioners and their clerks the names of patients and the ailments for which spirits have been prescribed.

INDIANS DERIDE SIMON REPORT

SIMLA, India, June 27.—(AP.)—Thousands of persons followed a donkey wearing foreign clothes, an English hat, and carrying a copy of the Simon commission report through the streets of India's summer capital in a procession today.

The procession wound up at the grain market, where a mass meeting was held. Hindu and Sikh speakers condemned the report whereafter the copy was burned.

Regular Weather Reports for Fliers

WASHINGTON, June 27.—(AP.)—Expanding its service in aid of aviation, the Weather Bureau is preparing to provide regular weather reports covering approximately 13,000 miles of airways. Shortly after July 1, Weather Bureau officials said today, these reports will provide sufficient detail to meet all existing needs of aviation. On about 8,000 miles of airways teletype lines will provide 24-hour communication with exchange of reports once each hour.

Silas Wayne's Death Amazes The Witnesses

ROBIN DALE In MASTER MYSTERIES

Eighteen eyes saw Silas Wayne murdered. Two of them belonged to the murderer, yet none of the other eight pairs of eyes was able to detect how the murder was accomplished, for Silas Wayne collapsed while the nearest person was 10 feet away.

THE WAYNE MURDER CASE is the first of the series of MASTER MYSTERIES, prepared by Arthur Hoerl, criminologist, for the Sun-Telegraph. It and the other stories in the series are divided into six daily installments which give all the clues to the identity of the criminal. The solution will be published a week after the sixth installment appears.

By this arrangement every reader will be able to play the absorbing game of "Who's guilty?" with Robin Dale as his opponent. All the stories play fair with the reader, providing all the clues necessary for a correct solution. You have a week to match your wits with the author.

MASTER MYSTERIES is the most unusual series of detective stories ever written, being based on actual crimes encountered by Hoerl in his career as newspaperman and detective. Yet all are short, all are puzzling and none is dumbfounding.

ROBIN DALE'S first case will be published

BOMB DAMAGES POSTOFFICE

SEATTLE, Wash., June 27—(INS.)—Postal inspectors today surveyed the damage done to the terminal postoffice last night when a bomb, disguised as a parcels post package, exploded in the mailing room.

The blast smashed every window within 50 feet, wrecked some of the mailing machinery and hurled several employes to the floor. The explosion occurred when the wrapped bomb was passing along a moving belt carrying bundles to the sorting tables on the floor above. Had the blast occurred in the sorting room at least three men would have been killed, investigators declared.

Chicago Policemen Aid Honeymooners

CHICAGO, June 27.—(AP)—The Evans family of Los Angeles ran out of everything all at once last night. First they ran out of air in a tire. They got out to take stock of the situation. They found they also had run out of gas, water, oil, food, money and patience.

The Evanses' dilemma was one of those things that gives the Chicago policeman a chance. The officers took the travelers in. They fed them. They arranged the replenishment of gasoline, oil and water for the honeymooners' rattly chariot. And Officer Carroll dug out his shears and performed what he proclaimed to be swell haircuts.

McKeesport Woman Struck by Machine

Mrs. Murray Floodstrome, 75, of 1823½ Fifth avenue, McKeesport, today was in a serious condition at the McKeesport Hospital as a result of having been struck by an automobile near her home last night. The driver of the car, who said he was George Dale, of 605 Market street, took the aged woman to the hospital and then reported the mishap to police.

The woman sustained a probable fracture of the skull and suffered from shock. She walked directly into the path of the machine, according to a police report.

Ten Years For Judge Who Killed Officer

DECATUR, Ala., June 27—(AP.)—Judge William E. Skeggs, 78, was convicted of second degree murder today for the slaying of Policeman T. E. Wright, shot to death when he stopped the jurist to arrest him on charges of violating a traffic ordinance. Sentence of 10 years in the state penitentiary was passed. The jury deliberated 30 hours.

Bank of Canada Head Dies Suddenly

TORONTO, Ont., June 27.—(AP.)—Peleg Howland, 73, who rose from office boy to president of the Imperial Bank of Canada, died suddenly at his home here last night. He was one of the most powerful figures in the financial and business life of the dominion.

HURT IN MARCH, DOCTOR DIES

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., June 27.—Dr. Isaac W. Umbel, 50, of Cardale, former big game hunter, died suddenly in the Uniontown Hospital because of injuries suffered in March in an automobile accident. An autopsy revealed a fractured skull.

A graduate of West Virginia University and Surgeons and Physicians Medical College, Baltimore, he had devoted many years to taxidermy. He also turned out many canvasses of natural life. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Erma Watson Umbel, and three daughters, Alice, Oma and Waneta; his mother, Mrs. Lucinda Umbel Conaway, of Uniontown, and two sisters, Mrs. Alice U. Cox, of New Salem, and Mrs. W. T. Myers, of Uniontown.

TOURISTS BACK FROM EUROPE

NEW YORK, June 27.—Mrs. Robert Cochrane, of Cathedral Mansions, Pittsburgh, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. John Crom, of 545 Hawkins avenue, North Braddock, arrived here from Europe on the Lancastria.

Mrs. Cochrane has been making a three-month tour of European countries with her mother. They also attended the Passion Play.

Others returning in the Cunarder were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kirkham and baby Raymon, of 1642 Lasalle avenue, Dormont, who have been visiting relatives in England; Mrs. William A. Peterson and daughter, Miss Eliza Peterson, of Pittsburgh, returned from a three-month motor trip of continental Europe.

Pastor Accepts Call To Zanesville Church

WASHINGTON, Pa., June 27.—The Rev. Byron E. Allender, of this city, pastor of an Everett, Mass., church until last fall when he resigned because of ill health, has accepted a call to the Forrest Avenue Presbyterian Church, Zanesville, O.

"NEW KONJOLA IS WONDERFUL," SAYS THIS MAN

Farmer Eager to Praise Famed Compound for Relief From Stubborn Ailments.

Why is it that time after time, wherever Konjola is known, this new and different medicine puts an end to suffering after all else tried has failed? Indeed, when given a fair trial, Konjola proves its supermacy. Konjola is not designed to give mere quick or temporary relief. Taken after meals, it works with the food you eat and eliminates internal poisons and impurities. If you are in ill health you owe it to yourself to see the Konjola Man and learn about this amazing medicine. Get the facts, as did Mr. S. G. Seals, South View, near Pittsburgh, who recently told the Konjola Man:

MR. S. G. SEALS

"I suffered for three or four years from stomach, liver and kidney weakness. Constipation bothered me for years. Sharp pains across the small of my back and frequent bladder actions disturbed my sleep. I bloated after meals and became short of breath and often nauseated. Bilious attacks and frequent headaches because of a torpid liver made life almost unbearable at times. I was a frequent user of cathartics and purges, and my system had become rundown and weakened.

"Since I have been taking Konjola I have an excellent appetite and am gaining weight and energy. The pain is leaving my back and I am never forced to get up at night because of irregular bladder action. My liver functions perfectly and I am no longer subject to bilious attacks and headaches. My faith in Konjola is without limit . . . Konjola is wonderful."

Not an exceptional case. The files of Konjola are filled to overflowing with thousands equally earnest and sincere.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where daily he is meeting the public, explaining the merits of this new and different medicine. FREE SAMPLES GIVEN by the Konjola Man. Konjola is sold at all Dow Drug Stores in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

'LEAGUE ARMY' PLAN BARED IN SENATE

Johnson Demands Inquiry As Secret Document's Contents Are Revealed

By FRASER EDWARDS.
Universal Service

WASHINGTON, June 27.—An astounding document entitled "Proposed Plans for Establishment of League of Nations Army and Navy" has burst like a bombshell in the midst of the Senate's struggle over the London naval treaty.

Some of the matters dealt with in this amazing plan, which is held in the confidential files of the Navy Department, were under discussion at the London naval conference, according to Ernest Lee Jahncke, assistant secretary of the Navy.

REVEALED AT HEARING

The existence of the document was disclosed yesterday at the hearings of the House Naval Affairs Committee on the Darrow bill providing $30,000,000 for the modernization of three battleships, when Representative James V. McClintic, of Oklahoma, made public a letter from Jahncke.

The letter, written by Jahncke February 14, while he was acting secretary of the Navy, during the London conference, said:

"My Dear Congressman:

"With reference to your letter of 29 January, 1930, I find there is in the confidential files of the Navy Department a paper entitled 'Proposed plans for establishment of League of Nations army and navy.'

"In view of the fact that this paper has been held confidential up to this time, and in view of the further fact, as its subject indicates, it deals with matters some of which are now under discussion at the naval conference in London, I feel that it would not be consistent with the public interests to permit this paper to leave the department or to make it public until the London conference is over."

CONGRESSMEN STIRRED

Members of the House committee were greatly stirred by the letter, and Navy Secretary Adams, one of the American delegates to the London conference, was questioned about it.

Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, declared that the entire history of the document should be investigated, as it might have a vital bearing on the naval treaty.

Boatman's Wife Braves Blast To Rush Aid

BROCKVILLE, Ont., June 27.—Braving the storm that was raging and possible danger in the vicinity of the disaster, Mrs. R. A. McNeil, wife of the foreman of the ill-fated drill boat J. B. King, launched a rowboat and went in search of her husband after she witnessed the explosion which sank the craft.

With her five small children, Mrs. McNeil was at a picnic on the shore when the explosion occurred. Another boat had picked up McNeil. He was taken home suffering minor injuries, shock.

MATE'S 'REFORM' DIDN'T LAST

Charles Berger, paroled last July from the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta, where he was serving a sentence for bootlegging on the North Side, is contesting a divorce action brought by his wife, Fannie, of 602 Wylie avenue, McKeesport, in Common Pleas Court today.

Mrs. Berger testified that on March 29 her husband came home drunk and choked her until she was nearly unconscious. She said she spent the rest of the night locked in a maid's room. She left him the next day. She said further that when she married him he promised to stop bootlegging. Berger had forced her to assist him in his liquor selling operations, she said.

The case is being heard before Judge Samuel H. Gardner. Berger's attorney is Ellsworth C. Treat. Mrs. Berger is represented by Harry E. Lichter.

TARDIEU WINS FINANCE VOTE

PARIS, June 27.—(AP.)—Premier Andre Tardieu's government won a victory in its first fight with the opposition since the Easter recess, carrying a vote of confidence by 330 to 262.

The vote came about when Socialists made a strong attack on the government, accusing it of depleting the treasury. Vincent Auriol and Leon Blum, Socialist leaders, demanded an investigation of the treasury's condition by a special committee.

The Socialists accused the government of "turning its back on the policy of Locarno and dreaming of nothing but the race for armaments." They alleged that 5,000,000,000 francs, on which the government counted, was not available without the issue of treasury bonds and said the government had made unauthorized expenditures for national defense.

Premier Tardieu retorted with accusations that the Socialists had tried to discredit France as well as the government by false reports of treasury leaks and plans for secret armaments.

Step into Wise — and step into this smart one eyelet tie without untying the crisp, fresh bow. A great deal of style and value for a little $6

Wise is prepared with all sizes and both high and low heels in this white kid single strap model. An all summer fashion — and a practical price $6

YOU'LL AGREE

when you see them, that $12 would not be too much to pay for these

WHITE KID and WHITE LINEN shoes

—but the Wise Price is only $6

Shoes in white come to the forefront of fashion for summer. And Wise again comes to the forefront in value! The new smart white kid and white linen models just coming out of the Wise factories are the equal of those selling elsewhere at double the price. Making shoes at the rate of over two million a year keeps Wise volume up and Wise price down. If you select your summer shoes at Wise you will see how much better it is to buy a shoe made not to sell at $6 but to satisfy at $6.

When you see this new bow-front white kid pump at exclusive shops at so much higher prices remember that at Wise it costs only $6

This single strap style is smart in either high or low heels. In white kid and in white linen that can be dyed. A real value at $6

While this white kid opera takes a fashion flight to new higher heels the Wise price stays down to $6

Pound After Pound For Thin Children

That's What Local Druggists' Guaranteed Offer Means to Anxious Mothers

Look at your thin, scrawny, underweight child and think what a few pounds of solid flesh would do for his health and appearance.

Picture that pitiful little figure suddenly changing into a sturdy, manly, well-rounded one. Then rejoice at the wonderful scientific discovery which makes possible such a fine, big gain in weight.

Druggists can tell you all about this amazing weight builder—McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets, which recently added 10 pounds of healthy flesh to a New Jersey boy's weight.

They supply in tasteless, easily digested form those flesh-producing vitamins that McCoy's chemists have learned to extract by an amazing process from pure Norwegian cod liver oil. McCoy's contain no harmful drugs, and the weight-increasing elements they supply are amply sufficient for any underweight man, woman or child.

Read this ironclad guarantee—McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets must give any underweight man, woman or child the desired increase in weight or money refunded. Just ask for McCoy's at any drug store—60 tablets 60 cents.

Real Estate

Three new double brick dwellings in Sylvan avenue, Fifteenth Ward, have been sold for John Reis to an investor who traded them to R. M. Morganstern for a two-story brick building containing four stores and a dance hall in Davis avenue, Mifflin Township. The latter property was then resold to J. C. Kuhns. The entire exchange was closed through Ira Aricson.

The Bell Telephone Company will erect a modern office building for the Coraopolis exchange on a lot 100x110 feet at Broadway and Pine alley, Coraopolis. G. M. Koontz is manager for the company there.

A tract of 594x460 feet in Powers Run road, O'Hara Township, has been sold by Etta C. Ritchie et al to G. H. L. Gerwig.

A house on the east side of Francis street near Center avenue, lot 25x115 feet, has been sold by Solomon Jones to Julius R. Weston for $9,750.

A house in Amman street, Nineteenth Ward, lot 30x110 feet, has been conveyed from J. C. Newcomer to Charles R. Rigdon for $9,850.

H. C. Steffen has joined the real estate sales force of the C. L. Saxton Company.

In Munhall John T. Potts sold to Linn A. Elliott 79x100 feet with a brick dwelling at the south corner of Virginia avenue and Grace street.

A frame residence in Scotia street, Ingram, lot 50x120 feet, has been sold by Susie A. Thornton to Clarence Mowry.

A property at the northwest corner of Butler and Maplewood streets, Etna, lot 60x103 feet, has been sold by Spang, Chalfant, Inc., to Gordon Fisher.

CANARDS CAUSE BANK CLOSINGS

WELCH, W. Va., June 27.—(AP.)—Wild rumors without any basis, D. R. Woods, Federal bank examiner, said, were responsible for the closing of four banks in McDowell County during the last week.

The rumors, he said, caused doubt in the minds of depositors as to the stability of the banks and runs resulted. The source of the rumors, he said, had not been ascertained. He added, however, that conditions had improved.

The latest of the bank closings occurred yesterday when a notice was pasted on the door of the First National Bank of Kimball, that it had been closed temporarily because of unusual withdrawals. Similar notices had been posted on doors of the other three banks. They were the First National Bank of Welch, closed on June 20; the Citizens Bank of War, a state institution, closed on June 23, and the First National Bank of Iaeger, closed on June 25.

How would you like to lose 19 pounds of fat in a month and at the same time increase your energy and improve your health?

That's just what one western woman did—How happy she is.

How would you like to lose a load of unhealthy fat that you don't need and don't want and at the same time feel better than you have for years?

How would you like to lose your double chin and your too prominent abdomen and at the same time make your skin so clean and clear that it will compel admiration?

How would you like to get your weight down to normal and at the same time develop that urge for activity that makes work a pleasure and also gain in ambition and keenness of mind?

Get on the scales to-day and see how much you weigh—then get an 85 cent bottle of Kruschen Salts which will last you for 4 weeks. Take one half teaspoonful in a glass of hot water every morning—eat what you need—take the exercise which Kruschen will induce—persist in this method every morning and when you have finished the contents of this first bottle weigh yourself again.

Now you can laugh at the people who pay hundreds of dollars to lose a few pounds of fat—now you will know the pleasant way to lose unsightly fat and you'll also know that the 6 vitalizing salts of Kruschen (Salts that your blood, nerves and glands must have to function properly)—have presented you with glorious health.

After that you'll want to walk around and say to your friends—"One 85 cent bottle of Kruschen Salts is worth one hundred dollars of any fat person's money."

Leading druggists America over sell Kruschen Salts—you can always get it at all May's and Liggett's Drug Stores.

THE OFFICE WIFE By FAITH BALDWIN

CHAPTER XX.

"You're a quixotic idiot!" Sanders told Lawrence Eaton with affectionate exasperation.

"Quixotic—I doubt; idiot—certainly; but neither, in this case. No, Sanders, I can't see it."

"It's one of the biggest accounts that's been offered us," Sanders commented with deceptive mildness.

Anne, from her own office listened shamelessly. The door was half open. For two days this bloodless battle had raged ever since the Warner account had been under discussion.

"We can't take dubious medicines; we don't take cure-alls, do we?" asked Eaton.

"Nope."

"We employ a reputable physician to investigate any medical statement made in our advertising, do we not?"

"We do," agreed Sanders.

"Dr. Mathews has made a report on this infant food," Eaton proceeded, "and while it appears harmless—in other words, it isn't guaranteed to kill innumerable babies—it simply does not measure up to the claims made for it. The concern insists upon making those claims. Therefore, if I have anything to say about it, we will not handle the account."

"But," argued Sanders, "if, as you say, the product can do no harm, couldn't you stretch a point? It's a lot of money."

"We can struggle along without this particular 15 per cent," said Eaton, grinning. "The business was built up on a foundation of integrity. We believe in our clients and what they offer the public. That belief stands back of every piece of copy which goes out of this office. It's more than honesty—it's honor. No, I can't see it, Sandy. The Warner people will have to take their problem elsewhere."

Anne Agrees

"Well," Sanders told him resignedly, "It's O. K. with me. You're the big boss. Only, I hate like thunder to see that much jack get away from us."

"So do I; I'm only human," Eaton admitted. "But in this case I cannot be convinced. For every cent we'd gain, we'd lose 2 cents—later on. Lowering the standard even once is bound to affect the busines eventually. Sorry to disagree with you, old man."

"Forget it," Sanders said gruffly. "I'll tell the Warner outfit to run along and sell papers at another stand."

"I thought you'd see it," Eaton told him quietly. "By the way, I've got Merle Dawson, the music critic, to take over the superintending of the musical end of our broadcasting."

"That's good," Sanders told him. "Well, I'll get back to work. See you later."

He went out through Anne's office and stopped to speak to her. Anne, a little later, went in to see Eaton.

"I'm afraid I've lost face with Sanders," Eaton told her, smiling ruefully, yet boyishly wanting her approbation.

Anne knew all about the Warner proposition. She said, trying to keep back the idolatrous warmth from eyes and voice: "You were right."

Attend Theater

"Well, that doesn't always make one popular," Eaton laughed. "It isn't the first time such a question has arisen, but it's never meant so much money before." He looked at her, and against the better judgment of his mind, followed his heart. "Look here, I think I need a reward for virtue. Couldn't we have dinner and go to a show? It's been so long——"

"I'd love it," said Anne instantly, forgetting all her resolutions.

She had tried to school herself to an unnatural calm in his presence, but sometimes, as now, the mask slipped, and he saw, and he dared to wonder.

Anne, back at her desk, wished he hadn't asked her to go out—and was radiant with happiness because he had.

That night they dined together and went to the most discussed play of the season, and experienced the necessity for concealment, the excitement of this unofficial nearness. So the play, good as it was, was wasted on them.

"I mustn't do this again," thought Anne, when he was leaving her at her door, holding her hand in farewell.

"I'll have to cut this out," he thought, getting into his car, "before I've more than begun. It's too pleasant—and unsatisfying—and dangerous!"

Conspires With Linda

During the winter Eaton went to the hunting club in Virginia for a time. He had to get away, away from Anne, to face the admission that the attraction persisted. And during his absence her daily routine seemed endless and uninteresting. That frightened her. If she were losing her interest in the job for the job's sake she might as well give up.

At this time Linda asked her help again and she went to the apartment, hating herself for being so unwilling. Yet they had been friendly since their closer contact at Hot Springs. Linda had even enlisted Anne's aid in small plots against Eaton. "See if you can't persuade him to put off that St. Louis trip for a day; I do so want him to go to the Marshes with me." Such conspiracies were not serious and when they did not really interfere with Eaton's business Anne allied herself with Linda. Eaton told her once, secretly delighted:

"It's amazing how you manage me! Oh, don't shake your head. I'm on!"

"If," she stammered—"if I've seemed officious——"

"Come, don't be foolish. I am content. All good secretaries manage their bosses. I've no objection. Rather like it, in fact."

He mentioned it to Linda. He couldn't help it. Anne's face had been so—dear and embarrassed.

"She blushed like a kid," he said, "and I was sorry I'd said anything."

"Office wives," Linda murmured.

"What's that?"

Remark Stings Eaton

"Nothing—only, think it over," Linda advised, unmalicious; "some one has to manage every man. When the wife at home can't or won't the proxy wife in the office must."

"I don't think I quite like that."

"Larry, you're a nice person, but on certain occasions you lack humor."

"Now, do I?" he mused and asked Anne the next day.

"Tell me the fatal truth," he urged; "humorless people are intolerable."

"If you mean a kind of custard-pie sense of humor," Anne said slowly, "I don't think you have it."

"What other kinds are there?"

"Oh, an ability to see the comic side of serious things," Anne told him seriously. "Sort of the difference between wisecracking and wit."

"And I've not that sort?"

"Oh, yes. If you hadn't, you wouldn't think you hadn't."

"Thats rather Irish."

"I come by it naturally," she told him.

He picked up a letter on his desk, smiled at her, thanked her gravely but with laughing eyes, and they got to work. He thought afterwards Linda had been right, in part; perhaps, where Anne was concerned, he did lack humor. But—that office wife remark had carried a certain sting with it. Linda didn't know; still, the sting had been there.

Ted Visits

One Sunday evening Kathleen was out and Anne was home alone. She sat before the fire in the small hearth and thought of Eaton. The novel she had set herself to read lay unopened, and she sat back in her big chair and looked contentedly about the small apartment.

There was not much furniture in it. She wanted the best, and that cost money. If ever her ship came in, she would buy things; a comfortable couch, end tables, another deep chair.

In the bedroom she had the two narrow beds from home and the dresser and vanity table. These she had painted a cool, misty green. She had bought pretty curtain material at a remnant sale and Mrs. Murdock had made the curtains for her. There were pictures on the walls; good prints which she had had for some time, and two fine ladderback chairs.

Her mother had given her enough to furnish the kitchen, and Anne had amused herself painting the plastered bathroom a curious sea-blue.

Some day the living room in which she sat would be—just right.

The doorbell rang and Anne, aroused from her dreamings, rose and let Ted in.

"Hello!" She looked so astonished that he accused her, crestfallen:

"You didn't expect me."

"No," she admitted.

"But I told you I'd come by and we'd go to a movie or something."

"So you did! I'm getting absent-minded. I'm sorry, Ted."

"Well, it's not a flattering reception. Get your things. Where's Kathleen?"

"Out with Frank Young—a friend of Jim's."

"Does your highness approve?"

"Oh, quite; he's a nice person," Anne said. "Ted, come in and look at the bathroom wall. It does look speckled."

He'd helped her paint it. He followed her in and stood gazing critically.

"So it does. Tell your girl friends it's distempered—the latest thing," he advised.

On the way back to the living room he caught her in his long arms.

"Ah, Anne, are you never going to have me, then?" he asked. "We'd have such fun dear, fixing up a little place of our own."

She struggled, and he let her go.

"No, Ted. I don't want a place of my own—at least I do want it and I have it, but——"

"But what?" he demanded.

"I want it—alone."

"Kathleen?"

Visit Polly

"She's my sister. You know what I mean," Anne told him.

He digested this a moment in silence. Then he said unhappily, "I suppose I do know what you mean. Well, get your coat and hat and we'll go out!"

[illegible] she said gently: "You look tired. Would you rather stay here?"

He swung around at that, his pleasant, boyish face dark with emotion. "No! To be alone with you—like this—and not be able to touch you!"

After a moment, comprehending fully out of her own love's bitter wisdom, she said: "I'm sorry, Ted."

"So am I." His mouth twisted in a wry smile. "But it can't be helped and I don't expect you to understand. You're a girl, and—so cold."

Cold? She said nothing, but she wondered. Cold? Not she, whose blood burned to her finger tips when she was near Lawrence Eaton! Cold—and not understanding! She knew that she understand only too well.

They sat through part of a cambric-tea film, and then walked through the little park and at 10 o'clock presented themselves at Polly Ames'.

The austere sister was not present. But Polly had filled the small flat to overflowing with young people. Ted knew most of them, but Anne did not.

Some one played the piano; some one sang. They rolled up a rug and danced to a phonograph. Ted, with Polly in his arms, his eyes roving about the room in search of the flaming gold that was Anne's hair, whistled a current song under his breath: "There's one little girl who loves me, there's one little girl who don't."

"Ungrammatical," thought Ted, "but pretty darned near true."

For Polly was cooing at him: "You haven't been here in ages. I've missed you so much. Have I done anything to offend you?"

"Don't be ridic!" Ted told her.

"Anne isn't looking well," Polly remarked. "She works too hard, doesn't she?"

Anne's Work

Now there was nothing in the friendly concern of that question to anger Mr. O'Hara. Nevertheless, he replied with some frigidity:

"I don't think so. She has an important job, you know, and it doesn't stop with office hours."

"Yes, one hears that," Polly answered.

"Hears what?"

"That she works—out of office hours."

"Now what do you mean by that?"

"Teddy"—Polly looked grieved—"I don't mean anything. Why do you always take that tone when Anne Murdock is mentioned? Of course, every one knows you're crazy about her." Polly went on, drooping, "but you needn't go about with the attitude that if a person mentions her she's being insulted."

"Of course, I'm not crazy about her. What a silly idea!" Ted denied hotly, and had the feeling of a Peter who repudiates his most sacred emotion.

Later, there was "something in a chafing-dish" and coffee, and chocolate cake which Polly had made herself. After which Ted took Anne home.

"I'm afraid you were bored."

"No. Polly would make most any one a good wife," Anne remarked.

"Look here, are you trying to ——?"

"Of course not. Thanks a lot for tonight," she told him, and he departed.

Waiting for Kathleen, she thought back to her evening with Eaton. But that mustn't happen again. Well, tonight had been stupid. But Sundays passed and Mondays came again.

CITY RANKED HIGH IN RADIO

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Radio Editor.

PITTSBURGH IS NOW the third largest radio market in the United States, Benjamin Erskine, vice president of the Radio Manufacturers Association, told the radio audience last night over KDKA.

Paying tribute to "Pittsburgh—The Pioneer," Mr. Erskine said:

"We cannot give too great recognition to the foresight and pioneering spirit of those industrial leaders of Pittsburgh who created a new wonder of the world, added immeasurably to the happiness of homes and established the foundation of this country's fourth largest industry."

Erskine predicted an early return to normal in the radio business and cited several figures to show that tube plants and set factories are already at the peak of production, preparing for fall sales.

GUEST AT COUNCIL.

Erskine was guest of honor at the Radio Council meeting in the Chamber of Commerce and later addressed a gathering of Bosch dealers at The Dells, where he was introduced by M. V. Mansfield, president of O-M-C Supply Company. Other speakers at the Bosch meeting were Roy Davey, Frank Goodman, H. E. Fenner of the Bosch advertising and sales departments. John Olson, treasurer of O-M-C Supply Company was toastmaster.

Besides his office of vice president in the RMA, Mr. Erskine is chairman of the Broadcasting Committee, chairman of the tube manufacturers' group and president of the Sylvania Products Company, at Emporium, Pa. He is a very active figure in radio.

DO YOU KNOW—

THAT the first KDKA studio was a tent on top of an East Pittsburgh nine-story building?

THAT Don Bestor opens in Atlantic City next week and is due here about five weeks later?

THAT announcers at a downtown station recently received $20 watches as gifts from a "correct time" sponsor because the boys had been announcing the time from a studio clock of another manufacture?

THAT twins in a Smithton, Pa., family have been named after "Jack and Tony" of KQV?

THAT 22 acts of vaudeville are scheduled for a dealer meeting of General Electric Supply Corporation in the William Penn Hotel tonight?

THAT a record for presidential broadcasts will be made next Monday night when President Hoover speaks for the fourth time within a month over the NBC networks?

THAT ground rods should be planted at least two feet from the wall of your home to obtain best results?

THAT the Silver Moon Orchestra at the Hollywood refuses to play the Stein Song over the air?

THAT John White, the "Lonesome Cowboy" of NBC, has spent but one summer out West?

GOSSIP FROM STAGE AND SCREEN CAPITALS; REVIEW OF NEW FILM

Russian Film Director Would Do Away With Dialogue

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, June 27.—DIALOGUE WRITERS ARE TREMBLING for Sergei M. Eisenstein, Russia's most famous director, will try to develop a new kind of talkie in which sound effects and "mass" conversation will supplant the usual spoken lines among the members of the cast.

Though Mr. Eisenstein himself is a master of English, French, German and Japanese besides his native tongue, he believes that actions speak louder than words.

The 32-year-old director of "Potemkin" and "Ten Days That Shook the World" made a strong impression upon newspaper correspondents whom he addressed at a luncheon given by the Paramount studio.

Al Jolson

He is a short, stocky man with fine fluffy hair and with a brow so high that it reminds one of caricatures of scholars.

I have an idea that it will be exciting to watch the impact of such a positive personality upon the preconceived ideas of Hollywood. And while the film colony has been the graveyard of many theorists, it would not surprise me to see Mr. Eisenstein leave a definite impress upon this community.

The next few months will tell. He's in conference now with Paramount on his first American picture.

MOVIE CLOCK

Hours at which feature photoplays begin in first run houses are in accordance with the following time schedule:

PENN—"The Lady of Scandal"—10, 11 27 a m, 1 45, 4 15, 5 42, 8 11 and 10 39 p m.

STANLEY—"Numbered Men"—11 55 a m, 2 05, 4 15, 6 20, 8 30 and 10 40 p m.

WARNER—"Golden Dawn"—10 a m, 12 03, 2 06, 4 09, 6 13, 8 15 and 10 18 p m.

ALDINE—"Born Reckless"—10 55 a m, 12 30, 2 25, 4 20, 6 15, 8 10 and 10 05 p m.

ENRIGHT—"Bride of the Regiment"—2 01, 4 08, 6 06, 8 13, 10 20 p m.

HARRIS—"Sisters"—12 25, 2 45, 5 15, 7 35 and 10 p m.

SHERIDAN SQUARE—"The Fall Guy"—12 11, 12 12, 4 13, 6 14, 8 15 and 10 16 p m.

STOPPED COLD

Al Jolson has amused himself with many quips at Warner Brothers' expense. The latest story goes that Joe Martin, casting director at Warners, saw Al standing on the lot with a box of cigars under his arm.

"Say Al," said Joe, "let me see those. I used to be in the cigar business myself."

"Don't kid me," parried Al with his biggest grin. "You're still in the cigar business."

TEA IS SERVED

The Screen Stars Shop is now a fact. It was dedicated in tea by many famous movie folk who had contributed garments and various other odds and ends to be sold for the benefit of the Motion Picture Relief Fund.

Mary Pickford

A little routine had been rehearsed for the stars to talk about the shop for the newsreel cameras. They lined up and Mary Pickford was to introduce each in turn. Absent-mindedly Mary started at the wrong end of the line, and June Collyer who had expected to be last was for the moment struck speechless. When the laughter had subsided the introductions commenced again as per schedule.

SIC TRANSIT GLORIA

The Universal zoo is no more. Where once lived dozens of jungle beasts ready for use in the serial pictures there are now only empty cages.

A venerable elephant was the last to go. Charles Murphy, keeper of the zoo for many years, says that his three-year-old daughter was sick for three days after the sale of her pachyderm playmate.

Holbrook Pastor Endeavor Officer

WAYNESBURG, Pa., June 27.—The Rev. Larue Brown of Holbrook was named president of the Greene County Christian Endeavor Society at the annual convention held here. Other officers named for the coming year were: Dr. Marcus Gould, Crucible, vice president; Mary Stewart, Waynesburg, secretary; Mrs. Albert Rush, Dunn's Station, treasurer. Spraggs was chosen for next year's convention.

Savings in Mattress Lost as Home Burns

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., June 27.—Twenty-four hundred dollars secreted in a mattress in the home of John Lazuka, near Leisenring, was burned when fire razed the structure early yesterday. Members of the family were away at the time.

New Castle Census Shows 48,627 People

NEW CASTLE, Pa., June 27.—Census Supervisor Orville Brown announced the population of New Castle as 48,627 and that of Lawrence County as 96,708. This is an increase of 3,669 in 10 years for the city and 11,163 for the county.

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

These Charming People

There is no questioning Geo. Jean Nathan's ability and he is a dapper dresser, but he cannot pull a Rhine wine cork.

Several Wall Streeters' Broadway chumps are Russell-Rydering for a fall which is their own business, of course, but they are not taking a warning from the plight of Ryder and still show-off with their lavish tips in the various sucker salons.

Dick Simon of the Simon & Schuster book firm is simply swell, y'know, but he always has the stomach-ache.

Ed Barrow, the N. Y. Yankees secretary, has his redeeming features, but he loses his head and hits veteran baseball writers, which is going to do Barrow a lot of no good.

Perhaps the finest Britisher who ever set foot on these shores is Frederick Lonsdale, but he smokes the dambdest cigars.

Samuel Shipman, the playwright, is best liked because he can stand for a lot of kidding and ribbing, but he permits himself to be represented on Broadway by the most brazen phonies.

Anne Werren and several other subscribers are ardent admirers of this corner, but they are the type who write in to remind us that Jeanne Eagles and Arnold Rothstein have been dead for quite a while. Miss Werren and the others apparently not reading the title to our recent colm called "This Town Of Ours FIVE Years Ago."

Harry Richman's warbling and sense of humor is a perfect combination, but he is suffering from Clara Bow poisoning again.

Henry Moscowitz, head of the Theater League, is a charming guy, but he swallows the biggest black pills after each meal.

Paul Morand of the French Diplomatic Service and contributor to Vanity Fair is a delightful feller, but he has the habit of going out of his way to be nice to people he detests.

The movie execs who hired Vivienne Segal the nightingale are powerful and wealthy, but they do not know the people they engage, holding up a film 10 days to look for a singer when Miss Segal, who is a good actress, is a better prima donna.

There probably isn't a better writer in America than H. L. Mencken, but he wears collars that were in style 25 years ago.

Now there's Graham MacNamee, the radiodor. A nice lad and ever so popular, but with everyone announced ahead of him as Jimmy, Johnny, Freddie, Charlie, Willie and Gus, Mac permits them to introduce him as "Mr. MacNamee."

Commodore Vanderbilt wears the cutest naval uniforms and has the dudiest yacht, but he is always nervous at sea.

Norma Talmadge is one of our favorite chin-emactresses, but she gets people to tell newspapermen that everything is Jake at her house and then goes places with Gilbert Roland.

Rudy Vallee is all right at that, and you may quote us, but he invariably says to them: "Live for the moment, my dear."

Now here's a lad, John D. Williams, who produced "Rain," which starred the late Jeanne Eagles. He is loyal to his friends and all that sorta thing, but he is incessantly fixing his tie.

Robert L. Ripley, the adroit fact-discoverer, is in more newspapers than the rest of you specialists, and he is without a doubt a popular person, but he wears tight collars.

Wall Streeters as a whole are not a bad lot at all, but one renowned banker will give the street a bad name again (see the front pages soon) with a yarn eclipsing the Stillman-Indian Guide smash.

Joe Humphries, the esteemed prize ring announcer, is an idol in New York, and deservedly so, but at the Stadium Sharkey-Schmeling "fight" he prefaced his announcements with editorial comment such as "And every red-blooded American should ..." when all we want our ring announcers to announce is the fighter's name.

Amos 'n' Andy carry their great success gracefully and they have excellent bridge work, but their shoes squeak.

Janet Flynn, the Albertina Rasch dancer, who went to Paris where she was listed as "a find" by the "Sons o' Guns" management, is as good if not better than her predecessor, Lily Damita, and she may call herself Gina Malo if she likes and so forth, but she still affects her French dialect off stage and would even have her oldest friends believe "me no Emereecan gel, me Franch!"

Retlaw Chinwell may be New York's greatest gossip and know everything that is going on, but if he knows so much why can't he be a regular guy and tell who V3X is?

The lads who are chiefly responsible for Russell Ryder's expose are good to their mothers, no doubt, but when they get on the witness stand it would be real cute if they voluntarily confessed that most of the parties thrown at the Savoy-Plaza were for their diversion.

Founder of Trade Boards 84 Monday

Joseph Painter of 1205 Manhattan street, one of the 18 surviving members of the Alexander Hays Post, G. A. R., and a founder of the Allied Boards of Trade of Allegheny County, will celebrate his 84th birthday Monday. He also was influential in forming the Oakland Board of Trade.

South Side Beauty Contest at Outing

Beauties of the South Side district will compete for honors at the annual outing of the South Side Business Men's Association at West View Park July 10. Athletic events and dancing are also on the program.

OLD DOCTOR'S IDEA IS BIG HELP TO ELDERLY PEOPLE

In 1885, old Dr. Caldwell made a discovery for which elderly people the world over praise him today!

Years of practice convinced him that many people were endangering their health by a careless choice of laxatives. So he began a search for a harmless prescription which would be thoroughly effective, yet would neither gripe nor form any habit. At last he found it.

Over and over he wrote it, when he found people bilious, headachy, out of sorts, weak or feverish; with coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy. It relieved the most obstinate cases, and yet was gentle with women, children and elderly people.

Today the same famous effective prescription, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is the world's most popular laxative. It may be obtained from any drugstore.

Carrie Nation Sister Held Mental Case

LOS ANGELES, June 27.—(INS)—After a psychopathic trial before Superior Court Judge Thomas Gould, Mrs. Winne Butcher, a sister of Carrie Nation, who years ago used a hatchet to war on saloons, today had been paroled to the psychopathic parole department. It was shown in court that she was falsely suspicious of her daughter, Mrs. Leonard Wilson. Mrs. Butcher is 70.

C. A. Emery Named French Line Agent

Effective July 1, Chester A. Emery, of the Cleveland office of the French line has been appointed general agent in charge of the company's office in Pittsburgh. He is a graduate of the Carnegie Institute of Technology and played on the Tech varsity football team in 1924. Serving in the World War, he was appointed a lieutenant of field artillery at the age of 18, just before the close of the war.

Joint Etna, Shaler Sewer Proposed

Engineers of Etna borough and Shaler Township are making a survey looking to the construction of a joint trunk line sanitary sewer to serve both communities. The proposal is to construct a 36-inch line along Pine Creek, emptying into the Allegheny River. An estimate of the cost with plans, will be submitted to the authorities of the two municipalities.

Fine of $1,200,000 Assessed German Bootleggers

HAMBURG, Germany, June 27.—(AP.)—A fine of $1,200,000 was imposed in a court on a German "bootlegger" and two accomplices.

Albert Schramm and his aides were caught smuggling 150,000 tons of spirits into Germany from a free port. In German currency the fine amounted to 5,238,456 marks.

German law prescribes a fine 100 times the normal duty for tax evasion, plus heavy penalty for smuggling.

PRISON AND BARNYARD MIX IN STANLEY'S TALKIE-SHOOTIE

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

"Numbered Men," a talkie-shootie, opened yesterday on the Stanley screen. It is a convict drama. It has lots of excitement—what, with an attempted wholesale jailbreak and that sort of thing! And it manages to arouse some interest. But it misses striking a realistic note. All the way through it you "feel" it is just a movie.

Conrad Nagel is present as Convict No. 26521 and is the last word in politeness and gallantry. He's really the real hero of the affair, too, making a glorious gesture of sacrifice on behalf of a friend.

Raymond Hackett, a talented lad, appears in the role of Framed Innocence. He's doing a 10-year stretch for something he didn't do.

Bernice Claire is there as Framed Innocence's girl friend. She swears she'll wait 10 years for him. But she doesn't have to. Well, you know how it is. When it's fadeout time in Hollywood the rainbows are in full bloom.

HIS GREATER SIN

George Cooper is seen as the clown of the convicts. He has the hands of a sneak thief and the heart of a musician. But when he starts playing a mouth organ you don't know which is his greater sin.

There are a couple villains involved. The worst one is portrayed by Ralph Ince. Being trite, it can be said he'd as soon shoot you as look at you—provided your back be turned. But he gets what's coming to him in the end. He begins his Long Sleep in a pig sty.

Sometimes the production almost touches the burlesque. It has convicts running around the countryside eating doughnuts that a farmer's wife makes. And it has a warden who hands out riot guns to some convicts so they may go about chasing others.

BARNYARD BOOM-BOOM

The grand climax comes not behind prison walls, but in a barnyard. While pigs squeal and squawk, rival convicts take pop shots at each other from behind barn doors.

On the stage is a revue, "The Blue Mill." Dick Powell, looking cool and happy in his grey suit and white-top shoes, broadcasts "Monterey" through a glittering megaphone. That fellow Karl, who used to be drummer boy out in the Enright, appears with a blond wig and feminine garb and does some boop-a-dooping. Featured dancers, singers and such are in the show. But the best thing about it all is the slim comic, Ray Bolger. He's at least one fellow who lives up to what the ads say about him. He's a panic! And he's able to get by with a line of gab that from any other lips might sound vulgar.

Movie Bride

Patriotic Sunday For West Virginia

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 27.—(AP.)—Gov. Conley designated the coming Sunday as Independence Sunday throughout the state for "holding religious and patriotic services, displaying the American flag, and commemorating the signing of the Declaration of Independence."

The Governor pointed out that it is becoming customary in many states to set aside the Sunday preceding July 4 as a day especially suitable to the holding of patriotic services.

3,000 Attend Annual Outing of Grangers

NEW CASTLE, Pa., June 27.—Thirteen counties were represented among the 3,000 Grangers attending the annual intercounty picnic held at Etna Springs, near Slippery Rock.

J. Audley Boak, Lawrence County, was re-elected president. Other officers named were Mrs. George Gault, Harmonsburg, Crawford County, secretary, and W. D. Phillips, Washington County, treasurer.

Odd Fellows Visit To Aged Scheduled

FAYETTE CITY, Pa., June 27.—The booster committee of I. O. O. F. lodges in the Southern Pennsylvania district completed plans at a meeting here for a visit to the Odd Fellows Home for the Aged at Grove City August 17.

Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad trains will leave Brownsville, Waynesburg, Connellsville and Washington. The parties will join at Pittsburgh.

NEW HARRIS THEATER DEDICATED IN BUTLER

Another new playhouse was added to the Harris Amusement Company's circuit with the dedication at Butler last night of the new Butler Theater. D. A. Harris, president of the Harris Amusement Company, and Mayor Joseph Heineman of Butler, participated in the brief dedicatory ceremonies.

Following this the theater inaugurated its regular programs of sound and talk pictures. "The Flirting Widow," starring Dorothy Mackaill, was the feature presentation.

The theater's construction is modernistic in style. It is equiped with a large and modern refrigerating system.

Boost Pittsburgher As Pythian Official

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., June 27.—Benjamin Moore, of Pittsburgh, was advocated for grand keeper of records and seals of the Knights of Pythias of Pennsylvania, by speakers at a meeting of the Past Chancellors' Association of Southwestern Pennsylvania, held here. The position is vacant due to the death of Lemuel E. Wilt.

Make Fast Progress On National Pike

WASHINGTON, Pa., June 27.—With concrete being poured, reconstruction of the National pike, between this city and Claysville, is progressing at such a rate it is believed the section will be open to traffic in the fall.

Navy's Los Angeles Returning From Sea

LAKEHURST, N. J., June 27.—(AP.)—The Navy dirigible Los Angeles planned to return to its hangar at the naval air station today after remaining 150 miles off the coast last night to avoid thunderstorms.

Brewery Demolished In Chicago Bombings

CHICAGO, June 27.—(AP.)—Two bombs shook "The Valley" last night, destroying a miniature brewery and damaging the site of another which recently had been moved away.

BOARD FOR RUM, TAFT QUITS

NEW YORK, June 27.—(AP.)—Henry W. Taft, one of the most prominent Republicans in New York City, has resigned as a member of the advisory committee of the New York County Republican Committee as a result of a recent declaration by the advisory committee for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, the Times says.

Mr. Taft, brother of the late Chief Justice William Howard Taft and a law partner of George W. Wickersham, chairman of President Hoover's Law Enforcement Commission, declined today to comment on his resignation.

It was said his letter of resignation to Gen. James G. Harbord, chairman of the advisory committee, was formal and without explanation except that he regarded his retirement as called for "in the circumstances."

Mr. Taft was a member of the advisory committee's subcommittee on legislation, of which Martin Saxe is chairman and which framed the original declaration for repeal which was approved by the advisory committee and the county committee. He was the only member of the subcommittee on legislation which did not assent to its report.

DIVORCE ASKED OF BUSCH

ST. LOUIS, June 27.—(AP.)—Adolphus Busch III, son of August A. Busch, wealthy former brewer, was sued for divorce by Mrs. Florence Parker Busch, who in 1912 divorced Marion L. J. Lambert, pharmacial manufacturer. The petition and answer were suppressed.

The couple were married June 21, 1913. At that time Busch was 22 and his wife was 10 years his senior and the mother of three children by her first marriage.

Seamen Sentenced As Rum Smugglers

BALTIMORE, June 27.—(AP.)—Andreas Ljustvedt, first officer of the Norwegian steamer Birk, and Sigurd Olsen, Baltimore shipping agent, were sentenced to six months in jail each here on charges of smuggling liquor. They were tried by Judge William C. Coleman, in the first non-jury trial on criminal charges to be held in the Federal District Court here since the Supreme Court ruling permitting such action.

PITTSBURGH BREWING CO.

Calvin Coolidge, exclusively in the Sun-Telegraph, will write a daily article beginning next Tuesday. No American can afford to miss the messages of this great leader. No newspaper has ever had a greater privilege than offering to its readers the writings of Calvin Coolidge.

Calvin Coolidge, in his autobiography, revives the young Calvin Coolidge who attended the little red schoolhouse in Vermont, who sold apples and popcorn at the town meetings, who went, eager-eyed, to study at the Black River Academy, and was molded by the teachings of the fine old-school scholars at Amherst. He tells of the young college graduate settling down as a lawyer in Northampton, earning five hundred dollars in his first year; of the young householder busily engaged in providing for his family and in being a good neighbor; of Calvin Coolidge, Mayor of Northampton. The stir of political battles, the grave days of the Boston police strike; the swift and dramatic march of events that carried him to the White House; the rugged decision to return to private life—all pass in living review in a book that is a masterpiece of pithy sincerity, and bears on every page the imprint of a great personality.

And in Mr. Coolidge's daily articles there will be the wealth of his extraordinary career, brought to bear upon timely observations and comments. Read them every day, beginning next Tuesday.

BOSTON HONORS BYRD AS 'SON'

BOSTON, June 27.—(INS.)—Bedecked with flags and bunting and with 200,000 visitors from many sections of New England looking on, Boston today welcomed Rear Admiral Richard Evelyn Byrd, the city's "adopted son."

The program included: Band concert on historic Boston Common, air parade of an escadrille of 40 planes, military parade across the city to the State House, greeting to Byrd at the Capitol by Gov. Frank G. Allen and presentation of the state's gift, a solid gold medallion, singing of "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny" by 1,500 school children and a banquet in the evening.

Byrd and members of his Antarctic exploration party last night attended a dinner by the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce after dedicating the Floyd Bennett air field in Brooklyn.

Chicago Pays Safety Workers Back Wage

CHICAGO, June 27.—(INS.)—Chicago policemen and firemen and other city employes today received pay checks which were due June 16.

Through an early compensation payment to the city by an electric concern and the raising of $550,000 additional, the city was able to meet all but $350,000 of its payroll for the first half of the month. Fourteen thousand school teachers, whose final pay for the year was due today, may have to wait several days.

Lost Fawn Again Good Omen for Sea Flight

GREENSBURG, Pa., June 27.—A starving faw, found in the vicinity of Jones Mills, Donegal Township, is looked upon by Ray McKissock, game protector, as a harbinger of good fortune for the crew of the ocean-flying plane, the "Southern Cross." The deer has been christened "Kingsford-Smith."

When Charles A. Lindbergh made the first successful East-West Atlantic flight, a fawn deer in a similar state of starvation was discovered in the same section. That deer was named "Lindy."

4 DEAD, 21 HURT IN RAIL WRECK

TORONTO, June 27.—(INS.)—Four persons were killed and 21 injured when a tourist car attached to Train No. 4 of the Canadian National Railways plunged into the Vermillion River near Sudbury, according to the word received here today from the scene of the accident.

It is understood the entire train was derailed last night. The train was en route to Toronto. Details were lacking because wires were downed by an electrical storm. A washout was believed responsible for the wreck.

VOTE DISTRICT CUT FINAL

With the failure of anyone to file exceptions to the report of the County Redistricting Commission, which cut down the number of election districts in Pittsburgh, McKeesport, Clairton and Duquesne preparatory to the use of voting machines, the report became final today.

Pittsburgh districts, by the report, are reduced from 750 to 404; McKeesport from 48 to 33; Duquesne from 16 to 12, and Clairton from 16 to nine.

21 Bridge Players Held Up, Lose $1,800

DETROIT, June 27.—(INS.)—Twenty-one bridge players, allegedly playing for high stakes, were held up and robbed of $1,800 here early today as they sat at tables in the rear of a cigar store. Four armed bandits entered the room, terrorized its occupants, scooped up $1,000 from the tables, then collected $800 from the players' pockets.

Tornado Ends Feud Over School Site

SEDAN, Kan., June 27.—(AP.)—Some patrons wanted a new school at Summit, some did not. So the argument went on for years.

A tornado hovered over Summit yesterday, singled out the old school building and ended the argument. No other structure was damaged.

DEATH BALKED, YOUTH FLEES

Police today were without a clue to the identity of the well dressed young man who, they said, attempted to commit suicide by jumping in front of a passenger train at the Fifth avenue crossing, McKeesport, yesterday. Patrolman William Heinrich and Gatekeeper Nunimaker saved him. Rescued, the youth broke away from his benefactors and fled, police said.

Anti-Rudy Vallee fans will chortle over a new phonograph record which M. Vallee has made. It is a revival of a number called "Kansas City Kittie" and in his vocal contribution Rudy essays one, two or three flings at comedy. Well, Rudy's voice may be the sort to stir the composite flapper, but we doubt that even the University of Maine would put him forth as a funny man. To all anti-Vallee fans we recommend this recording with the suggestion that it be played every so often as a reminder that even Vallee is not quite perfect. Hurrah!

From a contributor: "I cannot refrain from writing about a friend of mine, Mr. John C. Rose, 1112 Forbes street, whose devotion to a cause is inspiring. He is a staunch Single Taxer, although being but a recent convert to the philosophy elaborated by Henry George.

"He devotes all of his time to the propaganda of this philosophy, ignoring all other pursuits, regardless of how lucrative they might be. Despite that he is forced to live in rather straitened circumstances, he is cheerful, optimistic and enthusiastic.

"I understand that he has had a varied career, being in turn student, globe-trotter, soldier of fortune, beach comber, school teacher, politician, scholar and writer. He says, however, that he derives more genuine pleasure from his present work than from any other profession which he has followed.

At 3 o'clock in the morning the other day your faithful correspondent and Joe Donley, the director of public and semi-public relations for the Pittsburgh Railways, were riding along Federal street on a motorcycle.

We were in the sidecar and Joe was at the wheel.

"Look at those revolving statues," Joe pointed as we passed *Boggs & Buhl. "Why don't you write something about them?"

"All right," we agreed. "Back up so we can see them."

"I can't back this thing up," Joe complained.

We went on.

As we were speeding over the Sixth Street Bridge Joe pointed toward the Pennsylvania Railroad yard.

"You oughta write something about all the trains being moved around down there," Joe suggested. "Just think if one man fell down on his job what a——"

And then Joe fell out of bed.

Will Rogers Says:

CHICAGO, June 27.

Here is something Chicago ought to put on billboards and announce to the world, "No innocent man has been murdered here since the World's Fair in '93," and also, rival gangs do not murder each other, they are killed by members of their own gang for "holding out" and at "double crossing." A "square" gangster can die in this town of old age, and an innocent citizen to be shot here, would have to commit suicide.

I tell you this system has a lot of merit to it. Wouldn't it be great if bankers "bumped off" the crooked ones?

Yours,

WILL.

Exercises Mark End of Grind; Reopening Next September 2 'Shadow'

More than 108,000 public school pupils wrestled with instruction books for the last time today until September 2, when sessions will resume after the summer vacation.

From now on, for two joyous months, the old swimming hole, or its modern counterpart—the supervised pool, will resume its traditional lure for "Johnny."

The last day of school, always an event of prime importance with pupils and teachers alike, was observed by many schools with informal programs.

Attendance at the various departments whose pupils were given vacations today, is:

Kindergarten, 7,717; elementary, 63,758; junior high, 14,412; senior high, 14,382; vocational, 2,797; special classes, 348; continuation, 1,676, and part time students, 3,710.

Dr. William M. Davidson, superintendent of the Board of Education, plans to attend tomorrow the sessions of the National Council of Education at Columbus, O. He is chairman of the legislative committee.

$100,000 ASKED IN THREE SUITS

Three suits seeking $100,000 were filed in Federal Court, two of the plaintiffs making claims for injuries alleged to have been received in an automobile accident and the other for injuries caused by falling down an elevator shaft.

Hubert Enders and Florian Williams, of Detroit, Mich., musicians, each brought actions against the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company and the Yellow Cab Company. They said they were passengers in a cab of the latter company on November 16, 1929, when a collision occured between the cab and a machine of the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company on the Boulevard of the Allies. Enders asks $30,000 and Williams $20,000.

The other suit, for $50,000, was brought by Charles Coates Sayers, of Pentress, W. Va., a coal miner, against Olive Johns, owner of a building at 627 Smithfield street, and two tenants, Albert J. Schmidt, retail shoe merchant, and the J. F. Rowley Company.

He said he was a customer of the latter concern. On March 12, according to his bill of complaint, he wanted to reach the third floor when he fell down the elevator shaft.

3 Children Share In $115,000 Estate

An estate of $115,000 is disposed of by the will of Charles W. Baker, of Moon Township, filed today. The bulk of the estate is divided among three children, Mary Louise, Edwin H., and Minott M. Baker. His daughter receives an additional $10,000. Edwin H. and Mary Louise Baker are named executors.

GIRLS PUT OUT OF CAR IN PARK

Three girls aged [illegible] years were found wandering in Riverview Park early today, an hour after they had been put out of an automobile by three young men, who, police say, attempted to attack them. The young men are being sought by police.

The girls had attended a picnic at Kennywood Park, they told police, and at the park met two young men who offered to drive them home. In the downtown district another youth was picked up and the six drove to Riverview Park where the attack attempt occurred.

One of the girls suffered severe bruises of the right hand and was taken to the Allegheny General Hospital for treatment. Because of their age the Sun-Telegraph will not publish their names.

Accused of Trying To Take Police Light

Accused of attempting to steal the light from the cycle of Motorcycle Patrolman Charles Skirpan of Carnegie police early today, Tony Zerski, 23, of McDonald, was to be given a hearing before Justice of the Peace A. W. McMillen. Zerski was arrested by Motorcycle Patrolmen Fred Mathias and Skirpan in Broadway where Skirpan had parked his machine, according to a police report.

Auto Injury Causes Aged Man's Death

Benjamin Weintraub, 73, of 2110 Webster avenue, died early today in the Montefiore Hospital from injuries suffered in an automobile March 26. He was riding with Meyer Sachnoff, 5826 Hobart street, when an accident occurred. Weintraub suffered a fractured right leg, which caused his death.

8 MEN HELD IN 'BOOKIE' RAIDS

Eight men, arrested in five alleged book-making establishments downtown yesterday, were held for further investigation by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg today.

They were charged either with keeping gambling houses or with visiting gambling houses.

The five places raided were at 1013 Liberty avenue, 118 Sixth street, 970 William Penn way, 410 Third avenue and 228 Diamond street. Racing forms were seized in each place, police say.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Dean Ward Kent, young college graduate, goes to the penitentiary after his automobile, which he was driving while intoxicated, kills two people. In the prison he shares a cell with Duncan Morgan, sentenced for robbery, and "Butch" Schmidt, a hardened criminal, in for murder. Morgan gets possession of a picture of Anne Marlow, which "Butch" has taken from Kent's pocket. He likes her appearance and resolves to meet her some day. Morgan learns that he is to be freed on a parole. Kent "plants" a knife in Morgan's pocket. When the guards find it Morgan is put in solitary confinement and loses the parole. He swears revenge on Kent. After being in a dungeon for 30 days Morgan is almost dead when he is taken out. He is put in the prison hospital. Another prisoner dies in the hospital and Morgan escapes by taking the dead man's place in a huge sack. He jumps from the morgue ambulance on a lonely road and makes his way to friends in a night club, where he hides.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XI.

For a month now, John C. Everett had been coming into the little shop of Anne Marlowe—"Latest Modes and Manners in Books—Circulating Library." Mr. Everett was a genial, well-dressed young man with coal-black hair, horn-rimmed glasses, a small mustache, a winning smile, soft-spoken, conservatively dressed in blue serge suit, black shoes, gray fedora hat, black tie and white soft shirt.

He had a passion for reading books on foreign travel, asked many questions concerning various authors, frequently mispronouncing their names, evinced an avidity to learn, and was never bold. Anne Marlowe had taken a fancy to him, she almost felt as though she were his teacher, and she picked out books for him and waited anxiously for his original and sometimes humorous criticisms on them.

It would have been hard for any of the old gang to have recognized in John C. Everett the old Duncan Morgan. In the old days he had dressed a bit conspicuously, always was clean-shaven, could read a dot on a market playing card 20 feet away without spectacles, affected a swagger, and could look any cop directly in the eye.

Morgan had changed in other than outward appearance.

His original idea of revenge on Kent had softened into a certain magnanimity, the generosity of the victor. Morgan felt now that he would win the love of Anne Marlowe, and to know Anne Marlowe, even a desperado like he could never think of doing anything to hurt or harm her. She inspired only the tenderest consideration. Morgan's love bloomed ten-fold.

While he was "laying low"

46 PUPILS HAVE PERFECT YEAR

Today, the last day for classes in the city's public schools, 46 children of Spring Garden school closed a perfect attendance record for one school year, composed of 200 school days.

As an award for the accomplishment, the State Department of Public Instruction issued perfect attendance certificates to the "regulars." J. C. Shrader, principal of Spring Garden school, claims that the year 1929-1930 was the most perfect in attendance records that the school has had.

Another award to be given the winners of certificates will be a dinner at the opening of the next school term, the Parent-Teachers' Association to act as hostess.

RIVER PACKETS SET FOR RACE

CINCINNATI, June 27—Two skippers of rival river craft, the Betsy Ann and the Tom Greene, await the crack of the gun which tomorrow will send their boats away in a speed contest.

The race will be for a special trophy, awarded by Commodore George F. Schott.

The competing boats will churn their way 22 miles up the Ohio, from Fernbank Dam to Coney Island.

Pilot for the Betsy Ann will be Capt. Fred Way, 29 son of Frederick Way, Sr., of Sewickley. The Tom Greene will be piloted by Tom Greene, 27, scion of the veteran river family.

Park Plans to Question Fazio Early in July

A definite date during the early part of July has been set by District Attorney Andrew T. Park for his second interview with Philip Fazio, Clairton bootlegger, who surrendered himself to Park yesterday. Fazio has been sought for nearly two weeks to explain his story that he paid $350,000 to police and politicians in Allegheny County for permission to operate his business during the last seven years.

Fazio, it was learned today gave the district attorney the name of a man he said he paid for protection, but the name, it was stated after Fazio left, was fictitious and he did not even claim he had made his alleged payments to a public official.

Instead of paying $10 a barrel for protection, Fazio is reported to have said he paid $3, but did not reveal any total of the amount paid.

A few minutes after leaving the District Attorney's office, Fazio declared to newspapermen in contradiction to his statement made there that he never had paid anyone for protection.

Fazio was accompanied by his counsel, Attorneys W. H. Coleman and Frank J. Zappala. Park left late yesterday for a pleasure trip to Canada and expects to follow up Fazio's story when he returns.

Fazio was acquitted of the murder of William Gregory, of the North Side, whose headless body was found in Penn Township in a barrel April 1. After being acquitted Fazio told his story of beer running and bribe payments.

FAULKNER SILENT UNDER CHARGES OF NORTH SIDE VICE

COUNTY FORCES SCANNING RESORTS

Detectives Ordered by Park To Make Raids Where Violations Are Revealed

Inspector Charles Faulkner, when informed today that District Attorney Andrew T. Park had assigned his county detectives to investigate resorts in the North Side, refused comment on the situation.

District Attorney Park, en route to Canada where he will try his luck fishing, was unable to be reached to comment on the North Side vice situation, which developed yesterday when a letter, said to be brimming with specific detail of unrestricted vice in that district, was received by Park.

The letter, signed by Thomas P. Abbott, names more than a dozen resorts, and charges they are being operated without police interference. All forms of vice, including clearing house pools, chicken fights and disorderly houses are included in the letter.

The district attorney yesterday assigned a special squad of county detectives to investigate the resorts with instructions to raid them if law violations are found.

WATER SUPPLY FOR TOURISTS

Motorists on vacation trips in the next few months are warned to drink only at springs and pumps along the road which bear the sign, "Safe Drinking Water, Pennsylvania State Health Department."

This advice is from Robert L. Wickline, chairman of the highway safety committee of the Pittsburgh Motor Club, who cites the annual increase in typhoid fever cases during the summer and fall, which is due to people drinking from impure wayside water sources.

More than 3,500 miles of highways in Pennsylvania are covered every year by inspectors of the State Department of Health, with their laboratories mounted on automobile trucks, Wickline said. Every spring or well which is checked and found pure is posted with the official sticker.

ROTARY AWAITS VOTE RESULT

CHICAGO, June 27.—(INS.)—Some 15,000 Rotarians—delegates to the silver anniversary convention of Rotary International—awaited announcement today of the election of the international officers who will assume office on July 1. Almon E. Roth, of Palo Alto, Cal., and Raymond Knoeppel, of New York, are rivals for the presidency.

World peace, the theme of addresses in plenary sessions during this week by President Eugene Newsom and by Sir Henry Thornton, of Montreal, was again the principal topic yesterday when Prince Tokugawa, ranking peer of Japan, addressed the delegates in the Chicago Stadium.

How Rotary International intends to cope with the problem of international peace was epitomized by David Morris, a Cleveland Telephone Company executive.

Today Admiral Mark Kerr, of London, veteran of the British navy, will be the third distinguished international speaker to address the convention.

RIVER DRAGGED FOR SWIMMER

An all-night searching party dragged the Monongahela River between Glassport and Clairton early today for the body of John Shawn, Sr., 54, of Sixth street and Monongahela avenue, Glassport, who was drowned last night. Friends of Shawn under the direction of Chief Michael J. Cobak and Lieut. Fred Quinn, of Glassport police, worked tirelessly all night in an effort to recover the body.

Shawn, who was well known in athletic circles, was drowned when he attempted to swim the Monongahela from Glassport to Clairton, and sank in the presence of his son, John Shawn, Jr., according to Glassport police.

'SHORTS' WORN BY CO-EDS

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 27.—Marshall College co-eds in summer session in Huntington, W. Va., are adopting shorts for campus apparel during the summer months. Sixty-five college girls ranging in ages from 18 to 35 appeared on the campus recently wearing a wide variety of shorts.

According to the Marshall girls, the new fad is the beginning of a movement to feminize shorts for campus wear. The style was originated by Dartmout College men.

FAVORS EASIER PARKING RULES

At the request of business and civic organizations in the South Side, the Better Traffic Committee is sending a letter to City Council today recommending that parking restrictions along South Main street be lessened. The letter is signed by Frank L. Duggan, general chairman.

The committee suggests that there be no parking along the west side of South Main street from Carson street to Noblestown road and Walbridge street between 4:30 and 6 p. m. On the east side parking would not be allowed from 8 to 9:30 a. m. Previously there had been no parking on South Main street from 7 to 9:30 a. m. and from 4 to 6 p. m.

JUDGE DELAYS SCHNEIDER HEARING

Constable Fights Removal, Denies Part in Escape Of Andreini From Police

Constable John Schneider, formerly First Ward Republican chairman and leader, denies that he aided in the escape of Andeas Andreini, convicted robber, in an answer filed in Quarter Sessions Court to the petition of District Attorney Andrew T. Park to have Schneider removed as constable because of malfeasance and misfeasance in office.

Judge Harry H. Rowand today postponed setting a date for a hearing on Park's charges against the constable until Thursday. The postponement was made because it is not known what judge will sit in Quarter Sessions Court for the summer term.

Attorney Louis Little filed Schneider's answer. In it he denies that he has been guilty of malfeasance and denies that he has been incompetent to properly discharge his official duties by reason of intemperance or neglect of duty. He further denies that on October 11 or at any other time he aided Andreini in escaping from the custody of the sheriff and in avoiding arrest after Andreini had been convicted before Judge Frank P. Patterson in Criminal Court.

DENIES CHARGES

Schneider also denies that he saw, talked to, or was with Andreini after he became a fugitive.

Attorney Little's final statement in the Andreini answer is a contention that Quarter Sessions Court has no jurisdiction or warrant for this action. Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk, on the other hand, says the Act of 1929 gives the court power to remove a constable.

DENIES ORDERS TO CUT TREES

C. A. Merrill, assistant general manager of the General Outdoor Advertising Company, said today, following an investigation that employes of the concern had defaced trees along South Eighteenth street, that a few employes had trimmed trees without the knowledge of the concern.

Reports to City Forester James L. Grimes, said workmen cut limbs from trees, which obscured billboards of the company. Grimes also said the men violated the city ordinance pertaining to the defacing of city shade trees.

Mr. Merrill said:

"We ordered the men to stop their work as soon as we heard what they were doing. They were told not to cut the trees, and had only taken off a few branches when we arrived on the scene."

BABY, YEAR OLD, TAKES N.Y. HOP

"The sky's the limit," Grandpa O. L. Berger, of New York, told his youngest heir, Miss Linnea Heilman, of Kittanning, on her very first birthday.

"Come down to the 'big city' and we'll throw a real party."

It must have been agreeable to Linnea for she seemed most enthusiastic over the prospects of the trip and the promise of "sky limit" for she beamed and cooed (or whatever young ladies of such tender age do) as she settled herself comfortably in Mamma Willis Heilman's lap for the trip to New York by plane.

Pilot Sam Bigony of the Pittsburgh Airways, Inc., greeted Baby Linnea with:

"This is a great honor. You are the youngest person I have ever carried over to New York, and I hope you'll enjoy the trip as well as your birthday party."

Grandpa Berger grinned. Mamma Heilman patted her offspring affectionately and Baby Linnea beamed—and cooed.

DISABLED VETS AWAIT PICNIC

Plans are already under way at the United States Marine Hospital for attendance by interned disabled veterans at the Sun-Telegraph picnic for ex-service members at Kennywood Park, July 5.

According to resident Red Cross hostess, "Mother" A. E. Edmonds, little groups continually form on the hospital grounds, discussing the dinner at which the Sun-Telegraph will entertain them that evening. Civil War veterans, gray and blue, have likewise been invited to the meal.

The Kennywood Park dining room will be the scene of the annual dinner. Beefsteak with all the trimmings has been promised. All disabled veterans, now confined to hospitals, are welcome.

Free transportation is to be furnished the ex-soldiers, sailors and marines to Kennywood and back again.

Members of any former military or auxiliary service group have been invited to the picnic. Strips of free tickets will be supplied them and their companions of opposite sex.

Various outfits are planning informal reunions, it is said, and looking forward to renewal of friendships made during the war.

GIANT CONDOR TO FLY HERE

Day and night flights over Pittsburgh in a giant Curtiss-Condor, the largest transport plane ever flown from a local airport, will be offered air fans Saturday and Sunday at Bettis airport as part of an aerial exhibition supplementing the air circus last week.

The big Condor, powered by two 1,200-horsepower Conqueror engines, the same as are being set up on the monstrous air leviathan, Do-X, in Germany for the trans-Atlantic flight this summer, is the last word in air travel luxury. The ship costs $85,000.

An airplane race between two Curtiss-Wright instructors, Skippy Taylor and F. F. Church, and Hal Bazley, base manager, will be another feature of Saturday's and Sunday's entertainment.

Miss Helen Richey, daughter of Dr. J. B. Richey, superintendent of McKeesport schools, also will give an exhibition of her flying skill and will endeavor to pass Department of Commerce and State Department of Aeronautics tests for her pilot's license Sunday afternoon. Miss Richey will be the first young woman ever to take the pilots' test in this district.

OBITUARY

McKnight Funeral.

Funeral services for Robert J. McKnight, 73, retired president of the Pittsburgh Fire Insurance Company, who died Tuesday in his home, 821 North Negley avenue, were to be held today from the residence. Burial will be in Allegheny Cemetery. Mr. McKnight was a life-long resident of Pittsburgh and was connected with the Pittsburgh Fire Insurance Company 57 years. He was a member of the First United Presbyterian Church. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Sadie Smith McKnight; three sons, Paul, William and Robert McKnight; two brothers, two sisters and five grandchildren.

Abraham Kessler.

Abraham Kessler, 32, died today at his home, 1808 Power street, McKeesport. He had been engaged in the real estate business for the last 10 years. He was a member of the Knights of Pythias and the B'Nai Brith. He leaves his wife, two children, Adelaide and Leid; three brothers, Phillip, Joseph and Maurice Kessler, all of McKeesport, and two sisters, Miss Sadie Kessler, McKeesport, and Mrs. Harry Greenwald, Columbus, O. Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon with interment in Elrod Cemetery, Versailles.

Charles Goodwin Sellers.

Funeral services for Charles Goodwin Sellers, 41, who died yesterday at the St. Francis Hospital, will be held Sunday from the home of his brother, W. R. Sellers, 1323 Beverely Place, East Brookline. Mr. Sellers was a lifelong resident of Pittsburgh. He was employed by the United States Shoe Company. He leaves his father, Charles E. Sellers, a sister, Mrs. Fred S. McGill, of Crafton, and two brothers, Robert C. and William R. Sellers. Interment will be in Hollywood Cemetery, Sheraden.

John McBride Bigger.

John McBride Bigger, of 205 Washington avenue, Washington, Pa., died yesterday in Mercy Hospital. He was born in Washington County. After graduating from Westminster College in 1896, he lived in Pittsburgh, but had resided in Washington the last eight years. He was a member of the United Presbyterian Church there.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Ruth Willock Making Bow Today

June is the setting for the debut this afternoon of Ruth Willock, daughter of the Frank Scott Willocks, of Sewickley, who is being presented at a tea her mother is giving at the Allegheny Country Club.

The shrub-bordered patio and beautiful grounds of the Allegheny Country Club, Sewickley Heights, is the scene of the event. And this evening the Willocks will give a dinner and a dance at the club for members of the younger set in honor of the debutante.

Summer flowers in all shades of yellow predominate in the decorations of the clubhouse, with ferns and shrubbery forming the background. The bud's gift bouquets add accenting notes of color.

The debutante is wearing a quaint gown of canary yellow mousseline fashioned with a cape edged in ruffles and with a beruffled long full skirt. Her picture hat is of creamy straw, and she is carrying an unusual bouquet of delicate maidenhair fern.

Chiffon Frocks

Mrs Willock has chosen a chiffon frock with a white background and a colorful flower motif, and a hat of blue horsehair to match the predominating color of her gown.

Helen Bowler, of Cleveland, is at the debut and is a house guest of the Willocks.

Virginia Willock, the debutante's sister, is wearing a flowered chiffon with a green straw hat and green slippers.

Mrs Willock has asked to be her aides her sister-in-law, Miss Lillian Willock, her two sisters, Miss Abby Christy and Miss Ethel Christy, Mrs Maitland Alexander, Mrs. William Christopher Robinson, Mrs. Frank Brooks, Mrs Carroll Davis, Mrs. Robert Milligan, Mrs C. I. Shannon and Mrs H. N. Van Voorhis.

The debutante has asked to aid her Mary Franklin Robinson, Peggy Milligan and Anne Stewart, debutantes of the past winter, and Madelaine Alexander, Elizabeth Childs, Laura Collord, Betty McKay, Barbara Irwin, Nancy Craig, Margret Brill, Elizabeth Booth Miller and Hester Harton Browne, sister buds.

Attends Bride

Mary Elizabeth Anderson, daughter of Mrs. J. Hartley Anderson, of Fifth avenue, is in the East, where she was a bridesmaid at the wedding yesterday afternoon of Elizabeth Constance MacCleary, daughter of Col. and Mrs. William Marshall MacCleary, of Pelham, and Donald Murray Butler, son of the Reginald C. Butlers, of Pelham Manor, which took place in Christ Church of Pelham. A reception for 200 guests at the Manor Club in Pelham followed.

Mrs. William Marshall MacCleary, Jr., of New Rochelle, was matron of honor, and the bridesmaids, in addition to Mary, were Simone Lefebvre, of Paris, France, house guests of the MacClearys, Marjorie Gulbenkian, Mrs. John Robert Brooks, Mrs. Chester Pope Smith, all of Pelham, and Mrs. Harold Barker, of Radburn, N. J.

Plight Troth

News comes from Gotham of the engagement of Janetta McCook Whitman, daughter of Malcolm D. Whitman, of that city, and grandniece of the Rev. Dr. Maitland Alexander, of Pittsburgh and Sewickley Heights, to Douglas B. Lewis, son of the Lancey Lewises, of Menlo Park, Cal. The betrothal was announced in New York yesterday. And the betrothal is of interest to Washington folks too, as Janetta has often visited her grandmother, Mrs. John J. McCook, there. Her mother was the former Mrs. Janet McCook, of the McCooks of Civil War fame. And she is a great-granddaughter of the late Henry Martyn Alexander, who was a former trustee of Princeton University, and she is a descendant of a long line of noted clergymen.

Janetta's great-great-grandfather, the Rev. Dr. Archibald Alexander, was founder and one of the first professors of Princeton Theological Seminary. The Rev. Dr. Mathew Brown, once president of Jefferson College in Pennsylvania, is another ancestor.

On the paternal side the bride-elect is the granddaughter of William Whitman, founder of William Whitman Company, Inc., of which her father is vice president, and her father, you will be interested in knowing, was American tennis champion in 1898 and for the following two years.

Janetta made her debut two seasons ago in New York at an affair given by her grandmother, Mrs. John J. McCook.

Her fiance is a graduate of Stanford University.

The marriage is to take place in September in Burlingame, Cal. Mr. Lewis and his bride will make their home in Burlingame.

Wedding Today

This afternoon at 2:30 o'clock Jemima Anderson Martin, daughter of David Anderson, is becoming the bride of John Linton McLain, son of the John Evans McLains, of Bartlett street, at a simple ceremony in the Sewickley Presbyterian Church, with the Rev. Dr. Owen D. Odell as the officiant. The McLains will be at home in Meadow Lane after July 15.

North Hills Woman's Club Only Four Months Old, Boasts 140 Members

At the fourth monthly meeting of the North Hills Woman's Club yesterday afternoon, the membership was reported as having reached 140, drawn from Shaler and Hampton Townships and Millvale. The club is the only one in its community and fills a definite need for contact and acquaintance among the women of the section, the sole purpose of its organization. The Glenshaw Community Church, that very fine exemplar of community spirit and interests with its excellent equipment and space, affords an ideal meeting place for such a group.

More than 100 attended yesterday's meeting when Miss Josephine B. Gibson, head of the H. J. Heinz Company's home economics department, talked on "Summer Meals." Miss Gibson spoke on the "emergency shelf," an important part of housekeeping, outlined what should be found there and then went on to talk of menus and recipes. Assisted by Miss Ann Foulke she deftly arranged several tantalizingly tempting "plate meals," such as the family might pick up from the buffet for themselves and carry to porch or lawn for consumption. Miss Gibson stressed, as do most home economics experts nowadays, the efficiency and conveniences of "leaving the dishes until morning." Crisp ice box cookies and currant jelly-mint punch were served at the conclusion of the talk and demonstration.

An ensemble composed of Miss Frances Summers, piano; Mrs. Norman Angney, Miss Grace Summers and Miss Eleanor Aird, violins, played.

As the club women arrived they brought with them great bouquets of flowers from their gardens—phlox, coreopsis, sweet peas, Canterbury bells, snowballs, roses and delphinium—until the meeting took on the semblance of a real party. The club will open its 1930-31 season with a luncheon in the Wildwood Country Club Thursday, September 25. Mrs. E. D. McCafferty is the president.

Summer Meeting

One of the few clubs in this district that will continue its meetings during the summer is the Duquesne Women's Civic Club, which has a meeting scheduled for Tuesday evening in the clubhouse. The dramatic department under Mrs. W. D. Yingst and the literary department under Mrs. Herbert Thomas will have charge of the program, which is to be largely musical. Miss Ruth Martin, pianist, and Miss Dora Shoof, vocalist, both of Elizabeth, will furnish the music. As its chief activity during the summer the club is planning a carnival on the club grounds Tuesday evening, July 15. Mrs. George Capp is chairman and Miss Christine Goldstrom, vice chairman. Board members will have charge of the booths.

The Brentwood Civic Club will observe president's day tomorrow afternoon at the Brentwood Park shelter house. Mrs. M. A. Keffer is the newly-elected president; Mrs. Bert Campbell, outgoing president; Mrs. Helen Dut, general chairman; Miss Elizabeth Sorg, chairman of decorations, and Miss Minnie Riley, program chairman. Miss Helen and Miss Vera Thomas will take part in the program. Members of the Girls' Auxiliary, Alcide Dugal, Ruth Marsteller, Ruth Eibs, Lialo Ikola, Marie Welsch, Betty Dudt, Lydia Demmel, Helen Pappert and Ruth Morse, will be aides. The club will hold its first weekly swimming party Thursday morning from 10 to 12 in the Brentwood Pool. July and August meetings have been dispensed with, but other activities will be planned for these months.

To Meet Weekly

Through July and August the Quota Club will have informal luncheons at Gimbel's each Monday. The president, Miss Jennie Beam, is sailing shortly for an all-summer European trip and in her absence Miss Ruby Wright, first vice president, will preside. While in London Miss Beam will attend the Business and Professional Women's international convention as a guest of the Wheeling, W. Va. club. Several members of the Richmond club are expected in Pittsburgh next week and will be entertained by the local organization.

Leaving For East

Mrs. C. B. Foster, a member of the Woman's Club of Crafton, accompanied by her small daughters, will leave Monday to spend the summer with her sister, Dr. C. Pauline Burt, at her cottage on Lake Bashan, East Haddam, Conn. Dr. Burt, who formerly lived in Crafton, has just been made head of the chemistry department at Smith College.

Mrs. George W. Brown, of Kings Highway, was hostess for the last meeting of the Rosslyn Farms Woman's Club yesterday afternoon. The program, which followed reports of committees, consisted of music and readings and was arranged in a sequence of type impersonations. Forrest Alter contributed two piano numbers; Miss Jane Ellen Ball gave a number of readings including one-act plays by Eugene O'Neill and Constance D'Arcy Mackaye and an Owen Meredith number in which John Dorrington sang with Edward Koontz accompanying. Mr. Koontz also gave Mendelssohn's "Spring Song" as a piano solo and Mr. Dorrington sang several solos including Rachmaninoff, Gaul and Burleigh and other compositions.

Miss Margaret Sandler, Miss Miriam Darb, Miss Anna Gordon, Miss Sara Goldstein, Mrs. Harry Feinstein, Miss Anna Spiegle and Miss Ada Kline form the committee for the Montefiore Aid Society's old-fashioned picnic in Schenley Park tomorrow afternoon.

Under auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of Zion Lutheran Church the operetta, "The Toyshop," will be given its third presentation by the pupils of Miss Helen Thomas, in the Elroy School, Brentwood, Tuesday evening. Miss Vera Thomas will be soloist.

* * *

Mrs. E. L. Edwards, first vice president of the Women's Welsh Club of Pittsburgh, is attending the national convention of Women's Welsh Clubs of America in Akron this week.

Squirrel Hill Chapter No. 442, Order of the Eastern Star, is to have its annual outing at Kennywood Park Tuesday under the chairmanship of Mrs. Celia Fisher. There will be cards in the afternoon.

The Oliver Club will have its annual outing tomorrow at North Park. The committee in charge includes Mrs. A. D. Smith, chairman; Mrs. G. H. Matz, Mrs. J. C. Moore and Mrs. Wesley Wiggs, president of the club.

* * *

Mrs. Emma McDonald's district of the Women's Benefit Association will hold memorial services Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in Moose Temple, Penn avenue.

The Health Colony Club will give a bridge luncheon at the Pittsburgh Country Club Tuesday, July 8, which is open to guests as well as members.

WIDE VARIETY OF HATS ARE IN SPOTLIGHT OF THE MODE

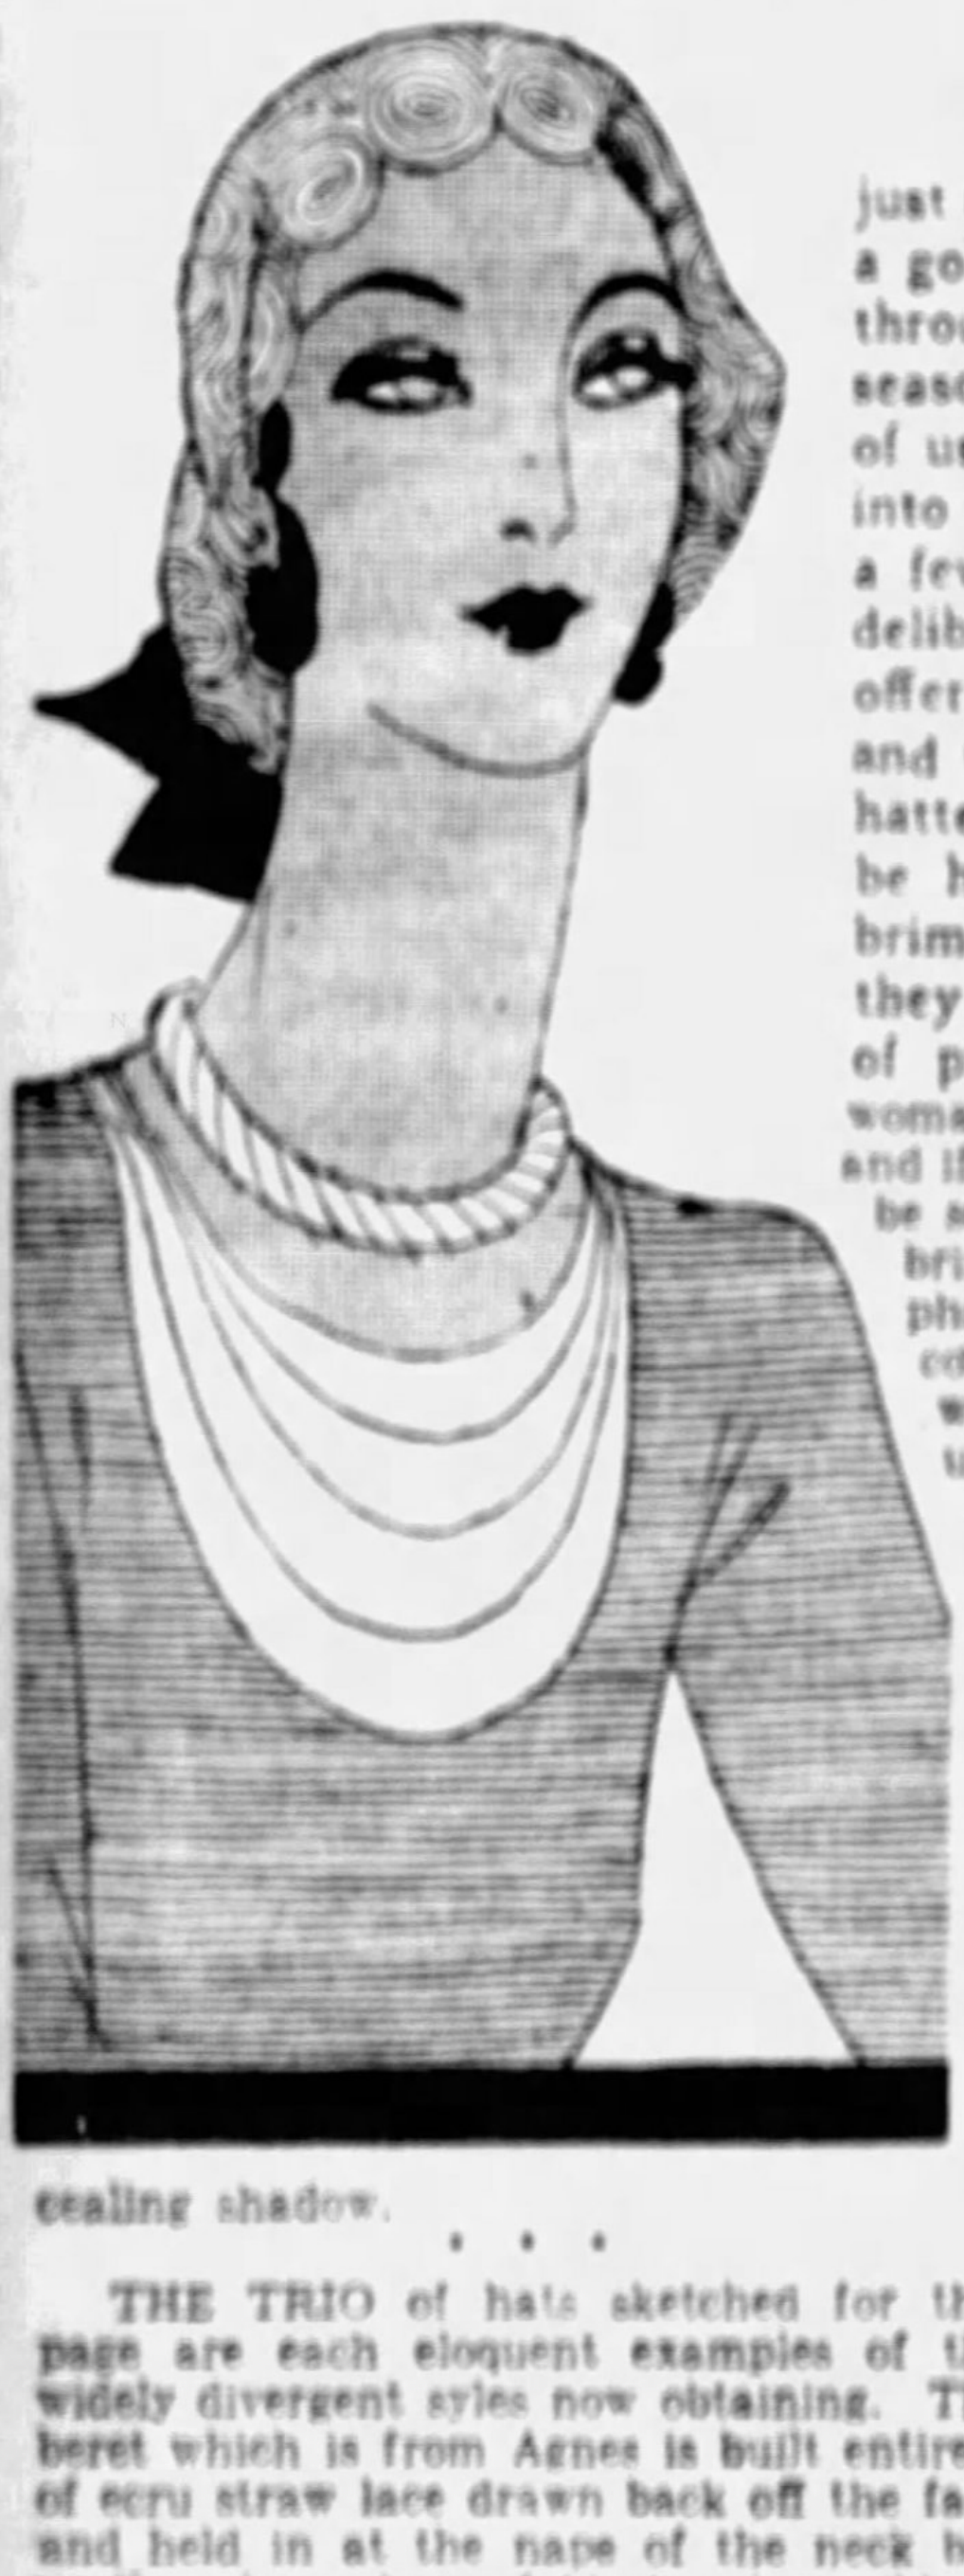
Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.



PARIS, JUNE 27.—The wide variety of hats current just now amply covers the millinery situation and gives us all a golden opportunity to achieve added beauty and interest through the medium of a becoming line. It has been many seasons since there has been such a latitude in hats, and most of us are genuinely relieved to see the felt skull cap forced into strict retirement, for it was far from becoming except to a few women. It seems difficult to see how women will deliberately and meekly take just what the millinery moguls offer them, whether or not it is becoming and beautifying, and so it is to be hoped that we will now insist on being hatted according to our own fancy. In this way we will all be headed for chic and additional charm. Wide, floppy brims, cartwheels, snug berets, pert little turbans and toques, they are all in the spotlight of the mode, it is just a question of picking one's fancy and picking it right. The petite woman should certainly avoid the big hat and if her model has a wide brim it should be so manipulated that the line of the brim but not the dimensions be emphasized. And the woman whose complexion is not blemishless or who uses a good deal of makeup should avoid the hat that exposes her face to the harsh light without a concealing shadow.

THE TRIO of hats sketched for this page are each eloquent examples of the widely divergent syles now obtaining. The beret which is from Agnes is built entirely of ecru straw lace drawn back off the face and held in at the nape of the neck beneath a large bow of black velvet ribbon.

THE OTHER two hats are from Margot Floury. The semi-sports hat to the left is of brown and white paillasson, a coarse basket-weave straw. The brim of medium width, dips sharply at each side and is shorter across the back.

THE HAT to the right is for more formal afternoon wear. It is of two toned panamalaque, the upper side black, the under brim white. At one side of the wide drooping brim, both on top and underneath are soft little clusters of black and white flowers made of feathers.

Resort Attracts

Now is the great vacation time. Everyone is going on a motor trip, a cruise or a European tour. But a great many are leaving to spend the summer in summer resorts. And Pittsburghers have been attracted by Watch Hill, R. I. Mrs. Thomas H. Eddy arrived there at Samoset Cottage with her five children during the last week and entertained a house guest, Eleanor Park Kelly. Mr. Eddy arrives later in the season.

The William Booth Trainers have returned to their last summer's home, Belveduto.

The Harry Darlingtons, who had planned a dinner party to be held in their home, the Cedars, had to transfer it to the Misquamicut Golf Club because of the fire at the Cedars. They had arrived there the night before, having attended the Yale-Harvard regatta, and now have taken Stoneleigh for the remainder of the season.

The Ocean House attracted a number of guests who attended the Harvard-Yale races. A. Rex Flinn, William Flinn and Howard Heinz were among the early arrivals. The Flinn yacht, the Maiobi, has been in Little Narragansett Bay for several days.

Mrs. Richard B. Mellon and her daughter, Mrs. Alan Magee Scaife, have been spending the week at the Plaza Hotel in Gotham before going to Watch Hill.

Makes Debut

Buds of this year and of the past winter and other members of the younger set, attended the dinner dance given last night in the Allegheny Country Club by Harold H. Robertson, of Park Mansions, for his daughter, Sylvia, whose debut was postponed from the past winter because of mourning in the family.

Covers were laid for 300 guests at small tables placed around the ballroom. Roses, snapdragons and delphinium centered the tables and decorated the clubhouse. In the club lounge, where the bud received with her father, the bud's gift bouquets were arranged against a background of ferns and bamboos.

The debutante wore a lovely gown of white chiffon and tulle with the skirt of tulle made very long and full. She carried white orchids.

Another event of last night was the dance Dr. and Mrs. Walter Mitchell Yost gave in the University Club for their daughter, Martha, and their son, James Mitchell Yost.

Married Tuesday

Miss Joan Bunker Reynolds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Reynolds, of Keyser, W. Va., became the bride of Ray Charles Coffman, of Pittsburgh, in the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Keyser, on Tuesday, with the Rev. William M. Hoffman, pastor, officiating. Miss Gertrude Tyler, of Cumberland, Md., and Miss Elizabeth Finnell were the bridesmaids. Mrs. Frederick John Hill was the matron of honor. Lindsay Coffman, of Pittsburgh, was his brother's best man.

The bride is a granddaughter of former Circuit Judge Francis M. Reynolds, and is a niece of State Senator E. Bunker Reynolds, who, with Mrs. Reynolds, held a reception on Monday evening for 400 guests in honor of the bride. Mr. Coffman is a graduate of West Virginia University.

Yesterday at noon Miss Lorraine Keller, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Keller, of Harker street, became the bride of Richard B. Lattimer, of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., in the home of her mother. Officiating was the Rev. Ira Freeman. After a motor trip to California, Mr. and Mrs. Lattimer will live in Detroit.

Physician Describes the Romance of Tea

Adventure has always surrounded the industry, Dr. Copeland explains, and goes on to tell of the many sides of the business.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
Former Health Commissioner of New York City
United States Senator from New York

It is rather remarkable that people of so many different nationalities, in entirely different conditions of civilization, should have felt the urge to use mildly stimulating beverages like tea and coffee.

Tea has been used by the natives of China for at least 4,000 years. It was introduced into Japan in the thirteenth century. It was imported in quantities later in England and in 1657 a tea house was established in London. It is interesting to know that it cost $50 a pound then.

Social customs grew up around these tea houses quite as much as did those about the coffee houses of early days.

There is romance and adventure aplenty clustered around the industry in tea. One of our best teas, Oolong, comes from Formosa, or Taiwan as the Japanese who own the island called it. This is an island of the Pacific off the coast of China where are rocky, precipitous high mountains.

FORMOSA PRIMITIVE

Even in its most civilized aspects Formosa is still wild and primitive. Here you find great tropical camphor forests and mountain valleys, each with its rice fields and huddled mud-walled villages of the natives. The steamy rice fields, where coolies plow with water buffaloes, show the primitive factor as nothing else could. The queer little push-cars are loaded sky-high with huge bags of tea and rice.

It is probable that the species of tea which grow wild in Assam and Burmah are the parent plants of the modern tea plants. Some kinds of tea still thrive in the wild state in the mountainous parts of China and India.

Besides China, Japan and Assam, large quantities are grown in Ceylon, Java and Brazil. Ceylon had its first tea plantation only 60 years ago, but the industry has thrived so rapidly that in 1909 over 192,000,000 pounds of tea was grown there.

THOUSANDS OF FLAVORS

The Chinese teas include the green variety—"Young Hyson," made from the leaf buds picked early in the season; "Gunpowder," a hyson flavored with the leaves of the sweet scented olive; "Imperial," a larger leaf, and "Tankay," a low quality of green tea.

Then we have the blended teas. This blending is done by skillful professional tea tasters and is done especially when preparing the black teas for market. They mix the various kinds of tea in a way that brings out the aroma, flavor and strength of the tea. It is said that at least 2,000 different flavors of tea may be obtained from various varieties from China, India, Ceylon and Japan.

ENJOYABLE BEVERAGE

In the main, tea is a perfectly harmless and enjoyable beverage for the normal person if taken in temperate amounts and made in the proper way.

In making it the tea leaves should be in contact with the boiling hot water with which it is made, only enough to extract the volatile oil and some of caffein. Boil the fresh water furiously for two minutes, then pour it over the tea leaves and allow it to stand in an earthenware teapot not over five minutes. It should then be poured. Boiling or steeping for any length of time injures the delicate flavor and extracts too much of the tannin in the tea.

4 DIE AS RIVER CRAFTS UPSET

WILLIAMSTOWN, W. Va., June 27.—(AP)—When their canoe was overturned in the Ohio River here today Ralph Campbell, 17, and Charles Chidester, 18, both of Williamstown, were drowned. The body of Campbell was recovered, but police tonight still searched for that of Chidester.

The youths were members of a canoeing party of five. The others reached shore safely.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., June 27.—Clifford Olmstead and William O'Neill, both 10, were drowned, and Paul Bise, 10, was rescued by workmen who heard his cries for help when a home-made raft was overturned in the Ohio River here yesterday.

Service Star Legion Elects in Wheeling

WHEELING, W. Va., June 27.—(AP)—Mrs. J. K. McLaughlin, Elm Grove, was elected president of the Service Star Legion of West Virginia at the annual convention here. Moundsville was awarded the 1931 session.

Other officers chosen were Mrs. Jennie Cortis, Wheeling; Mrs. Guy Winters, Elm Grove; Miss Nona Shimp, Moundsville, and Mrs. H. E. McConkey, Wheeling, vice presidents; Mrs. Jessie Billiter, Moundsville, chaplain; Miss Cathrine Hewitt, Wheeling, historian; Mrs. H. E. Wayt, Elm Grove, secretary; Mrs. Virginia Higgs, Elm Grove, treasurer.

Confesses Misuse Of Bank's Money

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., June 27.—J. Homer Rausch, 38, teller at Citizens National Bank and treasurer of Tuscarawas Post 139, American Legion, will be arraigned before United States Commissioner Charles M. Ball of Canton on a charge of embezzling bank funds. Rausch confessed the embezzlement of $8,000 of the bank's money and $5,000 in securities of the legion post.

He denied that he had used the money to play the stock market.

PRUDENCE PENNY'S RECIPES

SUNDAY MENU
Clam Cocktail.
Chicken Loaf.
Asparagus Tips. Sliced Tomatoes.
Hot Rolls.
Lettuce with Roquefort Dressing.
Fresh Raspberry Pie.
Coffee.

The Sabbath is recognized as a day of rest for everyone but the housewife who spends hours of a precious day before a hot stove so that the family may be served a fitting Sunday dinner. I'll wager not a cook in the land will disagree with me when I say there are more appropriate ways of enjoying a lovely June day. Thus in a movement of rebellion against cook stoves was the menu planned! All the dishes may be prepared in advance and kept in the refrigerator while the rolls are heated at the last moment before serving.

For the Chicken Loaf you will have in readiness 4 level teaspoons gelatine, 2 cups cold water, 4 cups stock well seasoned, 2 onions peeled and sliced, 2 stalks celery, the juice of two lemons, salt to taste, 4 cups chopped cold cooked chicken, two-thirds cup canned pimentos cut in thin strips (fresh red or green peppers may be used instead), one tablespoon finely chopped parsley.

Soften the gelatin in cold water. Add the onion and celery to the stock, bring it to the boiling point, then let it boil for three minutes. Strain the stock and pour it over the softened gelatin. Add lemon juice and when the mixture begins to stiffen add the chicken, pimentos and chopped parsley. Turn into a brick mold which has been dipped in cold water and chill thoroughly.

Remove the chicken loaf from the mold and cut it in slices for serving, surrounded by asparagus tips and sliced tomatoes. Garnish with parsley.

Cold cooked veal, ham or beef may be substituted for the chicken in this recipe to make an attractive and delicious hot-weather dish.

All the summer resorts are bidding you woo the ocean breezes and be cool, all the summer hotels and restaurants are urging the charms of a shore dinner, and here am I calling to your attention the intriguing simplicity, the wonderful flavor and the luxurious look of a seafood salad. And this salad is not as other salads, it's twice as good!

Seafood Salad: One package lemon gelatin, 2 cups boiling water, 4 teaspoons lemon juice, 1 tablespoon onion juice, ½ teaspoon celery salt, 1 teaspoon salt, few grains cayenne or paprika, 1 cup canned crab meat, 1 cup tuna, 1 cup lobster, 1 cup extra sifted peas, stuffed olives, lemon garnish and parsley.

Dissolve the gelatin in boiling water. Cool. Add lemon and onion juices, salt and paprika. Have the fish well picked over and flaked small. Toss fish and peas together. Add to seasoned cooled gelatin and mix well. Turn into wet mold. Chill four hours. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise. Garnish with whole choice pieces of lobster and crab, stuffed olives, fancy cut lemons and sprays of parsley.

Another recipe for a dish quite as choice, quite as cool and every bit as handsome, is this one for deviled roe in jelly.

Dissolve a package of lemon gelatin in 1¾ cups boiling water. Add ¼ cup lemon juice, ½ teaspoon salt, 2½ teaspoons Worcestershire sauce, 2-3 teaspoon prepared mustard, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, a few drops of anchovy sauce. Cool.

Arrange the roe (if you like you may first saute it carefully in butter) in a shallow wet mold. Pour over the slightly thickened gelatin. Chill three hours. Serve on lettuce with watercress and fancy cut lemon garnish.

Conjure up a vision of swaying palm trees, of glorious sunsets, of tropical heat and luxuriant green growing things, and then you will be in just the proper mood to appreciate this recipe for a tamale loaf.

It's exactly the weather for a spicy hot dish—and this tamale loaf is as spicy a dish as ever you've tasted!

The ingredients are 1 can of tomato puree, strained, 1 can of corn, 3 eggs, beaten, 1½ or 2 pounds of hamburger, 1 large onion, minced; salt and red pepper to taste, and enough corn meal to make a stiff batter, much like corn bread, about 1½ to 2 cupsful.

Fry the hamburger steak in oil until it is seared but not crisped. Mix in the order named above, put into a deep pan and bake for one hour. Serve with a real hot and peppery sauce, such as a chile or hot Spanish sauce.

Here's a sad letter in this morning's mail! One of the Prudence Penny readers, who must perforce be nameless, writes that her husband has been boasting loud and long about the wonderful potato cake that his mother makes. It is a cake according to him, that leaves one in an ecstatic trance after eating just one slice of it. He didn't mention what would happen if one were to eat two slices of it.

His long-suffering wife listened to the chant just as long as she found patience to; and then she informed her husband that her own mother had won high honors, not to mention gold medals and blue ribbons, for the potato cake recipe that had been in her family for some hundreds of years.

This cake requires two cups of shortening, one half cup of milk, four eggs, one cup of unseasoned mashed potatoes, one cup of ground chocolate, two cups of flour, four teaspoons of baking powder, four teaspoons of vanilla.

Cream the shortening. Slowly add the sugar, creaming well. Add beaten egg yolks, potatoes and vanilla. Sift flour and baking powder together three times and add alternately with the milk. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in layers in a moderate oven (400 degrees) for 20 minutes.

Here's another excellent recipe: Cream two-thirds of a cup of butter with two cups of sugar. Add the beaten yolks of four eggs, then one cup of hot, smoothly mashed potatoes, one cup of sweet milk, and two cups of flour which has been sifted with two teaspoons of baking powder.

Add one cup of chopped nutmeats, and lastly, fold in the stiffly whipped whites of four.

eggs. Bake in layers in a moderate oven.

PEANUT RICE PUFF—Wash one-half cup rice and cook in one quart boiling, salted water till tender. Drain and blanch. Whip one-half pint cream and stir in one-third cup sugar. Add a few grains salt, two tablespoons softened peanut butter and two tablespoons preserved ginger or other preserved fruit as desired. Combine with the rice. Chill thoroughly before serving.

STUFFED PRUNE SALAD—Allow four large prunes for each salad. Wash and soak them in cold water for one hour or more, until soft. Cook in the same water, adding one-half cup sugar when the prunes are nearly tender. Cool and remove the stones.

Moisten cream cheese with orange juice and season with salt, pepper and paprika. Add one-half cup finely chopped nuts to the softened cheese, and if it is too firm, moisten with a little of the prune juice. Fill each prune with a cheese mixture. Chill thoroughly and serve as on lettuce with mayonnaise dressing.

STUFFED PORK CHOPS—Mix 1 cup bread crumbs with 1 tablespoon chopped onion, ½ tablespoon minced parsley, ¼ cup chopped celery, ¼ teaspoon sage and ¼ teaspoon salt.

Blend with 2 tablespoons melted fat and add just enough water or stock to hold the stuffing together. The yolk of one egg may be added if desired. Have six pork chops cut double thickness and make a slit in each chop.

Fill with the bread stuffing and sear in a little fat in a hot pan. Then bake in a covered baking dish about 45 minutes.

HOT POTATO SALAD—Wash 6 medium-sized potatoes and cook in boiling salted water until soft. Cool, remove skins and cut in very thin slices. Cover bottom of baking dish with potatoes, season with salt and pepper, sprinkle with finely chopped celery, one small onion finely minced and chopped parsley. Mix 2 tablespoons each taragon and cider vinegar and 4 tablespoons olive oil, and add 1 slice lemon cut 1-3 inch thick. Bring to boiling point, pour over the potatoes, cover and let stand in oven until thoroughly warmed. When heated, serve on a lettuce leaf with cold meats.

CHOCOLATE BLANC MANGE—Melt two squares chocolate in ½ cup of hot milk, stir until smooth, then add it to 3½ cups scalded milk, 1 cup sugar mixed with 6 tablespoons cornstarch, ½ tea spoon salt. Cook in double boiler until the mixture thickens; about 10 minutes will be required. Then add 1½ teaspoons vanilla. Remove from the fire and pour into molds rinsed out in cold water. Chill and unmold on dessert plate when firm. Serve with a creamy sauce or whipped cream.

BRUSSEL SPROUTS WITH CHESTNUTS—Remove the wilted leaves from 1 quart of brussel sprouts and then soak in water to cover, to which has been added ⅛ teaspoon soda. Drain and cook in boiling salted water. Drain and saute in butter. Remove the shells from chestnuts and cook in boiling salted water to cover until soft. There should be 1 cup. Cook ¼ cup butter with 2 teaspoons sugar until well browned, stirring constantly. Add chestnuts and cook until the chestnuts are browned, then add sauted sprouts, 1-3 cup brown stock, ½ teaspoon beef extract, ½ teaspoon salt and a few grains cayenne.

KOHLRABI IN MOUSSELINE SAUCE—Prepare the kohlrabi by cutting off the leaves, wash and let lie in cold water for 30 minutes, then slice ¼-inch thick. Plunge the kohlrabi into a kettle of boiling water and boil until tender. Do not cover. Remove from the water, drain and pour the following sauce over the vegetable after it has been arranged on the platter.

Cream one-half cup butter and put one-third of it with two egg yolks, one-half teaspoon salt, a dash of cayenne and two tablespoons of lemon juice in the double boiler. Cook very slowly until the mixture begins to thicken, about three minutes. Then add the second third of butter and, as it thickens, the rest of the butter. Cook very slowly, or it will curdle, for about 20 minutes. Add one-half cup cream, cook one minute and serve at once.

SCALLOPED MACARONI WITH VEGETABLES—Cook a package of macaroni in boiling salted water. In a greased casserole dish place alternate layers of macaroni, vegetable stock thickened with white sauce and vegetables, using one cup stock and one cup each of cooked cauliflower, string beans, peas and celery. Season with salt and pepper and one-half onion, minced fine. Sprinkle the top with buttered crumbs and grated cheese. Bake in a hot oven until the top is browned.

HORSERADISH SAUCE—Whip 4 tablespoons of heavy cream stiff; mix together 3 tablespoonfuls of grated horseradish, a tablespoon of vinegar and paprika and salt. When mixed, beat them gradually into the stiffened cream. That's a most delicious sauce to serve with a baked lamb loaf.

RHUBARB PUFF—Combine 3 cups of rhubarb cut in small pieces with a half cup of sugar. Divide into eight cups. Make a batter of ¼ cup butter, ½ cup sugar, ¼ cup milk, 1 cup flour, ½ teaspoon of salt and 1½ teaspoons baking powder. Lastly fold in the stiffly beaten whites of 2 eggs. Pour over the rhubarb. Steam 20 minutes. Serve hot with a sauce made by combining 1 cup of sugar, ½ teaspoon of salt, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ½ tablespoon butter and ½ cup boiling water. Cook the mixture until smooth and well flavored.

SPANISH LIVER WITH RICE—Cook ½ cup rice for five minutes in boiling water. Drain and rinse in cold water. Melt 3 tablespoonfuls butter, brown an onion in it. Remove the onion and brown a cup of chopped liver in it. Put the onion in a casserole or double boiler, spread the rice

Expresses Appreciation to Kellogg Company for Relief

If you are troubled with constipation, this letter from Mr. John J. Mulligan, 300 So. Cicero Avenue, Chicago, Ill., will interest you:

"This is simply a letter of appreciation for the wonderful results I have obtained through the use of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

"For years, in fact ever since my return from France, I have been troubled with constipation and its companion ills. I tried numerous remedies in vain. Finally in desperation, not wishing to be a slave to laxatives all my life, I turned to Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. The results were remarkable and quick—in fact the next day long-hoped-for relief became a happy reality."

The Kellogg Company has received thousands of similar letters in praise of ALL-BRAN, the product that is positively guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation.

It also adds needed iron to the diet and builds health.

Eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN with milk or cream . . . in soups, salads and fruit juices . . . in cooked foods and hot breads. Your grocer has ALL-BRAN in the red-and-green package. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

over the liver and pour 2 cups of canned tomatoes and a cup of boiling water over the rice. Give it sufficient seasoning, salt and pepper, and cook until the rice is tender.

CHICKEN CHOW MEIN—Bring cooking oil in a skillet almost to a boiling point. Fry 2 cups of diced cooked chicken with a tablespoon of soy sauce for 10 minutes. Add two cups of celery cut to the same sized dice as the meat and 1 cup of dry onions cut in pieces and cover with white stock in which the chicken was cooked. Cook until the vegetables are tender. Add 1 can of bean sprouts and heat thoroughly. Empty the contents of a can of chow mein noodles into a tin and heat in the oven. Mold the hot noodles on a platter and cover with the chop suey. Decorate with lettuce and cold slicer egg. Pour a gravy made of a half cup of broth thickened with one tablespoon cornstarch and a tablespoon of soy sauce and a teaspoon of brown sauce added over the chow mein.

PEACH TORTE—Mix one and one-half cups flour, one tablespoon sugar, one-eighth teaspoon salt and one teaspoon baking powder. Sift all together. Cut in three tablespoons butter and add one well-beaten egg and one-fourth cup of milk. Put in a pan to about one-fourth inch in thickness and sprinkle with macaroon crumbs or with cornflakes. Line the dough filled pan with 16 half peaches (may be fresh or canned). Beat two eggs well, add three-fourths cup sugar slowly, then three-fourths cup milk, one-fourth cup cream and lastly one cup peach juice. Pour this over the peaches and bake for one and one-fourth hours in a moderate oven.

NUT LUNCH BREAD—Sift together 3 cups flour and 1 teaspoon salt. Mix 2 well-beaten eggs with 1¾ cups of milk and add to the flour mixture. Add 3 teaspoons baking powder mixed with 1 tablespoon sugar, mix well and lastly add ½ cup chopped nuts. Put into a well-greased loaf pan and let rise for 20 minutes. Bake in a moderate oven.

PIMENTO SALAD—Drain a can of pimentoes and dry on a towel. Line the timbal molds with pimentoes and pack solidly with a mixture made as follows: Work a small cream cheese until it is smooth and then add 2 tablespoons pecan nut meats broken or chopped and moisten with French dressing. Chill the mixture thoroughly, fill the molds, chill again. Remove from the molds before serving and cut crosswise in 1-3-inch slices. Arrange on a crisp lettuce leaf. Serve with French dressing.

* * *

FIG SNOW—Beat the whites of three eggs very stiff and add one tablespoon powdered sugar and one tablespoon lemon juice. Drain ¾-cup fresh canned figs. Chop the figs and gradually fold into the egg white. Pile lightly into individual glass dishes for serving and chill. Serve with boiled custard flavored with nutmeg.

* * *

SALMON CROQUETTES—Remove the skin and bones from one can of salmon and mince it fine. Add one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, chopped parsley and one-fourth cup cracker crumbs. Moisten with one egg. Form into balls. Roll in cracker crumbs and fry in deep fat. A teaspoon of minced onion sauce made as follows: Boil the liquor from a can of salmon, a half tablespoon of butter and one-half cup of milk. Thicken with a teaspoon of cornstarch dissolved in two tablespoons of milk, remove from the fire and add salt, pepper and one-third cup of catsup.

JELLIED VEGETABLE RING—Soften 2 level tablespoons gelatine in ½ cup cold water, then dissolve in 1½ cups boiling water. Add [illegible] cup sugar, ½ cup vinegar, ¼ cup lemon juice and 1 teaspoon salt. Cool and when the mixture begins to thicken add the following vegetables: 1 cup shredded cabbage, 1 cup peas, 1 cup small cucumber cubes and 2 cups celery cut in small pieces. Trun into ring molds first dipped in cold water and chill. Remove to serving dish and surround with thin slices of cold cooked meat. Fill the center with potato salad topped with boiled salad dressing.

YORKSHIRE PUDDING—Mix together ½ cup flour and ¼ teaspoon salt. Add 1 cup milk slowly to form a smooth paste, then add 2 eggs beaten for 2 minutes using a wheel egg beater. Twenty minutes before the roast beef is to be served pour this Yorkshire pudding mixture into the pan in which the roast was cooked and bake in a hot oven for 20 minutes. Cut in square for serving when it is baked and served with the roast beef.

the new popular priced white toilet tissue with the same health-protecting qualities.

These Health Tissues are Featured at Your Dealer's This Week

HERE'S an unusual opportunity to get your summer supply of ScotTissue, Sani-Tissue or Waldorf.

Dealers everywhere—all this week—are featuring quantity offerings of these famous health-protecting toilet tissues—in celebration of National Scott Tissues Week.

Stock up now! And be sure to get enough to fill your family needs ... for the entire summer.

These three "thirsty fibre" tissues—ScotTissue, Sani-Tissue and Waldorf—are specially processed to satisfy all the requirements that doctors say toilet tissue must have to be safe ... softness, absorbency, and chemical purity.

"Crumpled in your hand, Scott Tissues feel just like fine old linen," is the way more than one housewife has described their unusual softness.

They are twice as absorbent as ordinary toilet tissue. You can easily prove this by dropping a wadded sheet in water. It sinks almost instantly.

Ordinary toilet tissue, non-absorbent, remains floating for several minutes. Yet absorbency is absolutely necessary for thorough cleansing.

Only the finest fresh materials go into Scott Tissues. No harmful dyes. No reclaimed waste material. They are chemically pure—absolutely safe! Fill your linen closet today with these pure, sanitary toilet tissues.

You'll find it pays to buy in quantities.

Larry French

BIG LEAGUE BASEBALL magnates who recently expressed the belief that the public preferred the high-score games produced by the lively pill to the pitching duels of earlier days, would have heard some strong testimony to the contrary if they could have mingled with Forbes Field patrons after the first game of yesterday's double-header, in which Larry French and the Pirates defeated Phil Collins and the Phillies by the old-fashioned score of 1 to 0.

Amazed and delighted fans discussed the thriller with a degree of enthusiasm that had not been in evidence here at any previous time this year, and they were a unit in pronouncing it the finest exhibition of the local season. And they were not exaggerating things a bit in giving the contest that ranking. With only one run scored in nine innings, thrill following thrill, tension every minute, errorless fielding on both sides, and beautiful pitching backed up by sparkling infield plays and spectacular catches in the outfield, the battle carried the onlookers back to the happy days when baseball was baseball and made the modern slugging orgies look like burlesque in comparison.

ONE-TO-NOTHING BALL GAMES are such rarities in these days when many a score sounds like a telephone number that it is not to be wondered at that the happening caused even more of a sensation than another very unusual occurrance, which showed the transformed Buccaneers winning three victories in succession and two in a single afternoon.

To show the novelty of the thing in Pittsburgh, in particular, it need only be said that this is the first time in almost two years that a National League game in this city has been decided by that score. The last previous contest of that kind in which the Pirates figured at Forbes Field was played on August 11, 1928, when Red Lucas, pitching for Cincinnati, let the Bucs down with two hits and won a 1-to-0 decision over Burleigh Grimes.

DURING ALL OF last season, the Rovers played in only 1-to-0 game. That took place in Boston on August 14, when Jess Petty, recently released to Newark, defeated the Braves by that score in a pitching duel with Percy Jones, another Pirate discard of the present campaign.

Jess Petty

Three Buccaneer games in 1928 were decided 1-to-0. In addition to the Grimes-Lucas affair, Grimes downed Sheriff Blake and the Cubs in Chicago, June 2, and Fred Fussell beat Larry Benton and the Giants in New York on September 16 of that year by the same score. The locals, therefore, have been in only five 1-to-0 games in two and a half seasons, and have won four of them.

FRENCH IS THE only Pittsburgh pitcher who has shut out an opposing club this season. Yesterday's performance was his second, as he blanked Lucas and the Reds, 5 to 0, in Cincinnati on May 20. The Pirates themselves have been held runless only once. Jumbo Elliott pitched a 7-to-0 victory for Brooklyn over Remy Kremer, Ralph Erickson and Leon Chagnon at Forbes Field on May 10. Incidentally, French broke a losing streak of four straight games by winning the first half of yesterday's bargain bill. He had not won a game since he beat the Robins in Brooklyn on June 4. At that Larry has pitched more complete games than any other Pirate flinger—seven out of 15 starts.*

THINGS ARE LOOKING up for the Pirates. Their victories on Wednesday and in the first event yesterday marked the first time in 30 straight games that they won two contests in succession. They have now won three in a row, their longest streak since they took three from the Reds and one from the Cubs on May 17, 18, 20 and 21.

Yesterday's double win lifted them to fifth place by the narrow margin of one point and left them only a game and a half from the first division. In the present home stand against the East they have won four games out of seven, whereas in their first series here against the Eastern clubs they won only three out of 11.

THERE IS NOTHING fluky about the spurt of the Ensmen. Yesterday's wins were not due to the fact that the Phils are in a rut, having lost seven games in a row and eight out of nine on the Western trip. The ball played by the Bucs Wednesday and yesterday would have beaten any opponent.

Eddie Roush

The fielding of George Grantham, Adam Comorosky and Gus Suhr has been particularly brilliant. Suhr is starting more double plays from first to second, or to second and return, than any other first baseman in either of the big leagues. He appears actually to make the difficult plays better than even left-hand throwing first sackers usually make it.

SOONER OR LATER they all come back, these spring holdouts who announce their "permanent retirement from baseball to go into another business" because their salary demands have not been granted by their major league employers. This year the "retiring" group was made up of Eddie Roush, Johnny Cooney, Chester Nichols and George Blaeholder. They were still out when the season opened and declared they would stay out. But Cooney, Nichols and Blaeholder eventually changed their minds and rejoined the Braves, Phillies and Browns.*

ONLY ROUSH REMAINED firm, and as the weeks went by many fans were led to believe that here was at least one athlete whose threat to quit was not an idle one. But it develops that Roush is not different from the rest. When John McGraw filled his vacant post with first Walter Roettger and then Ethan Allen, and the Giants started a pennant drive as if they were not missing Roush in the least, Eddie began to weaken, and now he is coming back.

Roush has written to McGraw, saying that he wants to play ball again, and if there is no room for him on the Giants, would like to be transferred to another club. McGraw has informed Roush he must first apply to League President Heydler and Commissioner Landis for reinstatement, and indications are that Roush soon will be in uniform again, either with the Giants or with some other National League club. He can be transferred now only by the waiver route.

IT REMAINED FOR college rowing to turn in one of the biggest sport upsets of the year when Cornell spilled everybody's dope by winning the varsity eight-oared race in the Poughkeepsie regatta yesterday. The Ithacans had not been conceded the ghost of a chance, and Syracuse and Massachusetts Tech added to the upset

Gallant Fox Big Favorite for Dwyer

NEW YORK, June 27.—(AP.)—Betting odds on William Woodward's Gallant Fox and Harry Payne Whitney's Whichone for the Dwyer stakes at Aqueduct tomorrow will be exactly reversed from what they were in the Belmont when the Woodward colt beat Whichone by four lengths.

In the Belmont, Whichone went to the barrier at 1 to 2 with Gallant Fox at 8 to 5. Earl Sande promptly made the bookmakers and the public look foolish by swinging the Fox into a lead at the start and winning as he pleased. Advance betting in the Dwyer indicates the Fox will go to the post at 1 to 2 and Whichone at 8 to 5.

CO-MEDALISTS SHOW CLASS AT OAKMONT

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

The co-medalists, Lawrence Moller, of Notre Dame, and George T. Dunlap, Jr., of Princeton, were the prime favorites to battle in the 36-hole final round of the National Intercollegiate championship tomorrow at the Oakmont Country Club, after their splendid first round of the semi-final round tilting this morning. And the interesting part of it is that Moller is the new president of the Intercollegiate Golf Association of America, and Dunlap is the new secretary.

As they went to lunch Moller had no advantage, however, over his opponent, Phillips Finlay, of Harvard, who was all square with the Notre Dame star as they finished on the eighteenth green. Dunlap, on the other hand, had his contest well on its way to a triumph by putting Winston Fuller, of Southern California, 6 down.

PLAYS UNDER HANDICAP

Fuller is playing under a severe handicap today. He was very ill before he teed off this morning but bravely went into the match and played his best, although physicians advised against his playing.

Both matches are East versus West today, and if there is any advantage at all in the contesting, it may be said to be in favor of the East. George Dunlap's excellent medal card of 75, negotiated by virtue of his 35 for an even par last nine holes this morning, being the best golf of the day thus far, although both Finlay and Moller each registered 77's.

The Finlay-Moller tilt is one of the hottest matches since the qualifying round was settled and the first round played.

Moller was having a great deal of trouble with his putting, while Finlay was making up for lost ground in other ways by holing out a most unmakable putts, and so it was that Finlay, with two long one-putt holes and Moller with two three-putters were out in 39 strokes each and all level at the

RING SHOWS GO ON TONIGHT

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

An attempt will be made tonight to stage the boxing show originally scheduled for last night at Hickey Park, Millvale, and unfortunately postponed when it was raining as the boxers weighed in at 3 p. m. The skies cleared almost immediately afterward and the evening was ideal for the holding of outdoor bouts.

Andy Andrucci and Ray Collins, the latter of Erie, are in the 10-round main bout, and Johnny Smackey and Tug Phillips, another Erie entry, meet in another 10-rounder. Georgie Bretsch and Johnny Skorin, local welters, vie in the second bout of eight rounds and Jerry Kucera and Al Becker, local middleweights, box the opener.

Following are the weights of the mittmen, who will not scale again today:

Collins, 137½ pounds, and Andrucci, 134¼; Phillips, 139¾, and Smackey, 137¼; Skorin, 146½, and Bretsch, 145¾; Kucera, 151½, and Becker, 156.

Al Fay, of Charleroi, Jack Kearns' heavyweight, will second Phillips in his battle.

OTHER SHOWS DELAYED

The shows at Junction Park, New Brighton, and at Johnstown also were washed out last night and will be staged tonight.

Action in postponing the Junction Park show was held off until the last minute. Mickey Solomen, of New Castle, and Young Saylor, of Charleroi, are the main-bouters there. Nick Polis boxes Eddie Jacobs in the semi-final and Bobby Belford meets Tiger Joe Clark and Iovino takes on Bus Hardy in the preliminaries.

At Johnstown, Eddie Brannon, of the Hill, boxes Baby Face Art Peeser, of Lebanon, Pa., in the main bout and Peaches Gallagher, of Swissvale, and Johnny Chiodo, of Johnstown, are in another 10-rounder. The show is a benefit for the Eightieth Division Veterans' Association.

Wiener Proposes 'Foul Check' for Fight Fans

PHILADELPHIA, June 27.—(AP.)—Frank Wiener, chairman of the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission, believes he has found a way to eliminate the fouling epidemic in big ring boxing bouts as far as Pennsylvania is concerned.

Speaking over the radio last night he said the athletic commission proposed to attach a foul check to each admission ticket, similar to the baseball rain check. Fans, he said, would be cautioned to retain these checks and in the event of a foul in the main bout the patron may see a return battle between the feature contestants by payment of a nominal sum, 50 cents or $1.

Between Rounds

Johnny Datto, Filipino featherweight, of Cleveland, will arrive in town Sunday and work out that afternoon in the Meyers Bowl ring for his bout there the following night with Jackie Rodgers, according to word from his manager, Moss Donley.

Because of the dispute as to the winner of the recent bout between Mickey Duris and Battling Gizzy at Johnstown, which was declared a draw, the pair have been rematched for July 11 and are expected to draw a large gate. Gizzy's postponed bout with Andy Andrucci at East Liverpool, O., has been set for next Tuesday night instead of Wednesday night.

Bud Cleveland, formerly of Scranton and now of Greensburg, and Pete Brancato, of Cleveland and formerly of Uniontown, will box the semi-final to the Phil Tobias-Frankie Belanger bout at the Jolly Bowl, New Castle, next Monday night.

Bob Ruppel, of the Ninth Ward Republican Club, and Johnny Birex, of the Pittsburgh Lyceum, have been matched for one of the bouts on the outdoor amateur boxing card of the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C., on the North Side, next Tuesday night.

Tiny DeBolt (Young Jack Dempsey) boxes Chuck Burns and Danny Dillon meets Al Taylor at Lorain, O., tonight. Harry Wallach boxes Paul Guiotta at Canarsie, L. I., Phil (K. O.) Kaplan returns to the ring following a layoff against Billy Kohut at Long Beach, L. I., and Benny Tell engages Willie Rose and Jimmy Rappaport tangles with Westy Dawson in Brooklyn.

James (Red) Mason, dean of local managers, is in Chicago with his sister, who is critically ill. He may not be able to return in time to second Jackie Rodgers against Johnny Datto Monday night.

Benny Bass, who won over Joey Goodman here last Monday night, boxes Tony Canzoneri in Philadelphia, July 15, at the Phillies' baseball park, the scene of the Carnera-Godfrey bout.

Young Firpo boxes Joey Williams at Atlantic City, July 7, and Al Conway and

THE LOWDOWN ON THE BUCS

By THE BENCHWARMER.

Well, folks, the gang certainly did break up that double-header cloud that hung over Forbes Field. With five games scheduled for three days, Jule had exactly five pitchers, without anybody for relief but Bernie Walter, and that kid has never been in a ball game. So Jule just put it up to the five pitchers, and my ol' roomie he grabbed that ball and went out there and pitched himself and the club a shutout victory. If every player had Larry's spirit, the team would even look good when it was losin'.

BRAME IMPROVED

Brame ain't quite himself yet. Erv is still weak from the flu. You can notice that he don't get that cut when he's at the plate and he doesn't get as much stuff on the ball. But he went out there and put something on that apple for nine innings. I think he ought to keep gettin' stronger. Just imagine how many more games he would have won in the six weeks he was out.

If we ever get out of the woods we're gonna do a little struttin'. The way things are now the extra fellas has got to take a turns pitchin' to the hitters in battin' practice, but I guess there's some new flingers comin', and Steve is gettin' stronger all the time. I guess he'll be back in uniform about the Fourth.

LLOYD LOOKS GOOD

Lloyd is beginnin' to spank that ball. He has taken off about three or four pounds of that fat, but he's still stouter than any of the gang. I saw him and he's got a good color.

Paul is limpin' again with that bad spot in his hip and Flaggie is out with a broken rib. Everybody on the bench held their breath in the second game when Commy bounced off the fence after making that one-hand stab. We was all afraid he would come up with a broken shoulder or something, but he seemed to be O. K.

PIRATES ROUT QUAKERS IN TWIN BILL

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Jewel Ens, Pirate pilot, was not the first to say or think "necessity is the mother of invention," but the oracle who thought out that one probably was in a jam similar to that which enmeshes the Pittsburgh skipper.

When Ens took stock yesterday he realized that the three succeeding afternoons were slated to bring five diamond battles with the Phillies and he had exactly five pitchers available for duty. It is nothing unusual in these days of lively balls and high-powered bats to see a parade of pitchers, so Jewel informed his sharpshooters that it was up to each of his available twirlers to be ready to pitch a nine-inning ball game.

FRENCH IN FORM

Larry French was quick to accept the challenge. Larry stepped to Fogarty Knoll with the lightness of a fawn and in less than one and one-half hours he had scored a shutout victory, his second of the season. Buoyed up by this sterling performance, Ervin Brame, the convalescent right-hander, followed Larry to the slab, and although Brame was hit hard he was able to complete his game which brought a second victory for the afternoon. The scores were 1 to 0 and 11 to [illegible].

There will be a lapse in the bargain stuff this afternoon, just one contest being scheduled. Heinie Meine is slated to work for the freebooters. The invading host has Chester Nichols ready for slab action.

The several thousand fans who journeyed to the Oakland Orchard yesterday were rewarded by seeing the greatest game in which the Pirates have participated this season. Larry French's triumph over Phil Collins, the right-handed ace of the Quaker staff, was accomplished amid fielding scenes that seldom are matched in the great diamond game.

DEFENSE GREAT

And the sparking defense plays was not confined to one club. Time and again outfielders turned in dazzling captures of liners and lofts, while the infield play, especially that of George Grantham and Gus Suhr, defies proper treatment in every-day language.

Fred Brickell scored the only counter of this fight in the third round when Collins made one of those questionable balks. Brick

YANKS REMAIN ON HEELS OF A'S, SENATORS

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS

HOLMES VICTOR

JOSEPH HOLMES won the junior net title at the Pittsburgh Golf Club yesterday, defeating William Costin, Jr., in the tourney final.

FAST HUNDRED

VANCOUVER, B. C., June 27.—Percy Williams, Canadian Olympic sprint star, was clocked in 0:09 3-5 in a 100-yard dash here yesterday.

RIVALS STAGE CLOSE BATTLE FOR LEAD

Associated Press.

The New York Yankees have won seven out of their last 10 games without improving their position, for Washington and Philadelphia have each won eight out of 10. The Athletics are a game and a half ahead of the Senators, with the Yankees another half-game back.

The Yanks won yesterday after a struggle with Cleveland. The count was 13 to 11 and nine of Cleveland's runs came in the last four innings after the Yanks had piled up an 11-to-2 lead.

A'S, NATS WIN

Philadelphia and Washington were victors by big scores in a day which produced 106 hits by the eight American League clubs and 67 runs. The Athletics made 13 blows, eight of them for extra bases, off Sammy Gray and defeated St. Louis 8 to 3. Washington, scoring seven runs in the first inning, trounced Detroit, 12 to 4.

Even the Humble Boston Red Sox did some heavy hitting, attacking Al Thomas of the Chicago White Sox for five runs in the fifth inning and defeating the Pale Hose, 9 to 7, for the sixth time in succession.

The New York Giants outdid anything the American League could offer by piling up 20 hits to beat St. Louis, 12 to 4.

BALK WINS GAME

A slip by Phil Collins, until yesterday the league's leading pitcher, gave Pittsburgh the first game from Philadelphia, 1 to 0. He wound up while Brickell was on third and let the ball slip from his grasp. Before he could recover the one run was in and he lost the game although he gave but four hits.

Every Pirate clouted the ball at least once in the second game to bring an 11 to 5 decision.

The highly heralded struggle of the Titans between Brooklyn and Chicago turned into a demonstration in honor of Dazzy Vance which put the Robins two full games in the lead with a 7 to 1 triumph. Brooklyn drove Charley Root from the mound with five runs in the second inning.

LEGION GAMES TOMORROW

Fourteen junior baseball teams in the Pittsburgh district will meet in seven games in the American Legion junior baseball championships tomorrow afternoon.

The winner in the Allegheny County series will qualify to compete in the Southwestern Pennsylvania eliminations in the national competition. The schedule for tomorrow:

S. J. Penn [illegible]

F. B. [illegible] at Crafton High School [illegible] p. m.

Edgewood vs. Braddock at [illegible] Edgewood, 3 p. m.

Marsom [illegible] Kennywood [illegible] grounds, 3 p. m.

Wilkinsburg vs. [illegible] grounds [illegible]

Elizabeth [illegible] Elizabeth, 3 p. m.

C. K. P. vs. [illegible] Oval, 6:30 p. m.

STARS IN MARATHON

More than 100 of the best [illegible] athletes will compete in the marathon race and track and field meet sponsored by the Ancient Order of Hibernians in [illegible] Park tomorrow. The athletic committee, composed of Charles F. E. [illegible], chairman, Edwin Stephenson and Hugh McCartney, with the aid of the Allegheny Mountain Association officials, has completed arrangements for a successful meet.

Sport Vignettes

A 19-year-old youth of the South Side, one James A. (Jimmy) Bradley, recently startled the sandlot fans of Pittsburgh by shutting out the Homestead Grays, 2-0, in a seven-inning game, pitching for the Stowe Civics of the City League . . . . Since then he has been working out with the Pirates and likely will be signed by them and farmed out for development . . . . He is a fine left-hand prospect, having won four games for the Stowes since beating the Grays, his victims being the W. O. W. team, the North Side Civics, Mellon Bank and the Jimmy Smith Club . . . . Jimmy, a boyish-appearing lad, who doesn't look the part of a seasoned campaigner, has been pitching since he was 8 years old, starting out with the Carson Club on the South Side . . . . He later proved a winner with the C. O. Hoppers and this spring tried out with the Cumberland team, of the Mid-Atlantic League, and gives unstinted credit to Hooker Joe Phillips, manager of the Colts, for teaching him a flock of pitching tricks . . . . I asked Jimmy yesterday how it felt to pitch against such an array of feared sluggers as the Grays and he said it wasn't any different from facing any other club . . . . "All you have to do is to be sure not to be afraid of the hitters and pitch," he said . . . . He was in two "jams" during the Grays battle, but emerged from them unscathed, stopping the Grays' heaviest artillery . . . . He also went big against Johnny Cummings, former catcher of the New York Giants, who is the heavy hitter of the North Side Civics, and has impressed while pitching against the Pirates in batting practice . . . . Jimmy attended St. John's Parochial School, on the South Side, and his home is at 618 Cabot way, which is in the vicinity of Seventh and Carson streets . . . . Speaking of pitchers and such, Leslie Mann, former major league outfield star, told a flock of youngsters in Philadelphia the other night of an incident that occurred during the 1914 world series in which the Miracle Boston Braves took the Philadelphia Athletics in four straight games . . . . "Eddie Plank was pitching for the A's against us," Mann said, "and we had men on second and third with the score 0-0 and I was at bat . . . . I was only 19 at the time and it was my third year in organized baseball . . . . I previously had made a hit off Plank, but I was considerably fussed in this pinch . . . . Plank appeared to be equally excited. He went through a lot of gestures out there on the mound, kicking up the turf, stopping a few times to glare at me and rubbing his pitching hand over his shirt and then over his trousers . . . . Just when I thought he was going to settle down to pitch, he began to look around to his outfielders and seemed to ignore me entirely. Finally he turned around and smiled at me . . . . I couldn't gather what it was all about and was wishing he would begin to pitch . . . . Finally he did and I hit a poor single over Eddie Collins' head that won the game . . . . Why did Plank go through all of that [illegible] and [illegible] unnecessary motions? I was too green to realize it at the time, but later I asked him and he gave me the reason . . . . The idea was to make me nervous and take my mind off the ball. He didn't succeed, but he had me going for a time . . . . It was good pitching strategy and taught me that there was plenty to learn about the game and that 'every little movement has a meaning all its own' when executed by a smart ball player."

WINSTON FULLER — PHILLIPS FINLAY — LAWRENCE MOLLER — GEORGE T. DUNLAP, JR.

The field is narrowed down to the above four players in the National intercollegiate golf tournament being played at the Oakmont Country Club. They are playing a 36-hole semi-final round today and the winner will be decided with a 36-hole final tomorrow. Fuller hails from Southern California, Moller from Notre Dame, Dunlap from Princeton and Finlay from Harvard.

turn. Finlay dropped a third long putt to score a birdie 3 and win on the tenth to go 1 up, but after they halved the eleventh, Moller evened matters again by grabbing a par 5 to Finlay's 6 on the twelfth.

BOTH MISS CHANCES

Both missed chances of picking up a hole when they went over par for 4's on the short thirteenth, and they halved the fourteenth in the same strokes. Finlay became 1 up again when Moller found the bunkers on the fifteenth, but Notre Dame's staunch player came right back to win the par 3 sixteenth level with the Old Man.

Finlay got back at him with a 3 for a win in the par seventeenth, but Moller had just as fine a comeback in annexing the eighteenth, with a 5 to the Harvard man's 6 when his drive found a trap. Their morning cards:

RIOT FOLLOWS BOUT

GARFIELD, N. J., June 27.—(INS.)—Investigation was considered today by boxing authorities of the riot which followed the decision here last night giving Johnny O'Keefe, of Garfield, a verdict over Joe Glick, New York lightweight. A free-for-all fight climaxed announcement of the referee's decision, and police were called to break up the battle.

Barrow Apologizes For Attack On Scribe

NEW YORK, June 27.—(AP.)—Edward G. Barrow, business manager of the New York Yankees, has apologized for an assault on Bill Slocum, veteran baseball writer of the New York American.

Jacob Ruppert, owner of the club, yesterday expressed "profound regret" over the incident, and announced the appointment of George Perry, his personal secretary, to handle all matters in which the club makes contacts with the press. This work previously has been handled by Barrow.

Barrow's attack on Slocum was the outgrowth of an article in which Slocum had criticized the secrecy with which Barrow surrounded all news of trades and other general interest.

Barrow's apology for the attack was made at a meeting of the New York chapter of the Baseball Writers of America.

PITT DOUBLES PAIR WINS

HAVERFORD, Pa., June 27.—(AP.)—At the expense of two Pacific Coast players, the South took the lead yesterday in the national intercollegiate singles tennis championship by sending Clifford Sutter, of Tulane University, and Donald Cram, of Vanderbilt, into the semi-final rounds.

One Eastern player and one Californian moved into the semi-finals in the upper half, Julius Seligsson, of Lehigh University, intercollegiate singles champion two years ago, and Dolf Muehleisen, California.

The one seeded player to be brushed out of the picture was Eddie Jacobs, the southpaw from Pittsburgh, who was eliminated by Muehleisen, 6-3, 6-3.

In the doubles, fourth round, Jacobs and David O'Loughlin defeated Scott Rexinger and William Calohan, Chicago, 6-1, 6-0.

BOBBY JONES STARTS HOME

LONDON, June 27.—(AP.)—With the British open and amateur golf championship cups in his baggage, Bobby Jons left London today for New York by way of Southampton. He was accompanied by Cyril Tolley, British golfer. This is the first time that both British golfing cups have left England together.

In strong contrast to the big galleries which followed him around the links at St. Andrews, Hoylake, and elsewhere, Bobby's departure from Waterloo station was a quiet affair with only a few newspapermen to see him off.

MANGIN TOPS AUSTIN

WIMBLEDON, England, June 27.—(AP.)—Gregory Mangin, New Jersey flash, today defeated Great Britain's ranking singles player, Bunny Austin, 9-7, 10-8, 6-0, in a match which lasted nearly two hours.

Young Mangin, in his first singles appearance on a center court, rudely shocked British tennis aspirations. The King and Queen arrived just in time to see the closing phase of the match.

Helen Jacobs, California star, advanced another round in the women's singles, defeating Mrs. W. D. List, of Great Britain, in straight sets, 6-0, 6-1.

In the mixed doubles, Elizabeth Ryan and J. Crawford defeated O. G. N. Turnbull and Mrs. J. E. Hill, 6-3, 6-3.

Wilmer Allison, of Fort Worth, Tex., defeated G. P. Hughes, of England, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3.

Henry Cochet, French ace, defeated H. K. Lester, of Great Britain, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3, 6-1.

Chuck Garland, Williams Advance

CHICAGO, June 27.—(INS.)—Charles (Chuck) Garland, former Davis Cup star, and Lucien Williams, former national intercollegiate titleholder, today had battled their way to the quarter-finals in the Illinois state tourney at the Chicago Town and Tennis Club.

Williams and Garland defeated Gallond and Quinn yesterday in straight sets, 6-1, 6-1.

by finishing second and third, over the crews of Washington, Navy, Columbia and California, which had been thought to have the field outclassed.

But the name of Cornell looks familiar at the head of the list, for though not reckoned as a first-place possibility this year the Ithacans dominated the regatta until 15 years ago. They won the feature event in 1901-2-3-5-6-7-9-10-11-12-15, or 11 times in 15 years.

Al Singer

THE LITTLE FIGHTERS are stepping out to teach the big fellows a lesson in sportsmanship. Al Singer, who meets Sammy Mandell on July 17 for the world lightweight title, today asks the New York Boxing Commission to rule out fouls in that contest and to make the conditions provide that neither fighter is to be allowed to win or lose on a foul. Singer requests permission to use a new type of protector, contending that is impossible for a low blow to hurt any boxer wearing it, and he wants the agreement to read that a foul punch shall cost the offending boxer only the loss of the round in which it occurs. A committee composed of Kid McPartland, Patsy Haley, Eddie Currie and Danny Ridge, all former fighters and present referees, was appointed by the commission to inspect the new protector, and after an inspection of it has backed up Singer's proposal and recommended that the no-foul rule be adopted for all bouts in New York state.*

WHEN CHUCK KLEIN, slugging right fielder of the Phillies, doubled to center in the third inning of the second game at Forbes Field yesterday, he won the distinction of being the first player in either of the major leagues to make 100 hits this season.

Klein had 97 blows to his credit up to yesterday, and his three safeties in the second contest, after he had been held hitless by French in the first, rounded out the century. He beat Bill Terry, of the Giants, to the mark by a whisker, the New York first baseman winding up the day with a total of 99. Babe Herman, of Brooklyn, and Johnny Hodapp, of Cleveland, are tied for third place with 96, and Sam Rice, of Washington, is next with 94.

BYERS INDORSES HEARST JUNIOR GOLF PLAY

J. Frederic Byers, chairman of the international relations committee of the United States Golf Association, and well-known golfer at the Allegheny Country Club, has given his whole-hearted support to the third annual Western Pennsylvania junior amateur tournament for the William Randolph Hearst Trophy, which is to be played at the Schenley Park municipal links, on Monday, July 7, under the auspices of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. Of the tournament, which is open to all amateurs 19 years of age and under not attending institutions of learning above preparatory school grades, Byers, who was president of the United States Golf Association in 1922 and 1923, says:

"It gives me very great pleasure to heartily endorse the tournament to be held on July seventh at the Schenley Park golf course for the Western Pennsylvania junior golf championship, which carries with it the William Randolph Hearst Trophy. This tournament is held under the auspices of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and I feel that the sponsors are to be commended and congratulated on instituting and carrying on annually this event.

"I am a great believer in the game of golf for the younger generation as a medium, not only for healthy, outdoor exercise, but as a game which must develop character, patience, sportsmanship and control of one's temper and nerves, all of which are most important to a young man.

"I am also of the opinion that competition is of great value to boys. It not only improves the standard of play, but it instills into the player the spirit of sportsmanship and teaches the value and importance of winning modestly as well as losing gracefully, which is the essence of sportsmanship.

"It is of great importance that the fundamentals of the game of golf should be learned at an age when the player is mentally and physically adapted to properly absorb the principles of the game. This is shown by the fact that, with the exception of Walter J. Travis, all the amateur champions of the United States for the past 30 years have been men who learned their golf when quite young and also from the fact that Robert T. Jones, Jr., the greatest golfer of all time, commenced to play the game practically as soon as he was able to swing a club and played in his first United States amateur championship at the age of 15.

"It would give me great pleasure, if I could possibly do so, to visit Schenley Park on the day of the competition and witness the event."

SCOTTIES WIN NO-HIT FRAY

Pitcher Chapman, of Scottdale, twirled a seven-inning, no-run, no-hit game in the Middle Atlantic League yesterday, his performance coming in the second game of the Scottdale-Charleroi double-header at Scottdale.

Charleroi won the first game, 7 to 6, checking a Scottie rally in the ninth inning, and then Chapman stepped in and hurled his feature game, which the Scots won by a 3-to-0 score.

At Fairmont, Jeannette downed the Black Diamonds, 7 to 4, in an 11-inning game. Burka's home run featured the eleventh inning rally.

Clarksburg lost to Cumberland, 3 to 1, at Clarksburg and Johnstown defeated Wheeling, 10 to 7.

BAUR BEATEN BY HARBISON

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN.

Quarter-final play in the forty-second annual Western Pennsylvania tennis championships gets under way on the Stanton Heights Golf Club courts today — but it gets under way with both men's and women's 1929 singles titleholders out of the running for their hard-won crowns.

Late yesterday Byron Baur, Erie youth and former University of Pittsburgh captain, succumbed after three protracted sets before the onslaught of Sam Harbison, slim Princetonian and tournament darkhorse, 6-4, 7-9, 6-4, to drop possession of the coveted McCahill Cup, while Mrs. Martha Guthrie Snowden permitted her grasp on the Honus Wagner women's singles trophy to go by default through failure to appear for her second round contest with Catharine Cole, Seton Hill College performer.

DEFEAT UPSET

Baur's downfall, accomplished by an unseeded entrant in the bracket of 16, comes as one of the most stunning surprises in the lengthy history of West Penn competition. It was obvious after Byron's unimpressive showing in the Ohio state singles at Cleveland last week that the now dethroned champion was below his par of previous years, but few, indeed, imagined that he would fail to answer successfully the challenge of any district contender, save perhaps two or three of the old favorites.

SMITH VICTOR

Frank Smith, redoubtable Edgewood captain, furnished the second upset of the day by overwhelming Wally Arensberg, Harvard freshman flash, 6-2, 6-0, to attain the quarter final frame. Arensberg, who had earlier displayed brilliant form to down Tack Hammer, Vin Glidden and Jack Lauler, found Smith's ultra-steady game too much for him.

Other favored luminaries to achieve the round of eight were Billy Ramsay, Uniontown ace, who trimmed driving George Henderson, of Stanton Heights, 6-3, 6-3, and Fred Rudisill, who eliminated Edgar Alcorn, youthful Mount Lebanon comer, in a torrid three-set affair, 6-3, 1-6, 6-2.

In the women's event, Mrs. Winifred Eschner, Erie invader, featured by accounting for Mrs. Walter Muckle, home threat, in straight sets, 6-2, 7-5. Rose Straub, of Johnstown, fought up from the rear to bump Mrs. M. W. St. John, Aspinwall delegate, 5-7, 6-1, 6-2. The summary:

MEN'S SINGLES

Third Round—G. D. Henderson defeated Charles Woods, 6-4, 6-2; William O'Laughlin defeated William McCabe, 2-6, 6-4, 6-1; C. E. Alcorn defeated Drummond Chantler, 2-6, 6-1, 6-3.

Fourth Round—Sam Harbison defeated Byron Baur, 6-4, 7-9, 6-4; William C. Ramsay defeated G. D. Henderson, 6-3, 6-3; Fred Rudisill defeated C. E. Alcorn, 6-3, 1-6, 6-2; Frank C. Smith defeated Walter Arensberg, 6-2, 6-0.

MEN'S DOUBLES

First round—Baur and Ramsay won from Porter and partner, by default; Evans and partner won from McLain and [illegible] by default; Lauler and Sullivan defeated Wolfe and Hughes, 6-3, 6-8, 6-3; Mitchell and [illegible] won from Bob [illegible] Schmertz and partner by default; [illegible] and partner won from York and [illegible] by default; Bullion and Casey won from Hammer and Snyder by default.

WOMEN'S SINGLES

Second Round—Catharine Cole won from Mrs. Felix B. Snowdon by default; Vida M. Hurst defeated Lucie Karme Gillett, 5-7, 6-3, 6-0; Dorothy Anderson defeated Miriam Sullivan, 6-3, 6-0; Dorothy Jarvis defeated Elizabeth Kunkel, 6-1, 6-0; Rose Straub defeated Mrs. M. W. St. John, 5-7, 6-1, 6-2; Helen Carson defeated Mrs. E. M. Slatmyer, 6-4, 2-6, 6-4; Mrs. Winifred Eschner defeated Mrs. W. S. Muckle, 6-2, 7-5.

MEN'S CONSOLATION SINGLES.

Second round—George Buchanan won from E. T. Hammer by default; Jack Redmond defeated Charles B. Malls, Jr., 6-1, 6-1; Esler Hays won from Newt Burns by default; Mahon Bovard won from Alfred Silverman by default; Willis McCabe defeated Joe O'Connor, 6-0, 6-4; J. T. O'Connor won from T. D. Crutch by default.

MIXED DOUBLES PAIRINGS.

First round—Mrs. W. Eschner and Baur vs. Sam Keller and partner; Ann Anderson and Jones vs. Miriam Sullivan and Lauler; Mrs. M. W. St. John and partner vs. Ruth Keally and Centalivre; Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Slatmyer vs. Betty Scott and Reed; Polly Schoyer and B. P. Schoyer vs. Vida Hurst and Renda; Betty Wallace and Famariss vs. Mrs. Artzberger and partner; Mrs. J. Brooks Huff and partner vs. Helen Carson and partner; Catharine Cole and Partner vs. Mrs. H. K. Bitner and Sullivan.

WOMEN'S DOUBLES PAIRINGS.

FANS FIND CITY LEAGUE ACTIONS PUZZLE

PREXY BANS POLITICS IN DEALINGS

By TOM BIRKS

Now that the City League has had its much discussed meeting in which politics apparently played a leading part, and Harry Yerx, its president, had a showdown with the members of the official board who in the first half have caused the prexy more than occasional embarassment, fans in the district are wondering what is it all about.

Despite the fact that certain members of umpires' associations were causing trouble on the sandlots and players have gotten into the habit of telling umpires "You won't be in here long," there was no change in the arbiters. This was because Yerx absolutely refused to play politics. What is more, he apparently had the backing of the majority of managers.

LEAGUE DOMINATING

Ever since that memorable meeting of the North Side Twilight League and the Commercial League some years ago, when two members of the City League formed the present loop, the circuit had taken upon itself the right to forage into other leagues without temerity, and because they were the City League, thought their tactics justified.

Fintex, a member of the Central League was approached to join the loop but turned down the offer.

So, to make up their own loop, Dormont was admitted. However, in justice to the City League, it was Dormont that made the overtures to President Yerx for a berth. In a conversation with the secretary of the West Penn League, Manager Fuchs denied he had made application to the City loop, but said two members of the official board had approached him. This seems peculiar, since George Stricker is the business manager of the club.

The secretary of the City League made a statement criticizing newspapers for announcing that St. John's had withdrawn from the loop. Secretary Sweeney evidently feels nothing should be printed in a newspaper except games that are scheduled, and scores.

POP GEER LOSES JIMMY

Pop Geer evidently was the loser of the meeting. Bradley twirled two games after he had signed for Pleasant Valley and then Stowe, and these games, against the Jimmy Smiths and North Side Civics, were thrown out. If this rule was in the City League, and it evidently was, why did not Secretary Sweeney return Bradley's signature to Manager Geer, of Stowe, with a note stating that the pitcher was the property of the Pleasant Valley club? When the game, which was broken up by a riot, was protested by Manager Burke, of the Smiths, some one unearthed the rule, and the Civics game also was thrown out. It is said that further developments along this line will come to light.

BOOK SHOE WINS

One game will be played in the City League, the Jimmy Smiths meeting the Smilers at Pleasant Valley.

Two games will be played in the City League this evening. Book Shoe will meet Pleasant Valley Smilers at Wilson avenue and the J. L. Thomas nine travels to Magee field to hook up with the Jimmy Smith club. Both games have considerable bearing on the championship.

In last evening's battles in the City League, Book Shoe hammered out a 15-to-7 win over Stowe and the North Side Civics defeated J. L. Thomas, 9 to 2.

Beckman Motors won over the Lincoln Civics, 9 to 5, in a Central League fracas and in the Crafton-Ingram Church League, Presbyterians defeated St. Phillips, 4 to 3.

Pittsburgh Railways won over Byllesby, 8 to 6, in the Philadelphia Company circuit.

Verona nosed out Garfield, 2-1; Wilmerding defeated Dan Heeps, 11-4; Primrose upset Lawrenceville, 3-0; Shamrocks downed Homeville, 9-0, and the Collier Juniors defeated Palomine, 10-0, in independent battles.

In the Beaver County League, Ellwood City defeated Aliquippa, 5-4, and Beaver Falls won over Rochester, 9-5. Monessen downed Fairhope in the Monon Valley circuit, 9-2, and Charleroi defeated California, 4-2.

Nick Altrock Says:

WASHINGTON, June 27. — The Red Sox had a winning streak this week. They split a doubleheader. I see the Giants bought an outfielder named Rosenberg and I hope he makes good. Hebrew players have always been scarce in the big leagues as they were more liable to wind up owning the ball club than sitting on the bench. Say, Wilbert Robinson is certainly getting mileage out of those Brooklyns. They have traveled 15,000 miles this season and haven't blown yet and even if they blow they have got New York right in back of them for a spare tire so I am making my hotel reservations in Gotham for October.

MEINE READY FOR PHILS

was on third with only one out and Collins was in the middle of a delivery to Grantham when the rocket fell out of his hands. The balk rule was applied, but in a strict sense, this rule was not made to cover such a play. The spirit of the legislation is to keep the pitcher from deceiving the runner, and Collins certainly was not trying to deceive the runner. Nevertheless, Brick probably would have scored anyhow, for Grantham drove a long one to Denny Southern. Brickell could have galloped over easily on the same kind of a ball.

Collins held the Pirates to four hits while French yielded only seven. All in all the contest was a corker and it put the fans in a happy mood to enjoy the second victory which was won in a decisive manner.

CIRCUIT VET DEAD

CLEVELAND, June 27.—Alonzo McDonald, veteran grand circuit driver, died in a hospital here following a heart attack at the North Randall track yesterday.

CORNELL CREW SPILLS DOPE WITH WIN

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 27.—(AP.)—Shades of old man river, old Pop Courtney and the rowing glory that is again Cornell's!

In one of the most spectacular dramatic comebacks the Hudson has ever known, Cornell's big Red crew made a show of the greatest fleet in intercollegiate regatta history yesterday afternoon, winning the four-mile varsity race for the first time in 15 years to rule again the waves that the Ithacans dominated so long in the palmy days of the late Charles E. (Pop) Courtney.

Stroked by a 19-year-old sophomore, Robert M. Wilson, of Montclair, N. J., pacing the first big college race of his career as a substitute, Cornell fought off a smashing challenge by Syracuse to win by three good lengths.

CORNELL TAKES LEAD

Cornell took command of the varsity race shortly before the half-way mark was reached after the surprising Massachusetts Tech crew, competing in the regatta for the second time, had set a sensational pace from the start.

Back in the ruck, splashing and fighting through water that was almost as rough as the heavy seas of 1929, favorite after favorite dropped from the running after a mile and a half of racing that left the race as open as the broad reaches of the river.

Syracuse finished second, with M. I. T. third, California fourth, Columbia fifth, Washington sixth, Penn seventh and Wisconsin eighth.

The Navy sank 100 yards from the finish line.

CORNELL JAYVEES WIN

Cornell, outriding the waves and outrowing all rivals, not only lifted the blue ribbon prize of the regatta for the first time since 1915, but came within a few seconds of actually sweeping the river as the Ithacans divided the first two races of the regatta with their upstate rival, Syracuse.

Cornell scored a smashing victory in the three-mile junior varsity race, beating the favored Washington Jayvees by five and one-half lengths, and Syracuse captured the two-mile freshman honors, with Cornell in second place two lengths behind.

NAVY SINKS

Navy's unfortunate outfit was the only one actually to swamp, thereby experiencing the fate that befell four of the nine entries a year ago, but several of the others were on the verge of going down as they seemed, from the shore, to be swept by heavy spray and down to their gunwales. Washington and Columbia, in the extreme outside positions and the one-two crews of 1929, appeared to have much difficulty finishing, yet they were far outstripped by the crew that started the race next to them, M. I. T., in the No. 7 lane.

The correct order of finish with times was as follows:

Cornell 21:42
Syracuse 21:54 4-5
Mass. Tech 22:19
California 22:24 4-5
Columbia 22:25 3-5
Washington 22:41
Pennsylvania 22:50
Wisconsin 22:55 1-5

Although our business is tires, we feel like an Eskimo hitting into the Bright Lights of Broadway.

These glaring new low Goodyear tire prices—yes, sir, they do include ALL-WEATHERS—dazzle even our eyes, accustomed as we are to seeing new low prices for every finer Goodyear.

If all the motorists of Pittsburgh realized the exceeding goodness of Goodyears (and please come see these extra-style, extra-service, new All-Weather Heavy Duty tires) police would find it a job to keep the pre-holiday Goodyear tire buyers in line in front of our place.

As it is, the news is abroad and spreading, that Goodyears were never so low in price—never so fine in performance. We are as busy, putting on new Goodyears, as the service department of a Pink Lemonade Stand, on a Ninety-eight degree F. circus matinee.

Picture the supreme quality of Goodyears; the gripping safety of the thick All-Weather tread; the elastic strength of the Goodyear Supertwist carcass—world's greatest shock absorber—

PAIRINGS ANNOUNCED FOR NATIONAL OPEN

LOCAL GOLFERS ENTERED IN TOURNEY

The United States Golf Association today announced the pairings and starting times for the national open championship, which is to be played at the Interlachen Country Club, Minneapolis, Minn., beginning Thursday, July 10. Exactly 150 contestants are listed for the championship, which includes nine who qualified here at the Pittsburgh Field Club.

Of the district players who will compete, Fred Brand, Jr., of the Shannopin Country Club, and who was eliminated last Wednesday from the national intercollegiate title play at Oakmont, will play with Joe Ford, of Yonkers, N. Y., beginning at 8:40 the first day and 11:45 the second. Perry Del Vecchio, pro greenkeeper at Greensburg Country Club, who tied with Brand at 146 for the low score in the qualifying round here, plays with Al Houghton, of Washington, D. C., at 12:20 and 9:05. Andy Velican, of the Greene County Country Club, is paired with Dr. O. F. Willing, veteran Oregonian, and plays at 12:55 and 9:45. Vincent Eldred, Highland pro, starts at 1 o'clock and 9:50, in the company of Roland Mackenzie, Washington amateur star.

Pete O'Hara, Westmoreland pro, who finished so high in the same event last year that he did not have to play in the qualifying round this year, will play with Ted Turner, of North Adams, Mass., at 2:15 and 11:05. P. O. Hart, unattached, of Canton, O., former Wheeling pro, who also was exempt from qualifying this year, is matched with Francis Scheider, of Dallas, Tex.

George Underwood, of the Alcoma Country Club, will start at 10:50 and 1:55, playing with Al Heron, of Reading, Pa. The pairings and starting times follow:

Notice

—to Our Men Customers

We have, in our enormous stock of Sport Shoes, four very outstanding patterns, made in both black and white, and brown and white, over new, narrow "custom" lasts, with cleverly fashioned "wing tips." We bought quite heavily on these shoes, but sold them out to the last pair, entirely without advertising. Our stock has now been replenished, and we are now in a position to properly fit all who were unable to get their size previously. The price, as before—

THE BIG HOUSE

By JACK LAIT

until the first spasmodic search for him by the authorities would have died down a bit. Morgan was, in truth, "stalling" his own gang. He had no intention of turning again into crime. His one hope now was to go away where he could live the life of other men, have nothing to fear—and be with the woman he loved.

Before, he had dreamed of Anne Marlowe as something completely out of his reach, as something almost cherubic and too far beyond his sphere of life for him to ever hope to find a same level. But, knowing her, he realized that, after all, it was not impossible for him to win her. She was so kind and sympathetic and encouraging—and interested.

Anne Different
Not Like Other Women He Knows

One evening, as the late September dusk came on quickly, Duncan Morgan, or John C. Everett, a book under his arm, as was his custom, walked into the little shop, which was just three steps off the sidewalk. He had formulated a resolution in his mind, but he had formulated the same resolution time and time before. Always Anne Marlowe met his dark, searching eyes without embarrassment, and the words died on his lips.

He did not know how to approach her, and his self-consciousness made it the harder for him. Other women in his life had been easy. Sometimes a nod of the head, other times merely a look, and other times it was already understood between them before they met. But those women meant so little to him—even Ruby Barlow, who considered herself his girl, and whom he had "given the air" this time, meant nothing.

But he entered the shop resolutely and found Anne Marlowe reading a letter. A single glance told him that she was worried. But when she looked up her face lighted into a smile of welcome.

"Oh!—Good evening, Mr. Everett," she greeted.

"Good evening, Miss Marlowe," and off with his hat.

"You're late today—"

Prison Laws
Asked if He Knows About Them

"Yes, a bit—but I'm flattered that you notice it."

"I— Yes, I have—but what book can I get you this time?"

"What do you recommend?"

and Morgan took heart at her apparent embarrassment.

"H'm . . . well, let me see. . ."

Anne walked over to the book shelf and Morgan watched her—noted with pleasure the supple movement of her graceful body, her slender white neck, her business-like black, bobbed hair. She turned.

"Here's a book by Dostoievsky—'Crime and Punishment.'"

Morgan stepped back instinctively as she held it out to him. Then he laughed and held up his hand.
thing on the Hawaiian Islands."

"Novel?"

"Yes, something new—the latest thing."

"I mean fiction—truth or imagination?"

"Give me the truth—nothing but the truth. Something de-

"No, thanks—give me some-scribing the islands—the life there."

"Oh, you are not going to leave us—Mr. Everett!"

"Yes, maybe—sometime. They say it's a great little place to make a new start—I mean—there are great chances there for a fellow who wants to work hard."

"I'll have to take a look through my catalogues."

"Oh, I don't have to have it right away."

"Then you are not planning to go so—soon?"

Both of them laughed.

"No, not until certain things are settled."

He looked at her significantly. Anne Marlowe dropped her eyes, but then raised them a bit, inquisitively as though she wished to know whether he meant just what she thought he meant. Morgan tried to convey the answer in his own eyes, but Anne apparently read nothing there, for she said hurriedly:

"I am making some coffee in the stockroom—won't you have a cup?"

"Sure," answered Morgan.

In the stockroom were a table, three chairs, and the delicious aroma of fresh coffee. Anne busied herself setting the table and Morgan watched her with a furtive wistfulness. He sat in the chair and threw his hat on a pile of books.

"This is sure my idea of home," he sighed.

"Home?" laughed Anne.

"Yes—home . . . where I can sit on one side of the table and look across at—you."

There it was—out at last! He felt the blood fountain to his face. Anne's laugh now was a bit nervous.

"It's rather crowded," she parried.

"Not half enough," desperately.

Anne avoided his eyes now.

"One sugar—I believe."

"Yes—from one girl—the one girl."

"Oh, Mr. Everett I have been giving you too much romance to read."

"No, Anne," and Morgan leaned forward. "This is not fiction nor imagination—I—"

"Mr. Everett, I would like to ask you something," interrupted Anne sternly. Morgan relaxed and nodded.

"It's about—it's about some one I know—a boy who's in trouble. He's in prison—"

"Ah, prison!"

"Yes, do you know anything about prisons—I mean prison laws?"

"Prisons and laws—h'm—well, yes—a bit—I mean, a little."

Cleveland Gangster Slain, Has 45 Wounds

CLEVELAND, June 27.—(AP.)—Charles Velotta, 28, a gangster, was shot and killed here today in the Little Italy section.

He died in a hospital of 45 bullet wounds, an hour and a half after being found prostrate in the street.

Police said Velotta had been a target of the underworld since the double murder of Ernest Yorkell and Jack Brounstein, who had come here from Philadelphia to shake down bootleggers, but who met gang deaths October 8, 1927.

TEACHER JOINS POWER FIGHT

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., June 27.—(AP.)—Dr. E. H. Vickers, professor of economics at West Virginia University, criticized the State Public Service Commission in a public statement accompanying a contribution to a fund being raised by the Morgantown Dominion-News with which to appeal a water power grant on the Cheat and Black Water rivers, made by the commission to the West Virginia Power and Transmission Company.

The grant was given the formal approval of Gov. Conley and the commission.

Dr. Vickers said that "if the commission adopts the attitude that it is without discretion to grant or to withhold a concession, or to delay action so long as doubt exists or until in the public interest legislative error may be corrected, it thereby abdicates as an agency of government and the public interest is without protection."

First Waynesburg War Mother To Sail

WAYNESBURG, Pa., June 27.—Greene County's first gold star mother to visit her son's grave in France will be Mrs. Emma Pipes, of Waynesburg, whose son, Regan Pipes, died shortly before his scheduled return home. Mrs. Pipes will leave August 19.

Head of Wrecked Firm Denies Guilt

CLEVELAND, June 27.—(AP.)—A plea of not guilty was entered in Federal Court here by S. Chester Crobaugh, president of the defunct $30,000,000 Union Mortgage Company, when he was arraigned on a charge of using the mails to defraud. He was released on $10,000 bond.

The company was closed in 1927 with a reported loss of approximately $7,500,000 to depositors and stockholders.

FUGITIVE SLAIN BY POSSE

DULUTH, Minn., June 27.—(AP.)—A 19-year-old youth, who, with his father, has been the object of a man hunt in the wilderness of Northern St. Louis County for the past week as a murder suspect, was shot and instantly killed by a posse that surrounded the two fugitives 21 miles northwest of Green, near the Little Fork River in Koochiching County.

The youth, Charles Heath, of Hibbing, was killed when he failed to obey a command of deputy sheriffs to surrender, and opened fire on the officers. The boy's father, Gould Heath, 40, obeyed the officers' command to drop his gun and was arrested.

The two, said to be wanted in connection with the slaying two months ago of Norman D. Fairbanks, Sr., Hibbing, deputy state game warden, have been trailed by a posse of St. Louis County deputy sheriffs and game wardens for the past week.

Over Ten Million Adults Suffering With ITCHING TOES-- BURNING FEET

Yet Don't Know What Causes It

These aren't figures just quoted at random, but taken from a recent U. S. Bulletin of Public Health Service.

There a dangerous epidemic—a contagious foot infection sweeping the whole country.

The symptoms are a slight cracking or scaling between and around the toes, itching becomes intense and then blisters develop which break open and form a wet, oozing surface, most stubborn to dry up.

Many people have been disabled for months with this malady!

But just let Moone's Emerald Oil show you how to quickly check the infection. Druggists everywhere are dispensing this powerfully penetrating germicide, which is just what is needed to get after these germs which exist down deep in the skin, making them so difficult to kill.

Apply night and morning—itching and burning immediately stops—and in 2 weeks if your feet aren't in just as good condition as before infection started—money back!

Bargain Hunting of Women Like Big Game Sport of Men, Says Fay King

WHAT HUNTING AND FISHING ARE TO MEN SHOPPING IS TO WOMEN
I TRACKED THIS DOWN FROM $125 TO $29.98 !
A BARGAIN HUNTRESS
FAY-KING
SOME TROPHIES!
HAT BOXES TO THE BARGAIN HUNTRESS ARE LIKE ANTLERS AND HORNS TO A HUNTER!

By FAY KING

THE DELIGHT that fishing and hunting are to men, shopping is to women.

A bargain hunt is as thrilling to women as a big game hunt is to men. The better the bargain the better the game.

Women have stalked their "game" from the first day it was displayed at its original price, and have finally bagged it at a great reduction.

No man ever photographed with his foot on his first lion, or posed beside the prize catch of the fishing season, could feel prouder of his sportmanship than the woman who returns from a successful expedition through the shops.

There are open and closed seasons for bargain hunting.

The bargain huntresses know them well, and trek forth armed with cash or checkbook ammunition.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Could You Break a Girl's Heart for Telling Lie?

Here's the story of a liar,
Not just one of those amateur, common-garden-variety liars,
But a high class professional with a penitentiary career.

Ever wonder how an honest-to-goodness bad man talks and feels? Here's how. And it's plenty of lesson for others, who never "did a rap in the big house." A lesson in tolerance. For as I mentioned before, this is the story of a liar and a cheat. One who spent five years behind walls thinking things over, and wishing he would be forgiven. And yet, what happened when he came "out of stir," and fell in love, and the only girl told him one little, teeny, weeny fib?

Did he remember what a liar he himself had been. Did he consider the whoppers he had told before, during and since his "rap?" And did he forgive Peg and give her a chance—as she'd given him his chance, when he was up against it?

Yes, he did not! Read and see what he really did do. And perhaps the next time you're tempted to judge some erring friend you may remember Buddy — and act human instead.

"Dear Sally—

"You've helped out so many muddled mamas and peeved papas that I'm putting my case up to you, and I wish you would tell me what you honestly think I should do. It's a tough one, and no mistake. Here goes.

"About a year ago I was released from the big house, after polishing off a fiver. I was out about three months when I made the acquaintance of a girl who interested me enough to go with. You know when a fellow has spent five years away from the outside, he's afraid to say much for fear of making a bad break. So I squared myself with her by telling her I had been studying and traveling.

MET THE REAL GIRL

"Everything was okeh . . . no argument. Only when she saw me casting a mean eye at a broad. Then she would explode. This went on until I met the other girl—the real girl—Peggy. And I went for her in a big way. When I was in the stir, I had a mental picture of how I wanted a girl to be and look, and Peggy was that and then some. In fact, she made me forget Dorothy, until I received a phone call from her.

"Dorothy and I went to dinner, and she acted as if things were all right, but I could tell that something was wrong. And there was! She started off by asking me if I intended going back to 'study and traveling,' and I said 'no.' Then she opened up on me. Somebody had put the knocks in and told her I was from 'stir.'

"She told me I was no good, and was so mean and stubborn that they had transferred me from the reform school to the big house. Whoever gave her the dope knew me pretty well. I haven't had much experience with women, but I knew there was no use arguing with that one, so I just sat and took it.

"When she got winded I told her how it was, and that it was all over between us. Then, after saying what she did, she starts in with the tears and tells me that I can't leave her, and if I do, she knows about Peg, and will give her the lowdown.

TELLS PEG THE TRUTH

"I calmed her down, because I was afraid she would tell Peg, and if anyone was going to do that, I figured I could do it, and get the breaks. So I beat her to it and told Peg the truth. She came right back at me and told me she knew all about it, and that I'm okeh with her. I didn't mention about Dorothy, although I am sure that she never told her.

"When I would go and see Peg she would find out what I liked to eat, and would cook me a meal that would have made the warden cry with envy if he could have seen me. She'd tell me how much she loved him. And honestly, Sally, she had me seriously thinking of going to work. I began to think of overalls and alarm clocks . . . and if there's anything I hate worse than these, it's handcuffs! In two weeks I didn't know Dorothy existed.

"Now, I had never been in love before. In fact, I've always been under the impression that it was a mild form of insanity. Why, I even sent her roses when we had a little spat, and after I sent them I began to think I was getting 'stir' bugs.

LIE BURNS HIM

"But now everything has broken up. I went away for a while, and we wrote every day. Then Peg told me a lie about something . . . and the more I thought about it, the more I burned up. I began to think of other things she had told me, and they seemed wrong, too. So I up and wrote her a letter calling quits. I didn't mention the real reason, but gave her some excuse.

"She wrote back and said I'd hurt her, and after I read a page or two, it sounded so heartbreaking I was going to wire and tell her I didn't mean it. But when I got to the end, she said she loved me, but now I'd been so mean, she was out for the money from now, and all she could get of that. I may be wrong, but I was on the square with her, and she asked me if I'd be true to her, and I said I would, and I was, although she'd smile when I said it. And her saying what she did got my goat. I'll admit that before I met her I had roving ways, but not after. And her letter just burned me up all over again.

"Now Dorothy sends me word that if I'm a square fellow I can come back to her. She's a beautiful girl, but I don't love her. Yet I do think she'd be true to me.

"Sally, if you can straighten out this mess I'll certainly be one relieved person. I'm getting thin trying to dope it out for myself. I can't even sleep nights. What shall I do? If you think I should go to Dorothy, I wish you would tell me. I might come to love her in time, but I doubt it. What shall I do?

"BUDDY."

What he should do.

What'll you do?

Well, just offhand, I would advise you to take a good, long jump in the bay. Maybe that would rinse a little of the hypocrisy and self-righteousness out of you. For you certainly have your nerve, Big Boy, to judge or condemn anyone!

That kid gave you the breaks. She gave you the breaks even though she knew you had a black record behind you, which you hadn't done anything to improve since leaving the pen. Until you met her, life was just one long lie after another. You were, from your own account, about as worthless a piece of dog-meat as ever cluttered the market. And yet you presume to call down little Peg because she tells you one fib!

But she still loves you! Well, some girls certainly have a queer taste in curios.

However, since she does, if you've got the sense God gave a gooseberry, you'll go down on your knees and ask that girl to forgive you. And then get up, dust yourself off, and proceed to act like a human being. If possible!

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Naming the New Baby

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I would like to name my first baby, if the little one is a girl, after my only sister whom I am very fond of. I really would like it to be a surprise, and, as we live three thousand miles apart, it could very easily be done, but I do want to do the right thing in a case like this. Do I have to ask her if I may?

There is a chance that we will move where she is living before the baby is born. Would I proceed differently then?

Mrs. M.

I am so sure that your sister would be delighted at the gracious and really supreme honor that you are giving her, that I do not believe that you even need to ask her permission for this great gift to her and this great recognition of your love for her.

Wedding Attendants

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you please be so kind as to tell me who is right in this case? C is getting married soon and wants dress suits for the occasion. The attendants or ushers haven't any and must hire them for that event. Who pays the charges for the loan of the suits?

A claims that C stands all expenses, while B states that the individual pays for his suit.

B is right. Each wedding attendant, whether an attendant of the groom or the bride, is expected to furnish his or her own attire that is to be worn at the wedding.

An Awkward Expression

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

When a gentleman was introduced to me recently I acknowledged the introduction by saying, "How do you do, Mr. Brown?" Mr. Brown said, "I'm very glad to know you, Miss Jones." I then said, on the impulse, "I am glad to know you." Mr. Brown completed the introduction with, "The pleasure is all mine." It seems to me a mountain was made out of an ordinary every-day introduction. Do you think too much was said, and was I very wrong with my, "I am glad to know you?"

L. M.

Your acknowledgment, in the first place, was perfect—"How do you do, Mr. Brown." And, although it would have been better if he had said only, "How do you do, Miss Jones," still it was friendly of him to say what he did, since he wished to. With these gracious comments, the acknowledgment of the introduction had better have stopped. That is, it was not necessary for you to go on, but neither was it in poor taste for you to do so.

But the comment, "The pleasure is all mine," was not in good form and this he shouldn't have said. Undoubtedly the pleasure was not all his, since he should at least have granted that you, too, found pleasure in the introduction. And apparently you did enjoy the introduction, and you said so. It is an awkward expression—this "The pleasure is all mine"—and never should be used on any occasion.

Love's Reawakening

Continuation of Love's Awakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Calls a Peace Conference

As I entered Dicky's room, where I had left Roderick, my husband looked at me with face preternaturally grave, but eyes full of mischief.

"Come, Roderick," I said, and Dicky lifted his hand.

"Just a moment," he intoned solemnly. "Do you need anyone to precede the prisoners in a black gown? I know the ritual."

I shook my head at him, without speaking, and he strode forward and put his hand on Roderick's shoulder.

"Tell them to send you a good breakfast of ham and eggs, old man," he advised. "It's your inalienable right."

I made a face at him over Roderick's shoulder, and whisked the small boy out of the room, thankful that he was too young to understand his uncle's gibes. But I had not reckoned on the newspaper education which so many modern children have received.

"Uncle Dicky must think you are going to hang me," he said with a little snigger, and I smiled down at him, not knowing whether to be pleased or annoyed at this sudden rebound from his penitence.

"He'll be surprised when you come back alive, won't he?" I countered, and Roderick gurgled out a mirthful "yes," as we came to the door behind which Junior waited.

With the instinctive feeling that I must do something to counteract the latent antagonism between the two boys, which I could feel as distinctly as though it were something tangible, I motioned Roderick to a seat, and spoke swiftly and with purposeful enthusiasm.

"Do you know, boys, I am very proud of both of you," I said, conscious that the two little lads were eyeing each other much in the fashion of pugnacious, but temporarily leashed, terriers. "Each of you has told me the story of your fight, and while they agree, so that I know each of you has told me the truth, yet each one has taken the greater part of the blame on himself.

The response of both boys to my little speech was identical. With reddened cheeks and downcast eyes, each flung himself against the back of his chair with an embarrassed, "Aw, shucks!" which made me turn my head to hide by twisting lips.

"Now, I am not going to talk to you about the reason for your quarrel," I said, when I had controlled my risibles, and turned back to them. "That is something which does not concern me. It is between yourselves, and you must settle it one way or another. If Roderick believes that you ought to let him have your cars to break up"—I looked at Junior, carefully avoiding Roderick's eyes.

"I didn't think that," protested Roderick. "I don't."

"And if Junior thinks that he doesn't want you to play with him—" I was looking at Roderick now, and it was my small son's turn to protest.

"I do want him to play with me," he wailed. "I've never had a boy to play with, and he can take my cars to make a bus if he wants to."

"I won't take 'em," Roderick said promptly, albeit there was a wistful note in his voice. "I guess I can manage without 'em."

I sat down in a big armchair and said softly, "Come here, both of you."

Junior bounded toward me, Roderick came more slowly, but with patent eagerness, nevertheless.

"I wonder if you can keep a secret for me," I said.

"Sure thing," they both assured me.

"Well, then, you both know Christmas isn't very far off."

With one voice they both cited the number of days, hours, minutes and seconds until Christmas morning.

"And while I can't tell you just what is coming to you, I am sure that you will each have something so—interesting—that you won't have to argue about Junior's cars. Don't you think you can find things to do before Christmas that you can agree on, so you won't have to quarrel? You know it's pretty dreadful to quarrel at Christmas time."

"Yes, I know." Their small faces were sober now. To each of them the story of the Christ-child's birth and the meaning of that marvelous slogan, "Peace on earth, good will toward men," was as much a part of them as an organ of their little bodies.

"Well, then." I left the ethical question as abruptly as I had brought it to them, for it was no time to preach to them except by indirect suggestion. "There are only two ways you can settle this quarrel, you know, and I am going to let you choose which one you want. You can agree to shake hands and be friends, and forget all about it, or you can go out in the orchard and fight it out, and whoever wins can say what the other can do about the cars. Now, think it over carefully and tell me which you wish to do."

Household Hints

Who wants to spend time shining dirty brass ash trays when the swimming pool, the golf green and the tennis courts are calling? And time thus spent is really wasted when there are such charming little pottery bowls to be found for a few cents these days. They make convenient and attractive ash trays for the summer home and can be washed in a jiffy. They also add a delightful touch of color to the room that is plainly dressed in summer slip covers.

Oiling one's cuticle at night becomes an important part of the beauty routine if a small bottle of olive oil is always at hand in the bathroom. And there are such cunning glass bottles these days that add colorful touches to the bathroom shelf that one actually wants to think of things to fill them with. Fill a small one with olive oil and put it in the bathroom then see if your nails don't lose that ragged look. It will be an inspiration too, for the olive oil shampoo.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND.

When Father Lost His Shirt

When Father "lost his shirt," in the recent Wall Street crash, it was the best thing that ever happened to Sonny.

True, it robbed Sonny of the promised new roadster — and, thereby, probably saved his life or limbs at some railroad crossing.

It may have quashed his dream of going to college; but a college education includes so many liquid things in addition to the solid things, these days, that it has ceased to be an unmitigated blessing.

* * *

Perhaps, it made it necessary for Sonny to give up his morning beauty sleep and his afternoon practice on the saxophone, and hustle out and get a job. But WORK is a cure-all and a panacea for most of the ills and follies of youth.

* * *

Sonny, selling things at the corner hardware store, or packing boxes in the shipping office, will acquire a healthier blood pressure, and have less time to muse on the futility of life, and to plan dramatic, front-page ways of "ending it all."

It may have shattered his belief in Santa Claus, with less money for making whoopee, fewer pocket-flasks will now be sold. Because, without Santa-Father to keep them filled, they have lost their charm. Even a monogrammed flask is not very impressive, without any "pre-war," bath-tub gin in it.

* * *

Luxuries are not being handed out on silver platters, to Flaming Youth, these days. So, to paraphrase Sam Hill, Flaming Youth may stop thinking of burning up the road, and get back to thinking of setting the world on fire.

Of course the world owes Sonny a living, but now he will have to go out and COLLECT it.

* * *

It was too much SANTA CLAUS that was wrecking the younger generation. Why should a boy or girl have any ambition to get out and hustle, when everything is handed to him or her, for the asking?

It's pretty hard, of course, to have to worry along without fraternity pins, red roadsters, night-clubs, custom-made suits and monogrammed cigarettes. Pretty hard to have to get up at 7 a. m. and work all day, instead of lying in bed until noon, and "sleeping it off."

* * *

But EARNED dollars are the sweetest after all; and WORK gives life a zest, a flavor and a purpose, which soon dispel the doctrine of "futility."

Sonny no longer asks bitterly "what it's all about." He knows that it's about thirty dollars a week, and lucky to be that. He knows that it's about time to make good, and "show the world." About time to get wise to himself, and to find out that there ISN'T any Santa Claus!

* * *

Yes, Father's bad break has been Sonny's lucky break. Now, life MEANS something to him, he is seeing fascinating things in it that he never saw before—ambitions, opportunities, a real PURPOSE. He has discovered that work is the most thrilling GAME in the world—and he'll be a MAN, instead of Santa's spoiled little jazz-boy.

* * *

When Father lost his shirt, Sonny found himself!

THE BEAUTY BOX

By HELEN FOLLETT

A weekly manicure is almost a sure cure for nail-biting, which is incited by rough nail edges or hangnails. The manicure builds up a sense of pride. Nail biters are disappearing. The biters have learned that germs lurk under fingernail eaves and that nibbling is a dangerous pastime. Those who are still stubborn addicts of the habit should paint their finger shells with bitter aloes.

Liquid vaseline is a good application for dry hair and dry scalp. Olive oil is all right, but is not so easy to handle as vaseline squeezed from a tube. Castor oil, a first class scalp tonic, must be thinned with alcohol; one part oil and one part alcohol. Alternating oil treatments and shampoo will soften dandruff and dislodge it. Dandruff puts up a welcome sign to bacteria that causes scalp diseases.

Why is every woman's glory thatch thinner at the temples than elsewhere? Because the old hairbrush gets in a big wallop there, pouncing upon and detaching budding young fuzzers. When the hair is brushed, it should be from the nape of the neck up toward the crown, and from the middle parting. The hair line around the forehead should be given a rest. Brushing does nothing to stimulate the growth; it merely cleans and grooms the hair.

Beauty fads may not be important, but they offer pleasant diversion for the frail sex. One follows another; there is always something to chatter about. There was the henna period, which has worn itself out. Then the mud pack frenzy, with women running around their homes looking like death's heads. Came along the eyebrow plucking which is about done for. Now the clacking in the boudoirs has to do with purple-green eye-shadows and nail polish to match the frock or the mood. Ho-hummy!

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Outdoor Play a Factor in Child's Life

Play, at its best, is healthful activity, relaxation and fun. Every child should alternate the hours of study and work with periods of play. It is good for body and spirit.

DR COPELAND

Play is one of the greatest factors in making a boy grow into a man of strength, action and good health. It develops a girl into a woman of poise, grace and vigor.

The right sort of play gives to a child right control of bodily movements. It helps in co-ordination of mind and body. It aids in developing the breathing and other functions of the body.

Moderate exercises for a child are excellent in his daily plan of activities, but they should be carefully supervised. The only exercises good for a young child are those taken without undue fatigue. Good, healthy, normal tiredness is a good thing, but real fatigue is altogether another thing. To learn how to breathe properly, how to relax, how to acquire suppleness and poise of the body, and how to coordinate brain and body movement are only a few of the benefits derived from his play and exercise.

A child who takes morning gymnastic exercises should do so without haste or hurry. He should stay well within his limits of endurance. Few children do this by themselves. He must be watched and guided. It is only natural for a child to try to excel, to give his greatest strength, to run and jump farther than the others, and make a good showing in competitive games.

Group games have a decided tendency to moral reaction. Group play shows up the child who plays or exercises seldom, or one who plays badly. It shows whether his development is below normal.

Adjustments are easy to make at this time. It is here that a tactful leader of a group can bring out the best in the character of a child.

It is remarkable what can be done for the child in keeping him out-of-doors in the fresh air and sunshine. Let him play free, unhindered, and the results will be far beyond your expectation.

Most of the children's games have been handed down from antiquity. Spinning the top, skipping rope, rolling a hoop, playing ball, as shown on the frescoes of the ruins of Pompeii, were all games of long ago.

A child develops dexterity, skill and grace of movement from such exercise. The chief thing to look out for is overfatigue. It is very easy for a young child to go beyond his strength.

To have a sound mind in a sound body is the birthright of every child. Let him be natural and unhampered in his play. Insist on his having long hours in the sunshine, as well as plenty of rest and sleep.

To understand and appreciate the great influence of the out-of-doors and sunshine on high spirits and good health, you have only to watch a group of wan-faced waifs from the city who come to play on the seashore, or in some vacation spot. The cries of joy and happiness of the children at play in the open is suggestive of future days of well-being and robust health. Child health is of paramount importance and no good thing should be overlooked in the health-building process.

Answers to Health Queries

"Interested Reader." Q.—Is electricity helpful for neuritis?

A.—Yes, in some instances. The cause must first be removed before the trouble can be cleared up.

L. H. I. Q.—How can scars left by pimples be removed?

A.—To make the scars left by pimples less noticeable apply hot and cold compresses, alternately for 10 minutes, night and morning. Follow this by gently massaging with a good cold cream. X-ray is also helpful.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Saturday, June 28

The lunar configurations for this day are indicative of auspicious circumstancts and events, with advancement or recognition in employment, profitable negotiations with large corporations and a generally flourishing state of affairs in the financial activities. Speculation, investment and loans should bring results and new undertakings should thrive, but some measure of caution is enjoined in the handling of papers or writings.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a fairly successful and progressive year, with conditions in employment favorable, new undertakings fortunately launched and the finances due for increase, either through investment, speculation or loans, but sign all papers carefully.

A child born on this day should be well equipped for success either in employment or on its own account. It should have a progressive and pleasant career, possibly in the public eye.

Oh, These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

"So old-fashioned girls are bundles of conceit, are they, parading their virtues and wearing that holier-than-you look?"

Stand by, you "Bachelor from India," a miss from Detroit wants to say a few words to you on this subject. You say that men pick vamps because they don't make them feel like poor worms, while good girls have an idea they are plaster angels, and better than any man.

"I wonder if he knows," says Miss Detroit, "that girls who flirt in offices don't hold their jobs long, and, believe me, I have to hold mine. I was fired once, for flirting, and I learned my lesson. Now I am walking around looking superior and holier-than-thou.

"Another thing, too, I was foolish enough to let myself care for one of these bachelors, but I was determined that he shouldn't find out until I was certain that he cared for me. Therefore I did my best to hide my feelings beneath a mask of reserve. And he, instead of trying to win me, left me cold.

"Miss Allard, men of today know nothing of a woman's heart and they don't try to understand women. Maybe if they were not so faint-hearted about proposing, they would all be happily married by now and wouldn't have time to heap injustices upon the heads of girls who already have more than they can stand. I certainly would appreciate your giving this 'Indiana bachelor' a few of these kind words.

(Signed) "Miss Twenty-one."

But Miss Twenty-one, the bachelor didn't say anything about vamping men in business offices, during business hours. Mixing love with business doesn't result in success for either.

"Indiana Bachelor" said that men fall for vamps because, while they admire the old-fashioned girls, they are too uppity-uppity—or words to that effect.

You are right, the girl who mixes her flirting with business finds herself out a job. The bachelor didn't advocate vamping. He merely wanted to discourage the high and mighty attitude of the girl who, just because she is good, acts the sugar angel.

As for the bachelor you loved and lost, I'll tell both you and the Indiana bachelor something I know to be true. When a man loves a girl he doesn't let anything stop him. He stands outside her window till he sees the light go out, and does other equally silly things. He sits up till almost morning writing her love notes, and every time anybody opens her front door he falls in.

The idea that men in love need pushing is absurd.

MARKET AGAIN SAGS IN DULL TRADING

Huge Decrease in Loans Fails to Stimulate Short Covering; Long List Drops

NEW YORK, June 27.—(AP.)—The latest glimmer of speculative optimism in Wall street was very nearly extinguished by still another bear drive in today's stock market. Prices sagged substantially, but trading was dull.

The market had been permitted to close higher on two successive days for the first time this month, which, in the opinion of professional traders, was about the best that could be expected with speculative enthusiasm so close to the vanishing point.

The huge decrease of $371,000,000 in broker's loans failed to stimulate any considerable short covering. With brokerage loans at their present low levels, Wall street has been more interested in bank loans on securities and these loans have tended to increase.

LOANS DROP

Security loans of New York member banks showed a decrease of about $30,000,000 while their loans to brokers were cut $96,000,000, possibly indicating further shift of loans from brokerage accounts directly to the banks.

Since the American Tobacco extra and splitup announcement, stimulating business news has been scarce. Further railway net operating income reports for May were about the only items of interest to stock market circles, and reports by such roads as New York Central and Southern Pacific showing declines of about 40 per cent from the like period of last year were not encouraging. The current slump in the textile industry was emphasized by the department of commerce's May statistics for wool consumption showing only about 28,000,000 pounds used, against 32,000,000 in April and 42,000,000 in May, 1929.

The market rallied a little in the opening transactions, but quickly weakened. Although commission houses report considerable investment buying, there is decidedly no inclination to reach for stocks on rallies. Many brokers feel that pessimism is being overdone, but can find no good reason as yet for putting stocks higher. One stock exchange house said in advices to its customers:

"No amount of talking can make a bull market until fundamental conditions are right."

DECLINES WIDE

Bears singled out Southern Railway and North American for their especial attention. Southern was sent down more than 7 points to another new low, reflecting further uneasiness over the fact that earnings are running behind dividend requirements, although the road appears to have made provisions for this year's payments, at least. North American was sent down more than 6 points to a new 1930 low under 90.

Shares losing 5 points or more included Allied Chemical, Northern Pacific, Goodyear and Eastman, U. S. Steel, Radio, General Motors, American Can, General Electric, American Telephone, New Haven, Westinghouse, American Tobacco B, and Du Pont lost 2 to 4 points, or more. Among the more volatile issues, Auburn and Case tumbled more than 10.

The commodity markets were again inclined to sag.

Second Quarter Earnings Statements Expected To Be Very Poor.

Second quarter reports will begin to make their appearance shortly after the first of next month. All that can be said about them is that most of them will be very poor. The tobacco companies will be able to make a good showing. So will the sulphur companies and many of the amusement companies. Some chain store companies also will be able to make satisfactory reports. But it is Wall Street tradition that it is unsafe to buy or sell stocks on future developments that everyone knows about.

It has always been the popular impression that the market discounts business changes some time ahead. Those still holding such an opinion are looking for a turn in the market in the near future, if the predictions of industrial improvement in October are to come true. However, many of the later additions to the ranks of Wall street traders are inclined to doubt this old-time opinion. They point out that business turned downward about a year ago, yet stocks continued to advance steadily for several months. Not only did industrial conditions slacken in this country, but the effect was felt all over the world.

Commission houses report a good deal of deferred investment buying is beginning to assert itself in many of the more seasoned issues in the various groupings. They contend that considerable buying for the so-called bargain-hunter type is making its appearance. The bargain-hunter might be put into the class of a long-swing trader, that is the individual who may commit himself only once or twice in the course of a year or so. His practice is to wait until stocks are down to what might be regarded as unusually attractive levels. In such intervals this type of trader usually appears as a buyer taking out of the market for a considerable time stocks which he believes merit better prices over an extended period of time.

Railway shares, in which investment buying is said to have been evident on the recently established low levels, turned rather sharply during yesterday with the advance in New York Central quite typical of the action of most seasoned dividend payers. Carrier shares undoubtedly were helped by the remarks of the head of the Rock Island who while unwilling to hazard an opinion on when a pick-up in general business will come, expressed the belief that the movement of freight is now at its low point. The latter conclusion, he declared, had been reached after a talk with agricultural and industrial leaders in his road's territory.

Spectacular strength developed yesterday in American Tobacco issues in consequence of the unexpectedly favorable developments coming out of Wednesday's board meeting. The proposed splitup of the present common and B shares and the plan for the equivalent of a higher dividend rate on the new stocks was quite in line with what had been forecast in the company's annual report. But the decision of the board to vote an extra dividend of $4 a share on the present stocks upon approval of the splitup by stockholders was entirely unexpected. Moreover the statement of G. B. Hill, head of the company, that the balance of earnings for the common stock was about 100 per cent larger in the current half year than in that period of 1929, was enlightening.

Reports in the street indicate that an important utility organization is taking advantage of the current market uncertainty to add to its holdings of Foster Wheeler stock, on the belief that much higher prices are warranted. The remarkable progress that this company has made in the past few years is best shown by the estimates of earnings for the first six months, which are expected to approximate $4.50 per share. This compares with the full year's results in 1929 of $6.05 per share, and $2.80 per share in 1928. Despite the fact that the volume of new business from public utilities is said to show signs of slowing up, it is offset by increased domestic and foreign demand for oil refinery equipment. It is considered likely in keeping with the company's policy of liberality to stockholders that the present $2 annual dividend rate will be increased later in the year.

American Ice Co. Has Record May

NEW YORK, June 27—The best May's business in the history of American Ice Company and subsidaries is reflected in net earnings for the month after interest but before Federal taxes and depreciation of $603,688. This represents a gain of 15.8 per cent comparing with $521,358 in May, 1929, the company's best previous May, and with $404,111 in May, 1928.

Able Management Benefits Stockholders

Management by men of long successful experience in the restaurant business has contributed to the large earnings gain shown by Wil-Low Cafeterias, Inc.

The 21 cafeterias in this chain are serviced by a central commissary. Centralized purchasing, baking and standardized preparation of foods secure operating efficiency.

We recommend the common stock, listed on the New York Curb Exchange.

LOCAL MARKET QUIET AND STEADY

Stocks Recede Slightly Following Firm Start; Affected by N. Y. Break

Firmer tendencies were noted again at the opening of the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today, but the downturn in the New York market brought a little selling later in the day.

The dealings here were in small volume and price movements were generally narrow. Despite the downturn in New York, there was a general feeling that the recent storm of liquidation had about run its course, at least in the local securities.

The six-point break in Harbison-Walker yesterday was unaccounted for and there was only a mild advance from yesterday's bottom figure of 51 when the stock came into the market today. Harbison is understood to be operating at satisfactory rates. In fact, the depression in the steel industry should really work to the benefit of the refractory companies, as it is during the slack periods that the steel companies usually do their furnace repairing and relining.

SHEET DEMAND STEADY HERE

CLEVELAND, O., June 27.—Sheet steel demand is steady at Pittsburgh in contrast to the declining trend during the preceding several weeks, according to Daily Metal Trade. Further reduction in automotive buying is expected, however, with steel furniture makers taking smaller lots and farm implement manufacturers restricting purchases further as the summer progresses.

Efforts are being made in the Chicago district to stabilize the hot-rolled strip steel market for third quarter on the basis of $1.50 to $1.90. Recently the market has been lower. Cold-rolled strip demand is lagging in the district. Building steel awards continue at the high rate of recent weeks in the New York district. Structureal prices still are weak although efforts being made to stabilise the market appear to be making some progress.

LOANS DECLINE $371,000,000

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Loans on stocks and bonds to brokers and dealers by reporting Federal Reserve member banks in New York city decreased $371,000,000 during the week ended June 25 to $3,476,000,000. This company with $3,787,000,000 in the preceding week and with the high record of $6,804,000,000 on October 2, 1929.

The drop of $371,000,000 is the largtst for any week since November 20, 1929, which week marked the culmination of the most intense securities market deflation ever witnessed in the history of finance.

The following table shows the decreases in brokers' loans for the four-week period of the panic:

Week Ending	Decrease.
October 30, 1929	$1,096,000,000
November 6, 1929	656,000,000
November 13, 1929	710,000,000
November 20, 1929	585,000,000

Lease of Pennsy On Road Approved

WASHINGTON, June 27.—(AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission approved, under prescribed conditions, the acquisition of the Western New York and Pennsylvania Railway Company by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

Under the lease, the Pennsylvania would pay as rental a sum equivalent to 5 per cent per annum on the lesser's outstanding 5 per cent non-accumulative preferred stock, amounting at par to $6,951,250; 6 per cent on the lessor's outstanding common stock amounting to $23,896,400, together with other minor percentage payments and exchanges of shares.

Crop of Spring Pigs Shows Drop

WASHINGTON, June 27.—The spring crop for 1930 decreased about 6 per cent from that of 1929, the Department of Agriculture states, as a result of a survey covering about 72,000 farms.

The number of sows farrowed decreased about 10 per cent for the United States as a whole.

Reports of the number of sows bred or to be bred for farrowing this fall, point to but little change from the number that farrowed last fall.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, June 27.—Cotton opened steady at an advance of 2 to 10 points today on a continuation of the recent buying which appeared to be promoted by less favorable private crop advices from the southwest and the barely steady showing of the Liverpool cables.

At the end of the first half-hour active months were 3 to 6 points net lower, with July at 13.67 and the new October at 13.04. Liverpool cables said that foreign buying, covering and trade calling, had been supplied by realizing and reported a firmer tone in Manchester with moderate cloth sales to Egypt and the levant. A private crop report pointed to a reduction of 3.9 per cent in acreage, a condition of 73 per cent and an indicated yield of 15,036,000 bales.

The decline from the opening advance carried the market off to 13.51c for July and 12.92c for October, or about 15 to 19 points net lower. Trading was comparatively quiet and prices were within a point or two of these figures at midday.

Diamond Match To Recapitalize

NEW YORK, June 27.—Directors of the Diamond Match Company have determined to proceed with the preparation of a plan for reincorporation and recapitalization of the company, President Fairburn announced. He said it is expected the plan, which the board is convinced will benefit stockholders, will be submitted to the stockholders during the latter part of the summer.

Standard-Vacuum Hearing Monday

NEW YORK, June 27.—Judge John C. Knox has issued subpenas calling on several witnesses to appear June 30 to give testimony in the anti-trust action instituted by the United States government in St. Louis against Standard Oil Company of New York and Vacuum Oil Company of New York and Vacuum Oil Company attacking validity of the proposed merger as a violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

J. G. White & Co. To Boost Capital

A special meeting of stockholders of J. G. White & Co. has been called for July 21 to vote on a plan approved by directors to split the common stock on a five-for-one basis and increase the authorized common to 500,000 shares from 30,000. The new common would have a par value of $20, instead of $100 as at present.

These Cheerful Facts Reveal All Isn't Gloom

—By B. C. FORBES—

SO MANY newspaper columns are being devoted these days to things which are unfavorable that it may not be untimely or out of place to devote this column to recording a few developments not permeated with the prevailing gloom.

Admittedly pessimists are having the best of it, just as the bears, slaughterers of prices, have had the best of it in the stock market—thus far, although I have a notion that some day soon those who have been reveling in selling stocks short will suffer a painful shock.

The following items, culled from the news or received by the writer, are presented to show that there are bright spots here and there, despite the prevailing mob psychology to the contrary.

PRESIDENT THOMAS I. PARKINSON of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, tells me that life insurance has recorded a gain of 4½ per cent so far this year over the boom year of 1929.

CHAIRMAN BERTRAM B. TATE, of the Anchor Post Fence Company, is sending a letter to his stockholders informing them:

"Over the past five months sales have been running close to those for 1929, the peak year in the company's business. Indeed, the volume of sales is larger than your management expected in view of current unsettled conditions."

THE R. C. A.-Victor Corporation has begun the adding of 7,000 employes.

THE UNION TRUST COMPANY of Cleveland observes:

"The most encouraging feature is actually the extended severity of the business depression, for it gives rise to the belief that by this time certainly the down swing of the cycle has been reached."

GENERAL ELECTRIC reports an increase of no fewer than 32,000 in its total stockholders since last September. Four years ago the June total was 38,853; last week the total was 88,383. The list was increasing before the splitup of the stock.

PRESIDENT PHILIP D. WAGONER, of Underwood-Elliott-Fisher, reports:

"Our April results were relatively better than March, and May was relatively better than April. So far in June, domestic standard typewriter business, sales of adding machines and sales of noiseless machines compare favorably with a year ago. After nearly a year of business recession, the encouraging factors seem to far outnumber and outweigh the disturbing elements."

PRESIDENT GEORGE W. HILL, of the American Tobacco Company, announces "a 100 per cent increase in net profits for the first five months of this year," and an extra common stock dividend of $4 a share. He attributes the doubling of profits to "an unusual investment in newspaper advertising."

THE NUMBER of visible unemployed has notably decreased in New York city. Park benches and other resorts of the idle, formerly ominously crowded, now are back to normal.

PRESIDENT W. H. WOODIN, of the American Car and Foundry Company, reports annual earnings of $5.40 a common share, contrasted with only $1.03 in the previous year and adds that "a comfortable amount" of orders are now on hand in the railroad equipment department.

THE IRON TRADE REVIEW says:

"Steel has made a slightly greater showing in activity this week."

THE ELECTRIC BOND AND SHARE COMPANY, that extraordinary creation of that extraordinary utility giant, Sidney Z. Mitchell, admittedly has been buying reams of choice utility stocks in the market during the latest panicky spell.

PESSIMISTIC statements concerning the shoe industry are not substantiated by the semi-annual report of the huge International Shoe Company; its profits are actually ahead of the corresponding period 12 months ago.

NO PENDULUM swings forever in the same direction.

WALL STREET HEARS

That there is an overcrowded short interest in Vanadium and Worthington Pump.

That market sponsors of Consolidated Gas and McKeesport Tinplate look to them to provide leadership in any sustained rally.

That the selection of S. Parker Gilbert, former agent general for reparations, for an important post in a leading financial institution, will be announced next week.

That Diamond Match is considering a splitup, and possibly an extra dividend.

That renewed price cuts in mid-continent crude oil prices are expected in petroleum circles.

That Reynolds Tobacco has decided to put on an additional shift to increase production.

That Bethlehem will earn about $2 a share in the current quarter, against $2.60 in the first quarter.

Comparing 1930 with 1929, it looks like the motor car industry is in bad shape. But is it? 1930 is well ahead of all other years, excepting the wild, incomparable 1929, and that other peak period, 1926. So the industry is having one of its best years. Congratulations!

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, June 27.—The listed bond market was lackadaisical today. Prices held close to the previous day's level in dull and featureless trading and the volume of sales continued to decline from the peak reached during the heavy selling the forepart of the week.

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, 000 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars.)

N. Y. Reserve Bank Rate Unchanged

NEW YORK, June 27. — The Federal Reserve Bank of New York announced no change in its rediscount rates of 2½ per cent.

To Cut Pennsylvania Crude Output

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

PENNSYLVANIA OIL producers, following the last reduction in prices, have been laying plans to bring production into line with the demand for the product. Members of the Pennsylvania Grade Crude Oil Association met in the William Penn Hotel yesterday to discuss the initial steps in correcting the situation.

Those in attendance at the meeting agreed to co-operate in reducing production to an amount equaling the refinery runs. No definite pro-ration plan was adopted but members of the association believe that a satisfactory curtailment can be reached by the co-operation of all the producers.

The advisability of increasing efforts to advertise the merits of products made from Pennsylvania crude was also discussed. Many producers were of the opinion that the market eventually can be expanded to take care of the production now in sight.

Prices Reduced

PRICES OF THE TOP GRADE of Pennsylvania oil have been reduced $1.90 a barrel since last summer. The present price of $2.20 a barrel compares with last year's high of $4.10 a barrel.

The steady downward trend in prices followed a period of advances lasting during all of 1928 and the early months of 1929. The price was carried up $1.30 a barrel in the face of a generally unsatisfactory market for the oil of other fields.

Market Grows

ADVERTISING OF THE merits of lubricants made from Pennsylvania crude on a nation-wide scale by the association and by individual refiners has resulted in steady gains in the demand for the products. The market for Pennsylvania crude has been expanding at the rate of about 10 per cent a year. It was this increasing demand that was responsible for the sharp upturn in prices which started in 1928.

There has been no decline in the market for Pennsylvania crude. In April the refineries had a record run of 72,000 barrels. The present situation has resulted purely from over-production and not from any reduction in demand. In April production of Pennsylvania crude amounted to 80,000 barrels. More recently the production has been as much as 3,000 barrels a day in excess of demand.

Heavy Drilling Operations

THE ADVANCES IN PRICES two years ago were responsible for widespread increases in drilling activity. South Penn Oil drilled nearly 600 wells last year. Other organizations such as the Sloan and Zook Company greatly increased their production. The perfection of the technique of flooding in the Bradford field was responsible for a large increase in output. The process makes it possible to rework fields formerly thought exhausted by pumping water into part of the wells to force oil out of the remaining holes.

The declines in prices have put the operations of many properties in red ink. This has materially reduced drilling activity so that there is little danger of any marked increase in production during the coming year.

Retail Price Firm

THE LEADING MARKETERS of the nationally advertised lubricants made from Pennsylvania crude have been able to maintain the retail prices of their products. Refinery prices have been sharply cut.

The growing national market has been secured as a result of the superiority claimed for lubricants made from Pennsylvania crude oil.

Department Store Sales Gain in New York

NEW YORK, June 27.—Sales of department stores reporting for May in the New York Federal Reserve district average 5 per cent higher, compared with the same month last year, the New York Federal Reserve Bank monthly review reports. Stocks of merchandise on hand at the end of the month were slightly smaller than a year ago. May sales of reporting wholesale firms, however, showed a decrease of 14 per cent from last year. Total sales of chain stores were below those of April, but slightly larger than those of May last year.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS

Office of Treasurer of Allegheny County, Room 108, Court House Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

In pursuance of the 21st section of an Act relating to Allegheny County," approved the 1st day of May, 1861, and of the amendment to said section, approved the 30th day of March, A. D. 1866, I hereby give notice that the tax duplicates for the several Wards of the Cities of Pittsburgh, McKeesport, Duquesne and Clairton, Boroughs and Townships, will be open, and I will be prepared to receive the County, Road, Poor, Bond interest, etc., Park and Personal Property taxes for the year 1930 on May 1st. Said taxes may be paid during the months of May, June and July only at 5% discount; during August at face, and on and after September 1st the tax plus an added 10% penalty must be paid to the County Delinquent Tax Collector.

Statements will be furnished promptly upon written request, if furnished name, location by Ward in the Cities of Pittsburgh, McKeesport, Duquesne or Clairton, or Boroughs or Townships. If statement of Personal Property or Occupation Tax is desired, give either address also.

Use of the mail is advised for requesting statements and making payment of taxes. Payment may be made in cash at Treasurer's Office, or through mail by Certified Check or Money Order (payable to John Francies, County Treasurer) and mailed to Room 108 Court House, Pittsburgh, Pa., accompanied by stamped and addressed envelope for return of tax statement or receipts.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Positively NO discount will be allowed on taxes not actually received at the Treasurer's Office before the close of business on July 31st, 1930, nor will Taxes at face be received by the County Treasurer after the close of business on August 31st, 1930.

Delay in delivery, by mail or messenger, will not be considered an excuse for nonpayment before expiration of discount or face period for payment.

JOHN FRANCIES,
County Treasurer.

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 27th, 1930.

SEPARATE sealed proposals will be received at the office of the City Controller, First floor, City-County Building, Pittsburgh, Pa., until 10 o'clock a. m. daylight saving time (9 a. m. E. S. T.), Thursday, July 3rd, 1930, and the same will be opened and publicly read one (1) hour later in Council Chamber, building aforesaid, for the furnishing of the following [illegible]

[illegible]

Official—Pittsburgh 111

[illegible] that if it shall become necessary to acquire by condemnation for street purposes any of the property hereinabove agreed to be dedicated by the Company, the City shall at the request of the Company condemn the same and the Company shall in each such case pay all damages and costs of every kind and character involved in said proceeding or proceedings for the acquisition and condemnation of said property.

(a) It is understood that all buildings or structures now located on the land to be acquired and dedicated or caused to be acquired or dedicated for highway purposes by the Company are to be removed at the expense of the Company.

(b) It is understood and agreed that the Company shall not be required to pay the City for property located within the proposed line of any avenue, street, alley or way vacated under the terms of this agreement.

(c) In order to provide for the construction of a subway in the future the Company does hereby agree that it will grant without cost to the City an easement or right-of-way for a street car or rapid transit subway under and across its property located at the southeast corner of Penn avenue and Grant street as relocated and extended by this Agreement, and it is further provided that the Company will locate and construct its improvements, piers and/or foundations adjacent to the lines of the said proposed subway of sufficient depth as required by the City, and so as not to interfere with the construction of the proposed subway, with the approximately Plan No. 2338, described by the signatures of the Chief Engineer of the Company and the Director of the Department of Public Works of the City of Pittsburgh.

Second: The Company agrees to locate and construct a new terminal for the handling of passengers, baggage and express, fronting upon Penn avenue as widened and having its center axis on or about the center of Thirteenth street.

Third: (a) The City agrees to relocate and extend Grant street from a point [illegible] feet southwardly from the southerly line of Seventh avenue to Penn avenue and Slocum way, the lines of which street shall be as follows:

THE EASTERLY LINE shall begin at a point on the present easterly line of Grant street distant [illegible] feet north of the northerly line of Seventh avenue [illegible]

[illegible]

THE WESTERLY LINE shall begin at a point on the present westerly line of Grant street distant [illegible] feet from the northerly line of Seventh avenue [illegible] line of Grant street as extended eastwardly to the southerly line of Liberty avenue as relocated.

[illegible]

(2) Those parts of the following streets and ways which lie between the northerly line of Liberty avenue as at present located and the southerly line of Penn avenue as widened: Slocum way, Twelfth street, Thirteenth street, Fourteenth street, Fifteenth street, Sixteenth street, Seventeenth street and also Twentieth street between the present northerly line of Liberty avenue and the southerly line of Liberty avenue as relocated.

(3) A strip of land of variable width lying along the easterly line of Grant street and extending from Liberty avenue [illegible] feet southwardly therefrom, required for the opening of Grant street provided in said agreement of March 26, 1925.

(4) That portion of Eleventh street of variable width lying north of Penn avenue between the present westerly line of Eleventh street now existing and the westerly line of Eleventh street as relocated.

(b) The City agrees to convey or cause to be conveyed to the Company all that part of the lot east of Fourteenth street and lying south of the southerly line of Penn avenue as widened now owned by the City and occupied by Engine House No. [illegible]

The City covenants to remove or cause to be removed from the streets, avenues, ways and other highways as aforesaid to be vacated by the City, all sewers, water lines, gas lines, conduits, telephone lines [illegible] lines and/or power lines, pipes, wires, tracks and other facilities of every description of the City and of any public service corporation owning, operating and/or maintaining the same or any of them, provided that the company shall indemnify and save harmless the City from all claims and/or damages that may be made against the City because of the relocation or removal of the utilities above mentioned and of all damages that may be awarded against the City by reason of the vacation of any of the streets as provided in this Agreement.

Fourth: The City agrees to grade, pave and curb Eleventh street as relocated, Grant street as extended, Penn avenue as widened, Twentieth street as widened, and the proposed relocated Liberty avenue between Penn avenue and Liberty avenue, and the said proposed new Sixteenth street between Penn avenue and said relocated Liberty avenue and to do and perform all work, including the relocating of city-owned facilities in connection therewith, and the Company shall pay to the City Two Hundred Eighty-Nine Thousand Four Hundred Eleven Dollars ($289,411.00) as its contribution toward the cost of said work as herein provided.

Fifth: The City agrees to pay to the Company the sum of Five Hundred Thirty-five Thousand Dollars ($535,000.00) for property of the Company taken in the relocation of Eleventh street and the relocation of Grant street as extended, as provided in paragraphs (a) and (b) of Section First of this agreement, at the time of the enactment of the necessary legislation providing for the relocation of said streets, in full compensation and satisfaction for the property taken from said Company. Such legislation upon the part of the City shall be enacted not later than May 1, 1931.

Sixth: The City agrees to permit the Company to maintain its tracks and structures supporting the same from the Company's passenger terminal to its bridge over the Allegheny River and to cross Eleventh street as relocated, Penn avenue and Grant street as extended, with its two tracks relocated and with additional tracks, and to construct piers and columns for bridge seats and other columns necessary as located and shown on Plan No. 2338, on file in the Department of Public Works, Bureau of Engineering, Division of Surveys, and the Company shall have the right to extend as necessary subsurface footings within the lines of said streets and avenues under the same conditions as [illegible]

DAILY TRUE STORY

[illegible]

Whenever any of the buyers from the big retail houses in St. Louis, Omaha, Denver, St. Paul or what have you, out in that district, got together and talked shop, which was about buying from the big wholesale houses in New York, someone was sure to ask:

"You know Baumsells?"

If the answer was in the affirmative the questioner would grin, wink and say:

"How about Lingerie Lou?"

And the answer was almost invariably:

"Oh, boy!"

For three years Molla Gringude had been a fixture at Baumsells, only she was known by her stage name, Lou Lovejoy. Molla had been in the chorus. In a dull season she got work with Baumsells, manufacturers of step-ins, not-quite-step-ins, teddys and such and such undies that came under the general head of lingerie.

Before long the Molla Gringude was entirely forgotten. She was known by the name she so cleverly selected, Lou Lovejoy.

And how.

From this she became known as "Lingerie Lou."

Lou could certainly display lingerie. Samples that wouldn't attract one buyer out of ten when counter-displayed would sell like hot-cakes when they were displayed with Lou inside of them.

Baumsell, senior partner, and the Mamma Baumsell both recognized Lou's value.

When the show season picked up and Lou announced that she was going on the road with Number One Dizzy Dames Company, she was asked what her salary would be. She told them honestly enough as it was much more than Braumsell paid.

"I'll give you the same and you stay home and save some money—yes, no?" Baumsell asked.

"Yes," agreed Lou, who could count like a cash register and was never a moment working for her health.

Saves Her Money

So Lou remained and worked not so very many hours and also a little advance in salary and also a great many gentlemen buyers.

Well, they were more or less gentlemen.

But give Lou credit—even the astute women buyers fell for the lingerie when Lou paraded in it. Lou's methods with the women buyers were slightly different—very haughty, as though she were quite above being so common as to feel self-conscious in such intimate raiment—her air was, "One wears it—and that's that."

With the men buyers Lou edged out like a shy little thing, her exquisite figure reminding one of the lines in the poem of the just maturing girl:

"Standing with reluctant feet
Where the brook and river meet."

Man, did they fall for it?

You know they did, else how would so astute a girl as Lou be working at Baumsells for three and a half years and be now getting ninety each and every week?

Is it true, you ask, that these model girls—or should it be expressed as "girl models?"—is it true that they are expected to go out of evenings with the more or less gentlemen buyers?

It may or may not be true that they are expected to go out with them, but it is true enough that they do.

Lou went.

It didn't take her more than half a season, with kindly tips from the other girls and from Mr. Blaumsell, to know which invitations to turn down with really pathetic regret and which ones to accept.

Lou accepted the invitations from the generous buyers.

She had a nice little collection of jewelry and furs. And one would have been surprised at the number of gifts Lou turned right back into cash and salted away with the more than half of her salary.

Lou knew that she really wasn't Lou Lovejoy, or even Lingerie Lou. She was really Molla Gringude. She wouldn't remain young and she wouldn't retain her slim little figure. There was Mamma Gringude and Auntie Fredda, both had been very slight and very shapely when they were her age, and now look at them!

"Whoops!" Lou said to herself, "I've got to save."

And she did.

From Omaha came one Max Schheller, buyer for the Oppman stores.

Young Buyer Warned

Max was one of the lads who, when asked if he knew Lingerie Lou, would sigh, wink and say, "Oh, boy!"

He had often told Mr. Oppman about Lingerie Lou. He did not have her picture. Few men buyers carry home pictures of the model girls—we mean the girl models. But Lou never gave away her pictures. She had reasons. Some day Mister Right Man would gallop up. Did she want a lot of lingerie buyers all over the Middle West to be cherishing her picture? It's a small world. After she became Mister Right Man's wife he might run across some of those pictures and hear some of them say: "That classy little dame! Oh, boy!"

Lou was one wise little girl.

But to get back to Max Scheller and to his employer, Mr. Oppman. Max had often told Oppman about Lou. Max had good descriptive powers.

Came a time when Max was laid up. Rheumatism did it.

Someone had to run on to the Big City and lay in the Oppman stock for the coming season.

Myron Oppman wanted to go.

"Myron," he said, "at Baumsells we get the underwear. They have the best line, and, Myron, listen, there is a girl there—ask any buyer—she's called Lingerie Lou. She's what you call it a peach. Don't be fooled, don't lose your head. Max will tell you, don't get foolish and take her out—it will cost you something—diamonds, perhaps."

"Don't worry," said Myron.

"When the right girl comes along, one of us, you understand, then get generous with the gifts. These Lingerie Lous—watch out. You understand?"

"Sure I understand," Myron declared.

And he did. He understood a great deal. He knew a whole lot.

Falls for Model

So Myron went East and started his buying tour. He was a very able young man, very keen and far-sighted and knew exactly what the Oppman stores needed and what should be paid to insure the proper profits—or more.

"I wonder where is Max Scheller? Look, Mamma, Myron Oppman. A relative of old man Oppman, a good bet?"

Mr. Baumsell personally received Myron and learned that he was the son of Mr. Oppman, his very splendid Omaha customer.

Myron took a look at the lingerie.

It was a shy little girl who started to display by wearing the lingerie. She was in a partly screened-off room. Mrs. Baumsell's little desk was just around the corner.

Myron stared at her and caught his breath.

"Are you—do they call you—I've heard about you," he stammered.

He was hard hit already despite parental warnings.

"Lingerie Lou?" she asked.

"So! You are Lingerie Lou?"

She dimpled and nodded and went out to come back with something else again very sheer and dainty and exposing her beautiful little figure more generously and artistically.

Myron Oppman was disappointed—he had hoped she wasn't Lingerie Lou.

He bought a big bill, but he did not buy recklessly, even under these circumstances.

Then he asked her to go out.

"I'm so sorry," she said.

Mrs. Baumsell, who knew what a good thing it was to have the son of a big store owner in person as buyer, came into view.

"Perhaps, if you could break a date—it might be nice to go with Mr. Oppman," she said.

Myron was grateful as the little beauty dimpled shyly again and agreed.

Myron took her to a show—a revue. He took her to a club, he danced with her and he took her home.

Mistaken Identity

He thought he must be dreaming, for she didn't ask for a thing. She didn't mention furs or diamonds, she didn't hand him any line about having to send a dying mother to the hospital or to send two brothers through college—all the nice old money-getting yarns. She simply thanked him and told him to come to the store next time.

Oppman, Sr., was mightily pleased. Much of the stuff had already been sent on. More was coming.

But Myron didn't seem the same at all.

Finally he went to his father, man-like.

"That Lingerie Lou, father—she is the most beautiful girl in the world. I took her out; she didn't ask for a thing. I guess you'll be mad, but I've got to go back. I've got to make her marry me—I've got to have her."

"Oi!" said Poppa Oppman, and then hastily, to cover this break he had been trying to outgrow, "Tch—tch—too bad. I'll go back with you, we shall see."

Myron would have preferred to go alone, but he was so pleased over the nice way his father took it that he said no more.

Poppa Oppman had his plans.

When they arrived at Baumsells he went directly up, Myron with him. After shaking hands with Baumsell he asked for Lingerie Lou. She came out. He went directly to her.

"My boy thinks he wants to marry you," he said. "I know you don't care two or three pins about him. I'll give you five thousand cash to refuse him. Is it——"

"Father, she isn't Lingerie Lou!" Myron managed to shout to him.

"I am, too. Who's the crazy old geezer and who are you?" Lingerie Lou demanded.

"You aren't Lingerie—Ooops, there she is!"

Myron made a dash over to Mamma Baumsell's desk and grabbed a girl's hand.

"Oh, forgive me. This is my daughter, Mr. Oppman. Do you know, when you was here our Lingerie Lou was out sick and I was afraid we would be shorthanded and I got Rosa to work for the day. You thought she was Lingerie Lou. Should she tell you and disappoint a good customer? And you were so gentlemanly. Me and Poppa followed you that night, too—such a fine young gentleman. You and your Poppa come home to dinner tonight."

Two years later Lingerie Lou (Mollie Gringude) married a house painter named Larsen.

But by this time Myron and Rosa had been married 18 months.

Congressman Porter's Death Is World's Loss

To countless thousands the death of Congessman Stephen G. Porter means the loss of a genial friend. Probably everyone who was acquainted with him will feel that way about it. But of course his passing has a far deeper significance.

It is not too much to say that Mr. Porter's death is a real loss to the whole world, and creates a vacancy that will not easily and may not quickly be filled. What is referred to is the fact that he was the leading figure of international prominence in the battle to free humanity from the curse of opium.

He had rendered many other notable services to his country and to mankind, but it was for his warfare on narcotics that he will be longest remembered—at least outside of Pittsburgh.

Here in his home town we need nothing else to keep his memory green but the recollection of the innumerable kindly services that he rendered, as occasion offered, to nearly everyone that needed his help.

Tax Receipt Decision Aids Honest Elections

In deciding a tax receipt issued for election purposes to a citizen who did not pay the tax himself was illegal, and did not entitle the recipient to vote, Judge James H. Gray has struck a hard blow against a vicious practice that has played no small part in the victories of Pittsburgh's political gangs. It is a momentous decision and one, it is hoped, that will end forever the system by which the bosses have been able to control elections.

The practice has been to obtain the names of controllable citizens who had not paid or were not likely to pay the occupation or poll tax, pay the taxes for them, obtain the receipts without which one cannot vote, and issue them to the persons concerned. In this way the bosses have been able to bring to the polls thousands of voters who, if they had to depend on their own unaided efforts, would not qualify. It has been the customary thing for decades for ward chairmen and others to do this, and the surprising thing is that the practice has not been successfully challenged in the courts and ended long before this.

Judge Gray's ruling should go a long way towards safeguarding the purity of the ballot and the honesty of our elections, without which the whole scheme of our national government fails. It is a clear, forceful opinion, in which decent citizens will concur.

Los Angeles Town Hall Still Unfinished Is Rented

Pittsburgh Waits for Auditorium While Servants Dilly-Dally.

Eugene C. Eppley, hotel man, discussing the need of a town hall, cited the case of Los Angeles, building such a structure. Although it will not be completed until next year, Mr. Eppley states that it already has been leased at an annual rental of $300,000.

Meanwhile Pittsburgh waits, although the voters of the county, at the polls, ordered the County Commissioners two years ago to build it. They haven't even selected a site.

Is the Town Hall project to be a repetition of the postoffice, hanging fire for 20 years?

That is something entirely out of our control, and the delay represents no lack of civic enterprise with us. But the Town Hall is another matter. We will be held to blame for that shortcoming by visitors here from other cities. They will not know the people ordered a Town Hall built and that the people's servants are guilty of gross neglect in the matter.

No, they will not know these things. They will merely go away, shaking their heads and reflecting that Pittsburgh is a one-horse town. We know that is wrong. We know our people are as progressive as those anywhere and that they want to do what is right by visitors.

But what can we do with public servants who simply dilly-dally!

The New Judges

Fisher's Appointments Give Satisfaction.

The comment of attorneys and others whose opinions are valuable, on the appointment of Joseph Stadtfeld and Sylvester J. Snee as judges of the Court of Common Pleas, to fill the vacancies caused by the resignation of Judge John A. Evans and the death of Judge Josiah Cohen, is favorable. The appointments have given general satisfaction.

The esteem in which Mr. Stadtfeld is held is indicated by the fact that he was elected president of the Bar Association several years ago. Judge Snee has a creditable record of service on the bench of the County Court.

The naming of these two men by Gov. John S. Fisher may be classed as among the better acts of his administration.

Sun Tan Fashionable?

Get It Outdoors If Possible.

The American Association of Cosmeticians and Hair Artists tells ladies that "sun tan" is out of fashion. A bright, ruddy complexion, very bright and ruddy, is the thing.

Such a complexion you can get easily in drug stores or, painfully, by living wisely and remaining young.

However, sun tan will not go out of fashion in spite of cosmeticians. Sun tan means California, Florida and leisure, and is always fashionable.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

The Higher the Fewer

Opinions on the high tariff are as divided as swag in a bank robbery.

We were smothered in prosperity 10 years ago. And forgot to leave one ear out for the telephone.

"Bugs" Baer

Now we must be protected by a high tariff. The bill has been signed, sealed and delivered and if it works as well as the Eighteenth Amendment it should be delivered as a patriotic address to the army of the unemployed.

Senator Squibbus, who misrepresents his sovereign state at all big barbecues, seems to think the whole thing is the business. He says:

"I would do the same thing with whatever the subject happens to be that the Pullman porter did with Mr. Taft when Mr. Taft was President. I would give it a wide berth."

The advantage of being a Senator is that nobody knows whether you are wearing underwear or whether you have just franked it home at government expense.

Congressman Ouch, from New Dakota, took his fountain pen from his non-refillable pocket and wrote:

"The tariff is a Republican measure. And when a Republican measures anything you know it is with a two-foot yardstick."

This wasn't Congressman Ouch's last thought on the tariff. Congressman Ouch had his last thought about 30 years ago.

The biggest lobbygow in the sacred halls of legislation was perfectly willing to talk on the tariff and its ultimate relation to the fat cost of thin living. He said:

"The tariff is a terrible thing. It makes a postcard from Paris look like first class mail. It will protect the working man like an oyster cracker defends an oyster. After a potato is peeled you cannot repeal it."

The ponderous thought of three great men on such a subject is indicative of the great waves of remorse running through the outlying districts.

We intend to get up a monster petition among the Campfire Girls of America in an effort to permit the Statue of Liberty to lay down that torch for a while or to present her with another torch for the left hand to balance it.

America has now a high protective wall around it. Nobody can get in. Nobody can get out. All the stepladders are made of spaghetti, and the only way to obtain a legitimate business is to turn smuggler.

COSMIC RADIATION

By Archibald Henderson

Is the universe a mere fortuitous concourse of atoms? Have things arranged themselves in their present state as the result of chance? Our scientific ancestors would have answered these questions in the affirmative. Scientists so late as half a century ago believed in an accidental theory of the universe. Contemporary science is changing all that. We think of the universe now, not in terms of atoms, but in terms of radiation.

Entropy is one of the great factors in the making of the universe. Entropy is a practical measure of the random element which can increase in the universe, but can never decrease. Eddington maintains that this law—that entropy always increases—maintains the supreme position among the laws of Nature. There can be no decrease of the random element. The method of entropy is universal in its application. It is concerned, not with the nature of the individual, but with the individual only as a component of a crowd.

Suppose we start with a fortuitous concourse of ingredients. After a sufficient time had elapsed, these must reach a state which the physicist describes as a "condition of maximum entropy." For the sake of conciseness, we may call this the "final state." The clock wound up would be the original state, for example; the clock run down would be the final state.

In the universe we concern ourselves now with radiation, and secondarily with atoms — with both. These are the ingredients with which we have to work. The question is one of a bet, for instance; we wager odds against a certain event happening. Now exact mathematical calculation shows that, granting the existence of atoms and the phenomena of radiation, the odds against even a single atom, which is capable of dissolving into radiation, remaining undissolved is unbelieveably great. The odds are about 10 raised to the 420,000,000,000 power, to one. The universe is far from being in its final state, since we know that there still exist a great number of undissolved atoms.

Now let us try to find the odds against the present division of the total energy of the universe into atoms and radiation being fortuitous. It turns out to be the same vast number as that given above.

Everything then points, as Jeans says, and points with irresistible force, to a definite event, or series of events, of creation at some time or times, not infinitely remote. As he puts it in "Eos":

The universe cannot have originated by chance out of its present ingredients, and neither can it have been always the same as now. For in either of these events no atoms would be left to save such as are incapable of dissolving into radiation; there would be neither sunlight nor starlight, but only a cool glow of radiation uniformly diffused through space.

This is, indeed, so far as present-day science can see, the final end toward which all creation moves, and at which it must, at long last, arrive.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

An indignant parent writes:

"Why won't modern young people listen to their elders?"

"When I was young," he laments, "we always sought our fathers and mothers for advice and listened respectfully to anything they had to say. We knew that they were far wiser than we were and that they would always advise us for our best good. But not so nowadays. Respect has vanished from the home. The average high school graduate thinks he knows more than his own parents, and he treats their opinions with amused condescension, if not open contempt!"

Why won't modern young people listen to their elders?

Because, my friend, their elders are all too often not worth listening to!

Why does the high school youngster think he knows more than his parents?

Because, unfortunately, he frequently does!

These are not comforting answers to give pestered and peeved parents, but they are true. And Truth is the only antidote for either a pester or a peeve.

What do the average parents, between 30 and 45 years of age, give their questioning youngsters? They give up to the minute love and service. But when it comes to instruction, guidance and companionship, they give information, standards and attitudes that are 15 years out of date. For these parents learned their stuff in a pre-war world.

It was a nice world—comfortable, uncomplicated. Children stayed at home because there was no place to go outside that home. They accepted their parents' opinions unquestioningly because there were no other opinions to accept. And, generally speaking, parents were fairly well informed because there was very little to be informed about.

But that most convenient world has gone—and the simple pattern of that world has gone with it. No longer is there No Place Like Home, Sweet Home. There are scores of places as sweet as the average home—and much more stimulating to the average offspring.

There are hundreds of people who are better informed and often nicer mannered than the average mother or father. Parents had no competition in 1900. In 1930 they have nothing but.

Keeping up with Willy is today a full time job. For Willy is facing Reality. The Reality of 1930 versus the Sentimentality of 1900. He may and probably will make a mess of it. But at any rate he's facing it, and he needs a hand. Can the average parent give him that hand? The four walls of an office—and a bunch of ideas that smell of moth balls.

Why doesn't the modern youngster listen to Mother and Dad? That's why.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

The reason why people get disgraced by what their little kids say to the neighbors is that the kids haven't any better sense than to tell the truth.

Arthur was a kid like that. One day he was with his parents for a Saturday visiting some friends in the country. At dinner the kid was hungry. The older folks got interested in talking about bridge and farm relief and they almost forgot Arthur. But the hostess wanted to be nice, when the meal was over, and she stepped over to help Arthur out of his chair. He was kinda crowded in between two oldsters at a corner of the table.

"Did you have plenty room, Arthur?" she says.

"Why, yes, plenty," he says. "I've got some room left even. About enough room for another piece of cake, I reckon."

Life's Coins

I have in my hand
Bright coins to spend;
Shall I bargain for land
Or ships . . . . or a friend?

I could buy just a touch
Of the glamor of fame,
(It is prized overmuch, Swiftly gone, as it came).

Shall I spend time and toil,
(For my coins are these)
For a bit of earth's soil—
Of its honors or ease?

Shall I give them for trust
And the warmth of love's fire?
Is it dream . . . is it dust
That I greatly desire?

In my hand, closely pressed,
Are life's coins to spend,
And the thing I love best
Will be mine in the end.

Text For Today The Lord is good, a stronghold in the day of trouble; and he knoweth them that trust in him.—Nahum i:17.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS

In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

We remark for example that in both cases the first hybrid generation is uniform, while the second is varied and includes the parental types. The difference is that in the second generation of mulattos instead of the three simple classes, reds, pinks and whites of the Four-o'clock, we get every conceivable shade of blackness.

The shades vary widely in the same family; there are never any whole large families simply intermediate between the tints of the parents. How is this to be explained?

H. G. Wells

Let us suppose that instead of one gene-pair, as in the Four-o'clock, the original black and white parents differed in three or four independently assorting skin-color gene-pairs.

Let us suppose also that each gene contributes a little quota of blackness, so that the color of an individual depends on the number of black-producing and white-producing genes he carries.

The first cross-bred generation will be exactly half-way between the two parents in tint, because half his color-genes are black, from the Negro parent, and half are white from the 100 per cent "Caucasian" parent.

In the next generation, by the usual Mendelian reasoning it can be shown a priori that there will be all sorts of mixtures and combinations; and that is exactly what is found.

There will be a few with white genes only—a very small minority. And an approximately equal minority with black genes only. The majority will have black and white mixed in various proportions, the likelihood of any tint turning up being the greater, the nearer it is to half-way mulatto color.

And this is what an extensive statistical examination of colored population shows to be the case.

We need not go into all the exact technical details of this research.

We will only note this, that Mendelian principles can still be detected at work here, and that the black and white genes do not mix together but retain their independence in the mixed stock. We are dealing with shuffled genes, not with "mixed blood."

It is perfectly possible that a pure white, or a pure Negro, could spring from one of the early generations of such a cross. It is of course extremely unlikely. In the matter of skin color alone about one in sixty-four (or if four instead of three separate genes are at work, about one in two hundred and fifty-six) of the second cross-bred generation will be pure white and one pure black.

Moreover, there are other genes at work controlling the shape of the features, the voice, the characters of the hair and so on, so that the chance of a full-blooded Negro, or of a pure-bred white turning up is exceedingly slight indeed. But it exists for all that.

The marriage of two individuals near the same end of the scale increases this likelihood. One of the most active members of the movement in defense of the rights of colored people might pass anywhere for a Scandinavian blond. He has an unquestionable colored pedigree on both sides, but in the South, where various racial social distinctions are made between the races, he has great difficulty in refusing treatment as a "White." Hotel clerks and train conductors will not believe it of him.

This sort of inheritance, by teams of co-operating genes, or the Multiple Genes, as they are called, is very important in Nature.

Wherever a series of graded types appear in a cross we are dealing with multiple genes. In our own species a number of characters are inherited in this way.

For example, the inheritance of stature and weight, of the tendency of corpulence, even perhaps of temperament, are due to Multiple Genes.

ON THE ATLANTIC

By O. O. McIntyre

ON THE ATLANTIC, June 27.—All the songbirds are flying from America to their native lands, consequently the ship's concert—usually a terrific yawn—was musically an event. Such singers as Giovanni Martinelli, Metropolitan tenor, shivered the ship's timbers with booming notes.

There were also Pavel Ludikar, Metropolitan basso; Antonin Trantoul, French tenor; Alexandre Kurganoff, of the Philadelphia opera; Pierre Luboshutz, pianist; Jean Bedetti, cellist of the Boston Symphony; Paul Kochanski, violinist; Maria Kurenko, soprano, and Maurice Yvain, composer of "My Man" and "Ta Bouche."

Each responded freely and the suave Henry Sell, as master of ceremonies, collected $800 — a record amount — which will be turned over to the charity fund for seamen's orphans. I have somehow always believed these orphans breakfast on caviar and played with jeweled toys, judging from the huge sums raised for them.

But I am told the money is judicially and wisely expended. The most poignant lines ever written, I think, were those penned by Pierre Loti in his "Pecheurs d'Islande" as a glowing tribute to the widows and orphans of the brave men who go down to sea in ships. It reads:

"And all the hours of the day passed, one after another, and all the hours of the evening, and all the hours of the night, and all the hours of the morning. As she counted the days when he ought to have been back, a wild terror seized upon her. She did not want anymore to know either the dates or the names of the days."

I am told, too, that the financial plight of the majority of grand opera stars this year is similarly tragic. With few exceptions they were caught in the market crash—innumerable completely wiped out and in debt. And with the popularity of grand opera at a low ebb, the future is dark. But they twittered magnificently.

In a few hours the good ship will be warped to the dock at Le Havre and those of us from back home will be "vulgar foreigners." It has been the smoothest crossing ever experienced, and if I don't neglect to pack the lower section of a pair of silk pajamas or something, I am content. And may come again.

My irrepressible pooch, Billy, has a morning habit at home of leaping to the middle of the floor, stretching and yawning something that sounds like "Yee-oo-or-ork," rolling over and over and scooting himself along on his back. But the roll of the ship cramps his style. He makes the effort, sits on one haunch mystified and cocks his head quizzically like the dog in the talking machine ad. Sometimes I think he is positively ridiculous.

One of those crisp talking bankers met Edna Ferber the other morning and tactlessly observed: "I have read about 40 pages in your novel 'Cimarron' and don't like it at all." Miss Ferber offered sympathy and walked on. This morning he stopped her again and in a gale of enthusiasm said the book had kept him up all night—proving so enthralling. Miss Ferber, by the way, strikes one as a most unusual New York literary celebrity. She has not only never met Texas Guinan, but has never seen her.

* * *

At lunch today I overheard one of the Palm Beach chatterers who speaks of America as "the states" talking to a very British couple at a near-by table. He was one of those garrulous whelps with an Argentine slick to his hair and a flair for loud talking and boasting. When he left the table, they winked at each other, nor do I blame them. On the other hand the winking couple can have—with love and kisses—the silly ass from perfidious, old Albion who sits near us in the lounge every evening smoking a pipe that smells like a last year paste bucket.

A non-alcoholic tipple on this boat I never tasted in America is mint tea—an oolong with mint flavor. It is soothing for stomachs likely to be agitated by Miss Atlantic's permanent wave. Or rather—I'm in French waters now—ondulation permanante.

I acted as referee, wearing spats and everything, this afternoon at a boxing bout on the second class deck between two sailors—Gunner Bob and Slugger Dupuis. The Gunner knocked The Slugger as stiff as Martinelli's pompadour in 34 seconds. And when Dupuis struggled up he kissed The Gunner on both cheeks. Marvelous manners—the French!

* * *

The ship is slowly nosing into the Havre slip and all the boys and girls on the ship who helped us in crossing are standing at attention in the companionway—palms up.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

You wish that people might understand you.

You know that your reputation has suffered due to certain actions of yours which you did not consider in the light of any of the violations of society.

The regular routine of orderly society palls.

You want folks to think you independent in thought and action.

You are not averse to creating, as you call it, "a little mild sensation."

The boundaries you set for yourself are liberal in dimensions—too wide for the one who cares for the good opinion of society.

Your motives are not bad, but they create a false and bad impression as you carry out your plans.

But you feel that if people really knew you well enough they would not censure you.

You forget that your actions may be the very reason why many persons do not wish to know you well or otherwise.

You must avoid the appearance of evil if you would not be misjudged.

No matter what you think of yourself, it is the side you present to others that counts in the good or bad opinion of those with whom you would like to be popular.
